AIDE OF CAROL GIVEN FREEDOM BY 3-TO-2 VOTE

"This Is Beginning of New Era of Liberty," Says Manoilescu, After Verdict Rendered.

HAD EXPECTED TO BE CONVICTED

Carol's Friend and Letter-Bearer Wins Sympathy of Thousands With Impassioned Oratory.

Bucharest, Rumania, November 15. (AP)—Mihail Manoilescu was acquitted early this morning by a court-martial of five judges, who voted three to two to set him free.

Manoilescu was charged with conspiracy to bring former Crown Prince Carol back to Rumania and to restore to him his rights of succession to the throne.

The acquittal of the formal undersecretary of state was greeted with tremendous cheers.

"This is the beginning of a new era of liberty in Rumania," said Manoilescu, who a few minutes previously had told the correspondent of The Associated Press that he expected to be convicted.

The court-martial of Carol's friend and bearer of letters and other documents from the former crown prince to leaders of the various parties in Bucharest was the sensation of the past week. Manoilescu, himself, by his brilliant oratory won the sympathy and support of the thousands who swarmed about the precincts of the little courtroom, where the proceedings were carried on. More than 100 prominent lawyers hastened to the aid of the accused man and many of them gave their services at the trial.

The prosecutor demanded the full penalty for what he termed a conspiracy against the state, which would have been five years' imprisonment. Long after midnight, Manoilescu's lawyers still were pleading for his liberation. One of them, M. Mihalache, drew the wrath of the court by declaring:

"Our present system is balanced on the sharp edge of a sword. If it be the wish of the people, Prince Carol may return not only as regent, but as king. One can stem a rivulet, but not a river. One can repress the wishes of the government, but not the will of the people."

100 BULGARIANS REPORTED SLAIN

Reign of Terror Put Under Way After Unidentified Persons Kill Rumanian on Frontier.

Vienna, November 14.—(United News.)—Chares of a reign of terror in the Rumanian district of Dobrudscha in which more than 100 Bulgarians have been killed were transmitted today by the official Bulgarian telegraph agency.

The United News has no confirmation of the charges. The Bulgarian agency attributes the reports to Sofia newspapers.

A reign of "torture and inquisition" is described by the reports.

The "terror" began after unidentified persons had killed a Rumanian, it Rumania obtained the Dobrudsha was declared. The dispatch said the villages of Kazmir and Sarsanlar were among those affected.

Finances Assured, Work on Viaducts Will Begin Monday

Contract for Lowering of Railroad Tracks Signed; All Preliminary Steps Concluded.

MAYOR APPROVES POWER CO. PACT

Construction of Bridges to Start Shortly After Completion of Drawings on January 1.

With all legal steps concluded and financing of the projects assured by action of railroad and city officials Monday, actual excavation preparatory to depression of tracks over which the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts will be erected can be begun next Monday.

This announcement was made Monday night after all contracts between the state, railroads and the city had been formally signed and the formal contract with the Brooks-Callaway company, the firm to which work of lowering the railroad tracks was let, was also signed by interested officials.

In addition, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale approved a measure passed by city council and the aldermanic board providing that the Georgia Power company shall contribute $400,000 to assure proper and adequate financing of the projects. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the company, is out of the city, but it is said he indicated before leaving that he would sanction the proposal if it was approved by the mayor.

While work of lowering the tracks is in progress, Walter F. Schulz, of Memphis, consulting engineer and architect, will rush detailed drawings for the bridges proper. They will be completed about January 1, and actual work on them started shortly thereafter, according to city officials.

City and railroad officials Monday were gratified that the contracts permitting start of the projects have been ratified by interested parties. They expressed pleasure that the projects can be begun and pushed to rapid and unimpeded completion, and estimated that both projects should be finished before June, 1929.

Company Is Ready.

Details incident to starting the construction program, the first to be begun from funds provided in the $8,000,000 bond issue authorized nearly two years ago, will require the remainder of the week, according to a joint statement of J. R. Hill, president of the N., C. & St. L. railway.

Insurance Firm Owns 'Death Farm'

Representative Says Fuller, Renter, Has Fled With Belongings from Scene.

Atlanta's own "death farm" is owned by a life insurance company.

This ironic twist was given the history of the dismal plot which provided the burial ground for one negro and which is asserted to be the impromptu cemetery of at least two more black victims of a rum-running feud when a representative of the Standard Life Insurance company Monday told The Constitution that his company, and not L. B. Fuller, was the owner of the property.

Fuller, who was originally supposed to be owner of the forty-acre tract, was merely the renter and that he had surrendered his lease and fled with his family chattels, from surroundings that suddenly became notorious, according to the agent of the

AT BAR OF JUSTICE

George Remus, once known as "King of Bootleggers," and self-confessed slayer of his wife, is snapped acting as his own attorney in court in Cincinnati, Ohio. His trial began yesterday.

NEW OIL MYSTERY WITNESS CALLED

Stranger From Philadelphia Is Closeted With Federal Attorneys for Hour.

Score of Indictments in Oil Case Seen

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, November 14.—Rumors that a score or more persons are to be named in indictments charging conspiracy to tamper with the Teapot Dome trial jury or with perjury and subornation of perjury were current today following the shortest session of the grand jury since the Sinclair-Fall jury fixing scandal broke.

That the indictments are imminent was indicated when the grand jury recessed until Tuesday morning after hearing only two brief witnesses, and in the further announcement that William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective agency, with his two sons, Raymond and Sherman Burns, who are to testify Tuesday morning, probably will be the last witnesses called.

Washington, November 14.—(AP)—Another man of mystery appeared today against William J. Burns and his detectives, who shadowed the Fall-Sinclair trial jury, but his identity as well as his connection with the case was carefully guarded by the federal attorneys.

adelphia with McMullin in the latter's automobile; was closeted with government counsel for nearly an hour and then left the District of Columbia supreme court with a government agent and under strict injunctions not to talk.

He probably will go before the grand jury tomorrow.

The secrecy which the prosecutors threw about the new witness convinced the observers that his testimony is regarded as of high importance in corroborating if not extending that already given by McMullin against Burns, his son, W. Sherman Burns, and the Burns operatives.

Session Brief.

Opening the third week of its inquiry, the grand jury was in session only a brief time today and heard only two witnesses, William J. Burns and his sons, W. Sherman, and W. Raymond who came to the courthouse and finally obtained permission to go before the grand jury tomorrow under certain stipulations as to their testimony.

These stipulations were not made public, but government counsel said the elder Burns would not be per-

GEORGE REMUS BEGINS BATTLE TO SAVE LIFE

GIVEN CONTROL OF DOCUMENTS

Papers Carried by His Wife on Day He Killed Her May Win Life for Former Bootlegger.

BY MARTIN SOMMERS.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 14.—George Remus, the whisky midas, celebrated his 53rd birthday today by beginning a fight to prevent this from being his last birthday. He took the vanishing sands of his life into his own hands—the little hands that transformed 1,000,000 gallons of liquor into $75,000,000 in a few years.

And after the first day of his fight to save himself from the electric chair for the murder of Imogene Holmes Remus, the former parlor maid who rose to be his queen of bootleggers, there were few in the motley courtroom gathering who believed Remus could be defeated.

The fat little man, his gimlet eyes of cold blue watching the passing parade of talesmen, was master; he was master just as he was when he was leading hundreds of the toughest gunmen of America in his far-flung rum enterprises.

Acts As Own Attorney.

There was nothing of the prisoner about him. He was once a lawyer and, given the privilege of acting as his own attorney today, he showed no humility as he rose and pleaded with Judge Chester R. Shook, young jurist and former newsboy, for the return of documents now held by relatives of his murdered wife.

"The motion is granted, Mr. Remus," Judge Shook said. And George Remus had won his first skirmish.

Through the decision, the former king of bootleggers recovers the two little brown suitcases of the Remus trial—which probably will figure as importantly as the little black bag in the Teapot Dome fiascos.

It is charged by the state that Remus cold-bloodedly murdered his wife because she was taking the contents of those two little suitcases to divorce court. Within the suitcases is evidence that Remus committed the murder of an Ohio sheriff, the prosecution contends.

Success for Remus.

Thus, through winning the motion

L. S. U. GRIDIRON STARS EXPELLED

Eight Students, Three of Them Football Players, Are Fired Following Hazing Probe.

Baton Rouge, La., November 14.—(AP)—Eight Louisiana State university students, including three varsity football players, were expelled from the institution today for their alleged participation in hair cutting of freshmen last Tuesday night.

Those expelled, according to a notice posted on the bulletin board, are:

G. A. Freeman, Natchitoches, star tackle and end on the football squad; T. D. Holden, Picayune, Miss., end; Austin F. Akin, Haynesville, back; L. E. Haik, Bogalusa, scrub player; J. R. Hebert, of Milton; John W. Pollard, Leesville; F. C. Rateliff, Slidell, and R. W. Reeder, of Wichita Falls, Texas.

The expulsion order was signed by President T. W. Atkinson and Dean Walter Prichard on recommendation of Major W. E. Brougher, commandant of cadets, who is investigating the hair cutting. The commandant is continuing the investigation.

The investigation began immediately with the appearance on the university campus of the freshman class, all of whom were shorn of their locks. When brought up for questioning by authorities of the institution last week, the students with but few exceptions, declared they were asleep when their hair was cut and unable to identify the wielders of the shears.

M. J. Donahue, athletic director and head football coach, was doing all in his power tonight to discourage rumored sympathetic action on the part of the student body, declaring that the men had best "take their medicine," and that "football players have no business being mixed up in anything like this."

"The rest of the student body," Coach Donahue said, "could only make matters worse by attempting any forlorn action. The men brought it on themselves and their loss will be a blow to the football team—but it won't be a fatal one," adding "we'll have a football team on the field Thanksgiving day."

The dismissal notices bore no other explanation than "for participation in hair clipping."

OGLETHORPE DRIVE TO MATCH LUPTON DONATION STARTS

50 University Representatives at Initial Meeting, Confident of Raising Necessary $250,000.

Citizens of Atlanta Called by University

Membership on one of the most important of the four committees created Monday for the campaign to match the $250,000 gift to Oglethorpe university of Thomas J. Lupton, of Chattanooga, is offered citizens of Atlanta by those heading the campaign.

Oglethorpe seeks men and women for the citizens committee and asks that all those who will aid in obtaining the balance of the $500,000 needed by Oglethorpe university meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of the Winecoff hotel at 12:30 o'clock Friday. Those who will help in this work are requested to telephone J. B. Coppedge, chairman of the committee, at telephone Hemlock 6969.

Oglethorpe university Monday answered Thomas J. Lupton, of Chattanooga, donor of $250,000 to the university, provided Atlanta would match the sum with an equal amount, when about 50 persons, members of the faculty, alumni, members of the board of directors, friends of the institution and business men, gathered at the Winecoff hotel and enthusiastically opened the campaign and started the organization of committees, which it is confidently expected will make possible the acceptance of Mr. Lupton's generous gift and the additional quarter of a million dollars which he is certain Atlanta will provide.

The goal of the campaign is $500,000, of which amount Mr. Lupton has given the first $250,000. The balance of $250,000 will be obtained by the committees and the campaign organization in Atlanta.

JURY WILL PROBE DYNAMITING TODAY

Shaw Will Present Evidence in Blasting of Negro Homes; Will Seek Indictments.

Evidence in the recent series of dynamiting of negro homes will be laid before the Fulton county grand jury today, Detective Lieutenant T. D. Shaw, who has been investigating the outrages, announced Monday night. The blasts which have spread a reign of terror in colored neighborhoods were culminated by the blast which early Saturday morning wrecked the home of Oscar Ward, 380 Gray street, sending Ward and his wife to the hospital in serious condition.

While Lieutenant Shaw declined to reveal the nature of the evidence he will place before the grand jury, he intimated Monday that the identities of the dynamiters and those responsible for the blasts were known to him, and that he would seek their indictment.

Solicitor John A. Boykin questioned Monday on the subject disclaimed all knowledge of Lieutenant Shaw's proposed action, saying that the officer had not yet approached him on the subject. He stated, however, that if the evidence of Lieutenant Shaw warranted it, he would immediately prepare a true bill for presentation to the present session of the grand jury.

Many of the fires, supposedly of incendiary origin, that have been epidemic recently in negro quarters of the city, are under investigation by the police and several of them are believed to have been started by dynamite blasts similar to that which Saturday wrecked the home of Ward.

GERMAN-POLISH WORKMEN'S PACT CUTS IMMIGRATION

Berlin, November 14.—(AP)—A German-Polish agreement regulating the social and legal status of approximately 100,000 Polish workmen in Germany, the majority of whom are employed as growers of beet sugar, was initiated today.

Under the agreement illegal immigration between both countries will be stopped and the possibility of political conflict which annually threatened to force the Polish workers back to Poland will be eliminated.

"Shoot To Kill" Orders Given To Bar Looting

:: BALL OF FIRE SWEEPS PITTSBURGH SECTION ::

Pittsburgh, Pa., November 14.—(United News.)—The main cog in Pittsburgh's great industrial machine lies in ruins, bloodstained and water-soaked.

Here and there parts of bodies are found.

Homes and factories are reduced to debris.

Fire stations, police stations and auditoriums house 5,000 homeless persons. The Red Cross and Salvation Army are feeding them.

One hour after Pittsburgh went to work today a ball of fire swept a section of the industrial district. Two explosions were heard.

Men and women fell to the street. Above them was the specter of flame and smoke.

Automobiles were overturned, plate glass windows were shattered and flew in all directions. Skyscrapers rocked in what government weather officials atop the highest building described as similar to an earthquake shock.

"Old Allegheny," as the north side is known, was the finest factory section of the city. There every necessity was made—clothing, food, materials with which to build homes and fixtures to furnish them. On the very border of the devastated area stands a mammoth coffin plant. It did not entirely escape the blast.

Tonight men waded through mud and blood-soaked streets with caskets in which to remove mangled bodies. Fate left the coffin plant standing, but windows were broken and even a few of the coffin makers were cut and bruised.

Crawling under great masses of crumbled stone, brick and steel beams, police and firemen groped all night beneath the wrecked plants and homes. In cellars they found fully 18 feet of water, sent flooding there by the bursting of water mains. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith said it would be days before the dark tomb of ruins would give up all its dead.

As rescuers waded into the night a lad of not more than ten years staggered into their midst crying for his parents. He was on his way to school when a wave of water swept him from his feet. He escaped, but his home is gone and so are his parents.

Men are grappling in cellars of wrecked building with hooks, hoping to bring up bodies.

A community once well lighted, a continuation of Pittsburgh's "white way," is dark and dismal, save for rescue torches or the flashlight of a patrolling ex-service volunteer, who is again, for all appearance, amid the ruins of France on lone sentry duty.

"Shoot to kill" was the order given by Safety Director James M. Clark to police who were sent out to prevent looting.

Theaters are closed on the north side. Everyone has responded to the call for volunteers. No one has time nor desire for entertainment.

In one building 82 men were employed. Some fled to safety, how many the employers did not know. The plant now lies in ruins. It has given up a few dead. Other similar plants collapsed like matchboxes. Steeplejacks scaled shaky walls and girders and aided firemen in throwing down menacing ruins.

Realizing the enormity of the disaster, Governor John S. Fisher tendered to Mayor Charles F. Kline the unlimited aid of the state. Word was received here that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon had left Washington to come home. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis here, former Governor Gifford Pinchot also is here.

Tuesday those men of national standing will visit the ruins with Mayor Kline.

The Red Cross has added $3,000 to relief funds.

GREAT BUILDINGS RIVEN BY BLAST OF NATURAL GAS

5,000 HOMELESS FOLLOWING BLAST

Property Damage Will Run Into Millions of Dollars—Hundreds Are Reported Injured.

Pittsburgh, Pa., November 14.—(United News.)—Twenty-eight known dead, 16 reported missing, 5,000 homeless and property damage mounting into millions of dollars resulted today from the explosion of 5,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas in the heart of Pittsburgh's manufacturing district.

The tank in which the gas was stored blew up with such force that factories and dwellings for blocks around collapsed as though they had been made of strawboard. More than 12 hours later Pittsburgh still was without accurate measure of the disaster's terrible toll.

Rescue Workers Busy.

The army of rescue workers who toiled throughout the night by the flickering glare of oil and carbide torches believed that the number of missing eventually would be added to the list of dead.

Water from broken mains had flooded every basement in the district. In these dark caverns beneath ruined buildings the rescuers believed they would find additional bodies.

Late tonight volunteers concentrated their efforts on the basement of the plant of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot company, where it was believed a number of bodies would be found.

Suction Pumps Used.

Suction pumps manned by relay squads were unable to lower the 18-foot level of the water. Seepage from the broken mains kept the basement filled.

While firemen and industrial workers risked their lives groping about under this mountain of twisted steel as high as a three-story building, police and volunteers patrolled the streets to prevent looting.

Mayor Charles H. Kline ordered police magistrates to hold for criminal court without bail any persons believed to be looting. Two arrests were made.

Check-up Difficult.

Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh said the pay roll of the Clay Pot company totaled 300 persons. The only way to arrive at the accurate list of the missing would be to check the pay rolls of the various companies with the homes of the workers. But dozens of the homes were in ruins.

The repair crew of the Riter Con-

AIRMEN HONORED AT WHITE HOUSE

Lindbergh Still Holds Center of Stage—Conqueror of Sea Given Medal by President.

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

Washington, November 14.—(United News.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh still is enshrined in the hearts of American hero worshipers.

This was clearly evidenced at the white house today when President and Mrs. Coolidge gave a luncheon to the trans-oceanic fliers, incidental to awarding Lindbergh the National Geographic society's Hubbard medal at services tonight.

Miss Ruth Elder was there—a perfect picture of charm in an ermine-trimmed coat; Commander Richard Byrd, hero of the North pole flight and of the America's battle with wind and storm across the Atlantic, stood modestly at the side of the distinguished group of aviators; but it was Lindbergh that the crowd strained their necks to see and nearly mobbed in their enthusiasm. "Lindy" was the name they shouted packed deep before the front entrance to the white house.

Lindbergh Gets Honors.

XMAS MAIL HERE TO COST $200,000

Amount Allotted Atlanta Based on Last Year's Figures Plus 10 Per Cent Increase.

Out of a total of approximately $9,000,000 the United States government plans to disburse in handling the 1927 Christmas mail, above and beyond ordinary expenses of running the mail service, more than $200,000 will be spent for extra expenses in the Atlanta postoffice and the railway service operating out of this city, Postmaster E. K. Large revealed Monday.

Local postoffice authorities are basing their figures of the extra cost of handling the Christmas mail on an expected 10 per cent increase over the figures for last year, this being the average gain each Christmas.

Although Christmas is more than a month distant, the postoffice department has been laying plans for two months past for the proper handling of the Christmas mails, making provision for the additional necessary equipment and space, and calculating to the closest possible dollar the amount of funds necessary for extra clerk and carrier hire in the 50,000 postoffices throughout the country.

Banquet Is Used To Bribe Historians, Chicago Hears

:: BRITISH FEAST PICTURED AT TRIAL ::

Chicago, November 14.—(AP)—That institution of persuasion and good will—the banquet—was employed by the British government to influence 100 American history professors to deal generously with the island empire in depicting Anglo-American relations, the William McAndrew school trial recorded today.

And in making that event a part of the prosecution of McAndrew, superintendent of schools who is charged with insubordination, the minutes of the British parliament were quoted.

Charles Grant Miller, president of the Patriotic League for the Preservation of American History, designated the star witness against the suspended school head, was the only witness.

He substantiated the claim of John J. Gorman, former congressman, that English propaganda had entered the Chicago schoolrooms through the history courses. Gorman had been employed by Mayor William Hale Thompson to ascertain if Anglican influence was in the schools. The mayor claimed it was and that McAndrew was a party to its admittance.

The London gastronomic subsidiary was used in 1921 at the Savoy hotel, and among those dined was Professor McLaughlin, head of the American history department, University of Chicago; Professor Carlton Hayes, of Columbia university; Professor Davis S. Muzzey, of Barnard college, and Professor Willis M. West, of the University of Minnesota, Miller said. These four, he added, are authors of histories used in Chicago.

Between 1918 and 1921 when many histories were rewritten to include the world war, some authors made extensive alterations in chapters dealing with relations of the United States and Great Britain, Miller asserted.

"Under the plea of promoting mutual understanding with Great Britain some of these revisionists, defamed or boldly ignored figures in the founding of our republic, misrepresented the ideas and causes for which they struggled and grossly misinterpreted the ideals upon which were established our nation."

Later 100 history authors "were wined and dined at the expense of the British government, in such a degree of gratitude as to provoke protest in parliament at the extravagance," Miller added.

The War of 1812 was a "mistake" one historian wrote, the witness asserted; another said the Mexican war was a "grab of territory," one wrote that the "north saved the union only through England's heroic support" and that "our war with Spain was won only because England prevented Germany and all Europe from taking sides against us."

PITTSBURGH DEATHS HAVE RISEN TO 28

ley company which was welding the giant superstructure when the tank exploded was estimated at fourteen men. Some of the bodies of these men may never be found, it was indicated by ghastly remnants of men which were removed from the steel debris.

A check of the many hospitals of the city late tonight indicated that between 300 and 400 injured persons were receiving treatment.

Officials of the Pittsburgh fire department estimated that the property damage would reach $5,000,000. The gas tank alone was valued at one million dollars.

The huge tank in which natural gas had been stored under pressure was a part of the Manchester works of the Equitable Gas company, across the Ohio from Mount Washington.

The tank blew up with a roar that was heard throughout the metropolitan area. A great ball of fire ascended into the pall of smoke that always hangs over the factory district and the concussion that followed the blast swayed 25 and 30-story buildings on the opposite side of the river.

Havoc Like Quake.

In the immediate vicinity of the explosion the havoc was comparable to with of an earthquake. The red brick dwellings fell apart as though they had been struck by a cyclone. Water mains broke and flooded the streets. Tangled electric wires sputtered and hissed like angry snakes in the debris-clogged streets until they burned themselves out. Broken gas lines started fires and filled the district with nauseating fumes.

Those who lived to tell of the disaster said that a deathly quiet pervaded the area immediately after the explosion. Everything seemed to go to pieces at once. Then came the wails of the injured, the blowing of sirens on factory buildings, the clanging of ambulances, the shrill whistles of policemen to set up such a din as never before had been heard in that section of the steel city, which is known for the noisiness of its industries.

Relief Recruited.

From 10 a. m. until dark Pittsburgh recruited its relief forces and poured them by the hundreds into the district. When the sun went down behind the smoky horizon many of the wrecked buildings had not yet been searched for injured or dead. Relief workers then faced the hazards of digging through the gaseous ruins with oil torches or lanterns. All electric wires leading into the are had been broken.

Temporary morgues were set up in near-by schoolhouses which had escaped with broken windows. First-aid stations were established in churches and public buildings. The requirements of first-aid treatment were so great that every available ambulance was used to carry away the injured, while the dead were hauled to morgues in trucks borrowed from industrial plants.

Checking on the injured was next to impossible because the places where they were being care for were scattered throughout the lower north side. Many were taken across the river to private homes in the industrial section.

Scenes of Near Riots.

Hospitals, police stations and schoolhouses where the injured had been taken for treatment became the scenes of near riots as survivors of the explosion fought with police for a chance to search for missing friends and relatives.

Similar scenes had been enacted earlier in the day when mothers who had been shopping or were away at work when the blast occurred, rushed guards in frantic attempts to reach the children they had left at home.

Surprisingly enough few children lost their lives in the disaster, although dozens of buildings were wrecked. Most of the children were at school. Classes had just opened at the Daniel Webster, Thaddeus Stevens and Sweet Brier schools when the concussion blew in all the window panes. Many children and teachers were cut by flying glass. The Sweet Brier school is three and one-half miles from the Manchester Gas Works, but not a window pane in it remained intact.

Death List To Increase.

As relief work gained its first semblance of order tonight, with rescue crews working in squads under experienced leaders, it was predicted that the death toll would mount to 50 or perhaps more. Those predictions were made after leaders had received reports of the character of some of the ruins. Factories where 90 and 100 men were employed presented masses of twisted steel and crumbled stone and bricks. It was difficult to believe that more than a few of their occupants had escaped with their lives.

Descriptions of the explosion were scarce, as few who saw it lived to describe its horrors.

Herman Bamberger was at work in the junk yard of the Luria company, near the Equitable Gas property, at the time of the blast.

"I had my back toward the Manchester tanks," Bamberger told the United News. "All of a sudden there was a quiver, followed by a deafening rumble and then a blast. I was knocked over by the concussion, but when I got up I ran toward the Manchester bridge. When I reached the bridge I looked back.

"The whole top of the tank was going up in the air. Then there was another explosion and fire burst out in a huge ball."

Bamberger returned to the scene and helped extricate the dead and dying. "We couldn't see a whole man anywhere," he said.

Feel Building Sway.

W. S. Brotzman, weather forecaster, was in the offices of the weather bureau on the 25th story of a building across the river from the gas works. He said he could feel the building sway with the force of the blast. Brotzman also had observed the ball of fire referred to by Bamberger.

"I ran to the window and saw a large ball of fire rising from the exploded tank," Brotzman said.

"It was rising slowly and appeared to be about 100 feet in diameter. It was a great mass of whirling smoke and grew smaller and smaller as it ascended. At a height of about 3,000 feet it formed a ring of smoke."

Brotzman explained another peculiar phenomenon of the blast. It actually increased the air pressure four-hundredths of an inch as recorded on the barograph in his office, the forecaster said. That explains the tremendous damage that the explosion caused, even miles away from the gas works.

Plaster Shaken Down.

Persons living a quarter of a mile or more from the scene told how plaster was shaken down on them from their ceilings. One mother, Mrs. Mildred Mossark, and her son, James, 6 years old, were asleep in their apartment a block from the explosion. Their roof caved in but the posts on their bed held up the falling timbers and they were not injured.

The Curtis home for children, near the gas plant, was demolished but only one girl, a 5-year-old, was injured. The other wards of the home were away at school. An aged woman who cared for the house was buried by plaster but escaped without injuries.

The story of the service performed by volunteer relief workers is an epic in itself. Although police, firemen and ambulance surgeons were the first outsiders to enter the district after the blast, the Red Cross quickly organized its legions, appropriated thousands of dollars for the work and plunged in

Volunteers Give Aid

Disregarding the hazards of escaping gas and fire, the volunteers shouldered pickaxes and crowbars and began hacking away at the debris of factories and homes. Tenderly they lifted broken bodies out of the ruins without stopping to determine whether they were dead. At the first-aid stations aboard trucks and in storerooms near-by, internes and physicians determined quickly whether the victims should be sent to hospitals or morgues.

After dark extreme measures were employed to turn up every fallen timber in the whole area against the chance that it hid a body or an injured person. Tractors from the one hundred seventy-sixth field artillery were brought into play to raze the walls of ruined buildings. At the near-by plant of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot company rescue squads resorted to dynamite to clear away the debris.

BRICK SURFACE

Prevents Pavement Failure—

That saves taxpayers' money

Why do pavements fail?

First, because of damage by weather.

Second, because of traffic.

Unless the very nature of a pavement surface prevents it, water is absorbed—or taken in through tiny cracks. This causes certain damage. Trucks and cars hit the defects—enlarge and multiply them rapidly.

Paving brick bound with asphalt and laid on a good base, is a surface impervious to water. Being vitrified, it is a surface that water does not penetrate. It also has sufficient resilience—"give"—to protect the base from heavy traffic pounding.

Tire chains do not shatter it; heat does not soften it and the weather does not affect it. Total upkeep costs on 30-year-old pavements are still almost nothing—and the bricks are good for another 30 years. Such records prove brick to be the cheapest of all pavement surfaces.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

M'ADOO BACKERS GROOMING WALSH

BY SAM W. SMALL,
Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 14.—(Special.)—The declaration by Senator Borah for straight out prohibition enforcement planks in the platforms of the major parties next year has profoundly impressed leaders of both parties here. Comment is guardedly made but the deepest concern over the possible results of his demand is evident all the way from the white house to the congressional office buildings where senators and representatives are foregathering.

The strongest impression in inner circles of republicans and democrats alike is that this is Senator Borah's distinct bid for the republican presidential nomination. His position is indorsed emphatically by high personages in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, by the Women's National Law Enforcement league, by the stronger leaders of the Anti-Saloon league and church temperance bodies and by prohibition spokesmen among the farmers of the western country. It is admitted that if Senator Borah can attract to himself the drys of the republican party at large he might easily capture the nomination from the convention.

Democratic authorities here say that such an event looks not impossible and that a Borah nomination would compel the democratic party to take one of two courses. It would be up to the democrats then to nominate Governor Smith or Senator Jim Reed and join battle with the republicans squarely on the wet and dry issue; or to nominate a man as notoriously dry as Borah and thereby rob him of that chief appeal to the prohibition elements of both parties. In other words eliminate the wet and dry issue entirely from the presidential campaign.

The big whisper that is going around in office corridors today is that the McAdoo wing of the party is strongly disposed to concentrate its influence behind Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, and put up a serious pre-convention campaign for his nomination. They realize that he came out of the 1924 convention with more prestige and popular esteem than any one else who figured in it. He made a tremendously favorable impression upon the millions of democrats who listened to the proceedings over the radio and who then would have been rejoiced by his nomination.

It is claimed that Senator Walsh would hold the dry democrats to a man and that, being a Catholic in religion, the Smith partisans of that faith could not afford to and would not bolt his nomination.

Just now the country has its eyes on Walsh because of the Fall-Sinclair revelations and the general verdict is that but for him the nation would have been successfully looted of its oil reserves and the corrupt rascals would have gotten away safely with the goods. It may happen that the choice in the democratic convention will be Smith or Walsh.

"WET" DEMOCRATS HIT BY SENATOR WALSH.

Washington, November 14.—(AP)—Nomination by the democrats of an "outstanding wet" for the presidency will force the wet and dry issue into the next campaign regardless of platform declarations and the merit or issues, Senator Walsh, of Montana, ardent dry, asserted here today.

In a talk to the National Women's Democratic league, Senator Walsh, who was chairman of the last democratic national convention and who has been mentioned as a presidential candidate, outlined his views on the platform, but emphasized that a platform would be immaterial if a "wet" were nominated.

While not mentioning any names, the Montana senator left no doubt that he considered Governor Smith of New York, as one of those candidates who, if nominated, would project the prohibition issue into the next campaign, regardless of platform declarations.

Walsh Outlines Program.

Speaking on the subject of "How I Would Write the 1928 Platform," Senator Walsh outlined a platform to provide:

Farm relief, including tariff reductions; construction of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterway project, and rigid enforcement of the anti-trust laws.

A radical change in the foreign policy with a view to "regaining at least a little good will from the other nations of the world."

Reorganization of the federal reserve system.

Further legislation to restrict the use of the writ of injunction in labor disputes.

Contrary to the custom of years, Senator Walsh would make the platform brief, confining it to controversial questions only, so that "everyone might be tempted to read it."

For that reason he would disregard flood control and other legislation on which there seemed to be a meeting of minds between the parties.

Wants "Real Issue."

However, he is disturbed over the inability to get the "real issues" before the nation. In 1924, he recalled that the contest between William G. McAdoo and Governor Smith had focused attention on personalities rather than issues. Now he feels the departure of Mr. McAdoo from the arena has centered attention on Smith and consequently the wet issue predominates public discussion.

There is no necessity for the prohibition question becoming an issue, in the opinion of Senator Walsh, if drys are nominated by the two parties.

Demanding a "radical change in our foreign policy," the Montanan referred "to the more or less well-grounded statement that while we may not be hated by the world it is doubtful if any nation looks on us with any degree of good-will." He spoke of the failure in the negotiations with Great Britain and Japan for a treaty to forestall competitive naval construction and again of the suggestion that headquarters of the Pan-American union be transferred to a South American city. He interpreted the latter proposal as a "protest on the part of all Latin-Americans on what they regard as aggressions by our government."

The federal reserve system must be reorganized, he said, because "it has become the agency in the hands of the very interests whose purpose it was designed to circumvent."

Suits of plate armor came into use about the end of the thirteenth century.

REGISTRATION BOOKS CLOSE IN DECATUR

Decatur, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—Registration books for the special election to be held here next Saturday on the street car fare proposition closed tonight, but compilation of the list of voters had not been completed tonight, according to J. S. Looney, city manager.

Decatur citizens are to vote upon a proposal to abrogate the present five-cent fare clause in the franchise with the Georgia Power company and agree to pay the same fare as paid in Atlanta. The service would be supplemented with a fleet of busses that would operate from the end of the Ponce de Leon car line in Druid Hills into Decatur and also from the end of the car line at Emory university into Decatur. Fare on the bus lines would be paid on a zone basis.

A mass meeting of Decatur citizens will be held Wednesday night at the courthouse at 8 o'clock, when discussion of the proposal pro and con will be given.

There were approximately 1,600 votes cast in the recent bond election held here and the registration for the car fare election is expected to run from 1,000 to 1,500, it is said.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF CASHIER FREED IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, November 14.—(AP) Alexander Morgante was absolved of the charge of slaying Douglas Acomb, cashier of the New Orleans States and released from custody in a criminal court hearing here late today. Acomb was held up and robbed of a $5,800 payroll of the States here on October 3.

Morgante, arrested a few days after the holdup, has been detained in the parish prison ever since. A week ago a robbery charge against him was dismissed.

In announcing his decision today Judge J. Arthur Charbonnet stated that the state had failed to prove a prima facie case against Morgante.

MELLON IS SILENT ON MEXICAN EXPOSE

Washington, November 14.—(United News.)—Government officials showed displeasure tonight over an alleged documentary expose, published in copyright form by the Washington Herald, purporting to show that President Calles and the Mexican government directly subsidized the recent Nicaraguan revolution.

Since the appointment of Dwight W. Morrow, of New York, last month as American ambassador to Mexico and initiation of a more friendly policy, the administration is avoiding either direct or indirect connection with anything tending to jeopardize the compromise negotiations aimed to settled the oil land law dispute and other issues.

Kellogg Is Silent.

Secretary of State Kellogg said today:

"The state department cannot comment on a story based on documentary material concerning the existence and authenticity of which it has no knowledge or information whatever."

In diplomatic circles it was pointed out that Kellogg's present attitude is different from that of last January, when he submitted to the senate foreign relations committee newspaper clippings alleging the existence of a Mexican-fostered bolshevist hegemony plot against Central America and the Panama canal. Kellogg then gave currency to charges for which he and the department refused to take any responsibility whatever.

President Coolidge, on January 10, 1927, in a special message to congress defending the United States military aid to the Nicaraguan conservative faction, charged that Mexican arms in Mexican boats were reaching the Nicaraguan liberal rebels "with the full knowledge and in some cases with the encouragement of Mexican officials." But President Coolidge did not charge that President Calles and the Mexican government itself were implicated, and there was nothing in the Coolidge message supporting the bolshevist allegations.

The Mexican government, following the Coolidge message, pointed out that it had as much right to give military support to the liberal Nicaraguan government by Mexico as the United States had to support the Diaz regime recognized by Washington. But the Mexican government officially denied that it was furnishing arms or money to the Nicaraguan liberals. It was pointed out that Calles had deported American communists and sent home a soviet minister.

Mexican Charge d'Affaires Castro-Leal told the United News today that the Washington Herald documents "are false and of no more importance than other stories based on forgeries."

The Washington Herald copyright article alleged that on at least three occasions Calles paid money to Nicaraguan revolutionary agents.

CALLES BROKE UP PEACE CONFERENCE.

New York, November 14.—(AP)—The Hearst newspapers tomorrow in the second of a series of articles copyrighted by The Washington Herald will print purported facsimiles of documents from the secret archives of the Mexican government showing that the Corinto peace conference arranged by the American state department in October of last year in the hope of ending the Nicaraguan revolt was broken by President Calles, of Mexico.

Facsimiles of documents purporting to show that Mexico financed the recent Nicaraguan revolution were printed by the Hearst newspapers today.

One of the documents to be printed tomorrow is a telegram purporting to have been signed by General J. Alvarez, chief of President Calles' staff, to Aaron Saenz, then secretary of the Mexican department of foreign relations. It instructed Saenz to have Mexican Ambassador Cravioto, at Gautemala inform Dr. Juan Babtista Sacasa, Nicaraguan liberal leader, that if the peace agreement at Corinto were not based on arrangements concluded in Mexico City, with liberal elements controlling the executive power, the Mexican government would retire all moral and material aid immediately.

Ambassador Cravioto's delivery of the Calles ultimatum to Dr. Sacasa, in Guatemala City, resulted in hurried conferences between Sacasa and his advisers, the article will say. Several days were required for Sacasa to convince the liberal delegates of the necessity of breaking off negotiations, but when fully informed of the Mexican government's position, they agreed.

PLAGIARISM SUIT WON BY CHAPLIN

New York, November 14.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin emerged the victor today in a $50,000 plagiarism suit brought by Leo Loeb, who charged the film comedian had stolen the plot of his play, "The Rookie," to use in his production of "Shoulder Arms."

Loeb's suit was brough twice, the first having ended in a jury disagreement. The plaintiff, a war veteran, said he had sent the manuscript of "The Rookie" to Chaplin's studio and that it was rejected. Chaplin denied ever having seen Loeb's manuscript.

BUICK FALL DISPLAY IN HARVEST SETTING

Buick's fall fashion show, featuring display of the new de luxe models, is marked at the factory branch at 512 Spring street by a seting of rustic harvest products which renders the exhibition of magnificent cars particularly effective.

Corn shocks, pumpkins and autumn foliage have transformed the Buick showrooms into a restful rural scene, wherein one may view the resplendent new cars.

In line with the trend toward fashion shows, the Buick dealers in Atlanta and Decatur, in conjunction with the Buick factory branch, are displaying at the respective showrooms, the latest fashions in Buick motor cars.

"Many automobile owners and prospective owners," H. H. Alexander, manager of the Buick branch, said Monday, "are taking advantage of the display to inspect the new fall and winter colors and upholsteries and the specially equipped DeLuxe Buick models."

The Buick autumn display will be continued throughout the present week at 512 Spring street, 330 Peachtree street and at Decatur.

If Alertox Fails In Constipation Call A Doctor

This new preparation acts with time-clock precision in 60 to 90 minutes; gives one thorough elimination and no more; does not interfere with duties, habits or diet, and guaranteed to remove, in one action, more poison bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vavacious and alert, mentally and physically.

These are but a few of the many wonderful advantages of this latest discovery known as "Alertox," which flushes the alimentary tract and re-establishes a natural, healthy liver and bowel action, and is much quicker, more palatable and far more effective than calomel, oils or other nauseating cathartics that merely goad the liver and work you to death.

Alertox also alkalines the system and thoroughly cleanses it of the poisons that cause auto-intoxication. Get a bottle from your druggist, and if you are not satisfied after taking one dose, get your money back. If your druggist cannot supply Alertox, sent direct by Crystal Carbonic Laboratory, Dept. 12, Atlanta, Ga., upon receipt of price, 60c—(adv.)

may be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tennessee.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

From youth to later years S.S.S. is a proven tonic—give it and take it when a tonic is indicated.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

This question recently was referred to the attorney general for an opinion by persons living in Bryan county. Fogs Increase Hazards Of Automobile Accidents

"Eight Injured in Fog Crashes." That was a headline appearing a few days ago in an Atlanta newspaper, and it draws to public attention a new accident menace that comes with the fall season of varying weather conditions and temperatures.

Headlights that stab the heavy fogs that wrap the roads these nights fail to penetrate the gloom and make collisions numerous. Pavements and dirt roads are covered with a slick coat of moisture, and chances of disaster are greatly multiplied.

Why not protect yourself and your family against the financial cares that follow in the wake of traffic accidents. Insure yourself today against this great menace. It is nothing less than your duty.

Cheapest and most efficient protection is offered you by The Constitution in the form of the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Insurance company, of Chicago. This old and reliable concern already has paid more than $53,000 in claims to Constitution policyholders.

The policy, which costs only $1.25 per year, provides for payment of sums ranging from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain accidents; heavy cash payment for permanent injuries and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the stated accidents. And the cost is only a fraction of a penny a day.

A train wreck, a crash of automobiles, the speeding wheels of an onrushing car or a burning building may leave you a victim of the ever-growing wave of accidents today.

In this paper appear regular advertisements supplying full details of the great offer. Watch for them.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 17 and 70 at $1.25 per year.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier or dealer, paying for his paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber and is eligible.

Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution by mail, either through a postoffice or rural route delivery for one year are eligible by paying $1.25 per year per policy above the subscription price.

In sending applications for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and relation of same to the insured.

Auten testified that the defendant was mentally deranged and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plea. Martin will be sent immediately to the state insane asylum.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

The Amazing Adventures Of Anarchist Aber

By Lawrence Aber.

As Told to Ben Cooper, Staff Representative of The Constitution.
Copyright, 1927, by The Constitution.

CHAPTER V.—THE MORO CAMPAIGN.

SYNOPSIS

In the first installment of his amazing and thrilling narrative, Aber traced his ancestry to the British peerage, and told of his birth in Wales. His story so far relates as follows: He was born in 1880 in Monmouthshire, Wales, and at an early age deserted from a British navy schoolship. He remained in the slums of New York for a time, and at the age of 18 enlisted with the American army in the Spanish war. After the Spanish war he went back home and after a brief stay with his mother enlisted with the British South African forces for the Boer war.

En route to Capetown on a troopship, Aber and his fellow soldiers went through the tortures of privation and rough treatment. Landing in South Africa, they proceeded to Pretoria, and after a march that seemed like a long and fantastic nightmare, arrived at Ladysmith, where they entrenched for a long siege.

Gaunt with privation and suffering with scurvy, Aber comes through the gruelling siege. Returning to London after his discharge, Aber faces poverty and is forced to beg and then to steal to ward off starvation.

He then shipped for Brazil aboard a sailing vessel that touched at Rio de Janeiro and rounded Cape Horn. Aber deserted his ship in the Fiji islands and joined up as first mate with a vessel trading among the New Guinea islands.

Aber turned up in Manila in 1903, and after a brief management of a sporting house, became involved in a shooting affray and escaped to Jolo, Sulu, where he professed Mohammedanism and became identified with the sultan, who sent him on a mission to the United States. Aber then married one of the sultan's daughters.

From soldiering with the United States, I now turned to soldiering against them. By becoming a Mohammedan and marrying into the sultan's family, I naturally fell into a position of leadership of the native Moro troops.

The Moro is a wicked enemy. He fights with a bolo, which is a long, sharp, razor-like saber. He files his teeth to a point, prays twice a day, and considers the touch of a Christian a killing matter, while his women are sacred to him. He is a fanatic, especially when fighting.

There I was . . . a lone white man living among savages, and helping to rule them, at the same time waging a losing fight against my own people, a white man born a Christian, fighting under the star and crescent with a native wife; ranging with my Moros through the worst kind of wilderness and jungles with the price of 10,000 pesos placed upon my head, dead or alive, by the Philippines government.

Along the side of the Cagayan mountains, a long line of American soldiers was crawling. Suddenly a wild yell rang out as my Moros attacked from the bush. Three minutes of brisk fighting, and we were back into the jungles, leaving behind 46 dead American soldiers and more than 200 wounded. Our type of fighting was to cut with a bolo and run. We were outnumbered and truly lived up to the motto of "He who cuts and runs away, will live to cut another day."

PEACE FOLLOWS MORO-U. S. TRUCE.

Again, an American soldier on guard walked along the jungle trail. As he passed a thick clump of tall grass, a bolo swished in an arc through the air, and some time later his relief found him lying where he fell with his head severed from his body. This was the way our warfare was conducted and we almost always won.

In this fashion our native forces outwitted the entire United States Philippine forces. In July of 1907, with only 1,400 Moros, I fought 6,000 United States troops and drove them out of Llanoa province. In September of 1907, the governor general asked for a truce, the outcome of which was that the army withdrew and my men swore allegiance to the American flag. I was appointed vice governor of Bongoa and peace dwelt in the land.

Prosperity came, schoolhouses were built, business flourished, and the white man was safe. The Moro was keeping his word. In March of 1909, the old itch to move on hit me right square between the eyes. The Abercrombie blood got in its work. I returned to the states and enlisted with the United States navy. This time I stayed put until June of 1911, when I deserted and returned to Sulu at the request of my native friends.

In January of 1913 your officials broke their word and sent down Christian troops. We killed 76 of them at Llano and the war was on again. Approximately 600 Christian native troops were killed, the schools were closed down and instead of the Christian ruling, death stalked in the land. I will grant you that might ruled for awhile but at what a cost. More than 300,000 people hated you and nothing was gained. I was driven to the bush and while your papers were proclaiming a victory my friends were begging to God for justice.

ABER JOINS THE ANARCHISTS.

Under the Christian flag that you are so proud of, your soldier riffraff were mistreating young Moro girls and I swore to help tear down that flag if I could. Free country, the devil! You are as bad as any of them.

I escaped by way of Borneo with my wife and baby and made for Hongkong. Lawrence Aber was licked and admitted it, but swore to get even. By this time I was ripe material for the moulding of an anarchist. I decided to fight this thing called civilization. Visiting Europe I met up with men of my own type who were radicals. Needless to say I joined them and got on the inside of what is today one of the strongest associations in the world. We have wrecked three empires, made future wars nearly impossible and have everyone "up in the air." We have made more history in a few months than kings made in years. To further our ends I went to war on the British side during the late conflict and received hero medals from England, France and Italy, but this is getting ahead of my story as I will deal with the world war in a later chapter.

Those were the early days of bolshevism, but even then a definable world program was shaping up. Things were rapidly coming to a head in the continent, and the dogs of war were pulling at their ropes while the dark clouds gathered above civilization. The world war was close at hand when I headed back to the United States and I had not been back here long before the hand of an Austrian assassin set Europe aflame. Here was war with a vengeance, and I, Lawrence Aber, enlisted in the Canadian forces with the British consul at El Paso, Texas, in September of 1914.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Disfigured Face. Could Not Shave Without Suffering. Cuticura Heals.

"When I was seventeen years of age many pimples appeared on my face. They were hard and red, and disfigured my face. The pimples itched and burned causing me to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions. After a few years my skin became rough and I could not shave without suffering.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Americus P. Musmanno, Box 247, New Cumberland, W. Va., Aug. 19, 1926.

New Evidence Received Tends To Confirm Aber's Amazing Autobiography

Former Associated Press Representative Tells of U. S. Prisoner's Activities in Nicaraguan War.

New evidence tending to confirm the amazing story of adventure told by Lawrence Aber reached The Constitution Monday from two sources.

Aber, who is held in Fulton tower under a federal charge of malicious mischief for breaking a postoffice window, while awaiting investigation of his claim to British citizenship, tells in later chapters of his story a tale of soldiering with rebel forces in Nicaragua.

Marion B. Alexander, former Associated Press staff correspondent who covered the Nicaraguan war, revealed Monday to The Constitution that he saw Aber on the U. S. S. Rochester, then the flagship of Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, at that time in command of the forces in Nicaraguan waters. Mr. Alexander met Aber again when the soldier of fortune first appeared in Atlanta, and, in company with a Constitution representative, interviewed him.

Believes Men the Same.

"While I cannot say positively that the man I saw on the ship at Nicaragua and the man I saw in Atlanta are one and the same, I believe that Aber held here is the Aber of Nicaragua," Mr. Alexander said. "Aber had a full growth of beard on the Rochester, and when I saw him first in Atlanta he was clean-shaven, but my impression was that he was the same man. Then, too, I questioned him closely regarding the geography of the country, the people involved in the Nicaraguan episode and other things, and the replies he gave could only have been given by a man familiar with the country and situation down there."

Explaining the Nicaraguan situation in which Aber claims to have taken a part, and by way of clearing up some of the references Aber made to The Constitution reporter in his narrative, Mr. Alexander said:

"Emiliano Chamorro, probably the most popular man in Nicaragua, had overthrown the existing coalition conservative-liberal government by a military coup d'etat. He had forced the president, Carlos Solorzano, to resign and under threats had driven the vice president, Juan B. Sacasa, from the country. Sacasa refused to relinquish his claim to the presidency, however, holding that in the absence of the president, who was a conservative, he (a liberal) was the legal president. He asked recognition from the United States but was unable to get it. Chamorro also was unable to obtain recognition as he had established his government by force, a violation of the Washington pacts, a treaty signed by the United States with the Central American powers.

Diaz Elected President.

"At a subsequent election by the members of the Nicaraguan congress, Adolfo Diaz, a former president, was elected to head the nation's affairs again and was recognized by the United States. In the meantime, General Jose Maria Moncada and General Sandoval had fomented a revolution against the Chamorro government. When Chamorro gave way to Diaz, the revolutionists called on Sacasa to lead them, under the claim that they were fighting to uphold his constitutional claim to the presidency. When Sacasa learned that the United States was preparing to recognize Diaz, he established himself at Puerto Cabezas and proclaimed himself 'constitutional president.' He was advised immediately that the republic of Mexico recognized his claim. He and the members of the liberal party vehemently denounced the action of the United States in recognizing Diaz."

As to Aber's part in the revolution, Mr. Alexander said the reports were conflicting.

"Part of 1926 and during the first few weeks of 1927 a soldier of fortune going under the name of Lawrence Aber was reported interested in the revolutionary activities in Nicaragua. Aber's exact status was vaguely determined, there being reports that he had been a general with the Diaz forces and reports that he was a leader in the revolutionary forces of General Moncada, operating later under orders from the liberal claimant to the presidency, Dr. Sacasa. Due to the nature of the country and the absence of communication or verification of reports, Aber's activities were largely legendary until the time when near Puerto Cabezas, on the eastern coast of Nicaragua, he was turned over to an outpost of United States marines. At Puerto Cabezas he was placed on the U. S. S. Rochester, then the flagship of Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, at that time in command of the forces in Nicaraguan waters. Taken to Panama on the Rochester, Aber was deported to the United States until his status and his claim of having been a world war veteran could be investigated.

Liberal Reports Varied.

"The liberal forces varied in their reports of how and why Aber was turned over to the marines. At Puerto Cabezas, otherwise known as Bragmans Bluff, Dr. Sacasa told newspapermen that Aber had for a while been in his employ, fighting against the Diaz troops, but that when the possibility arose that the Diaz forces would kill or mistreat him should he be captured, he had ordered Aber given in charge of the marines so that it could not be said that his warfare had caused the death of an American citizen. General Daniel Mena, in the field, however, told newspapermen that Aber had been captured by the liberals from the Diaz forces and that to guarantee his safety as an American citizen, orders had been that he be released to the marines. In Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, President Diaz claimed to have but little knowledge of Aber and his activities.

"There were several other Americans on either side and during the revolution one was killed at the battle of El Bluff while directing machine gun fire from an improvised tank made of a Fordson tractor, reinforced with steel plates. As the United States interest in the revolution increased the number of American soldiers of fortune decreased and when hostilities virtually ceased, in May, following the ultimatum of President Coolidge's personal representative, General Henry L. Stimson, there were but two Americans definitely known employed on either side. They were both aviators in the Diaz forces and were Lee Mason, of Yates Center, Kans., and William Brooks, of New Orleans."

Confirmation of Aber's gift of the king and queen's medals for the relief of Ladysmith to the Young museum in San Francisco was received Monday through press services. The wire to The Constitution also stated that Aber gave the museum the Sampson Spanish war medal.

Clippings from California papers show that in April of 1924 Aber entered the Portland, Ore., police station and confessed to the murder in Los Angeles of Earl Remmington, in February of 1923. In a later chapter of his story, Aber tells of his alleged connection with Remmington.

"Three days later he repudiated the confession and was sent to the Oregon state hospital for insane at Salem, on complaint of Kenneth Cooper, Portland head of the veterans' bureau," the wire states. "Aber convinced police he had received $1,100 in a few months thereafter, in installments, from unknown sources, but Los Angeles authorities paid virtually no attention to him."

Suspects Captured.

Mobile, Ala., November 14.—(AP)—Albert Schaffer, alias Johnson, 30, and William Cooper, alias Miller, 32, were arrested here early today on a tip from Lucedale, Miss., that they were headed this way. The men were charged with having robbed the Lucedale postoffice last night and money, stamps and registered letters were found in their possession.

BORAH IS RIGHT.

Calling for a showdown in the next presidential campaign on the prohibition question, and on law enforcement, Senator Borah, of Idaho, speaking before a New York audience Saturday, made the following ringing statement as to the present disgraceful and lamentable situation:

"We know that our daily press day by day records a series of crimes, both in number and in horror, which have no precedent or parallel.

"We know, if we but stop to reflect, that this spirit of lawlessness has come to be the most stupendous problem of our national life.

"We know, too, that this spirit of lawlessness has now taken the form of an utter disregard and defiance of our charter of government itself."

Senator Borah is correct. He is the most outstanding dry leader in America—a leader who not only preaches but practices prohibition.

He was instrumental in submitting the 18th amendment and in passing the enforcement statutes.

He takes precisely the position The Constitution has taken.

Conditions show for themselves.

The flood tide of bootleg liquor is not only filling the jails and terrorizing communities by lawlessness, but it is filling the asylums and the hospitals and the cemeteries.

No one but a fanatic can deny the truth of the present status of society, due to the lack of enforcement.

Senator Borah wants the law enforced. So does The Constitution.

If the law as it exists cannot be enforced then he holds there should be some modification so that there could be a restoration of national sobriety, and a greater degree of human integrity, and more law and order.

Senator Borah, a recognized extremist, says this question must be an issue with the republicans. It must also be an issue with the democrats.

It cannot be evaded by the ostrich act.

This country cannot go along with its present disgraceful conditions.

Canada had a similar experience. The situation became alarming, and the people overwhelmingly repealed the dry laws and voted strict government regulations with no saloons.

The bootleg traffic was largely stopped—except in so far as it crossed the border. And Canada is contented with its solution of the problem.

Here in the United States the prohibition law must be enforced, and the bootleg industry broken up, or there must be some revision that will make it enforceable.

Our position is that of Senator Borah, and we congratulate him, a great dry leader that he is, for his courageous statements as to a situation that is striking at the very vitals of our national life.

A CHALLENGE TO ATLANTA.

Official information that is definite as to the New York-Atlanta airway is gratifying.

There has been much confusion recently as to the government's further participation in air mail service, and it was feared that the delays in lighting the mapped airways meant that the government would take no action until congress passed new legislation bearing on the expansion of commercial aviation.

As it is, the assistant secretary of commerce in charge of commercial aviation, Mr. McCracken, announces that the New York-Atlanta trunk line will be lighted, all landing fields completed, and every detail provided before March 1, 1928, so that the service as to mail, passengers and freight may begin by that date.

This is a direct challenge to Atlanta to complete Candler field before that time. There is much to be done.

Atlanta is in position to become a great air port but cannot without a standardization of the field according to government requirements.

The president of the American Railway Express company was a recent visitor to the city, and in the course of an address very frankly stated that Atlanta was not yet ready for the service in the air express that his company had inaugurated in other sections of the country.

Atlanta must get ready, and that at once. Only recently Augusta opened a great field. The government sent more than a score of planes to participate in the ceremonies. That city began its field two years subsequent to the beginning of the Atlanta field, and yet it is more nearly standardized today.

Atlanta's geographical situation is such as to make her the outstanding airport of the entire south. If she does not so become it will be her own fault.

WHERE WAS LIEUT. DAVIS?

It was a great gathering of aviators at the white house Monday.

Georgia played a conspicuous part, for while Miss Elder is accredited a Floridian, she has been a resident of Georgia. For quite a while she lived in Clayton, Rabun county. She has also lived in Atlanta.

The gathering Monday was of the overseas fliers who had "made the grade." Of course Colonel Lindbergh stood foremost, for he accomplished that which no other had, that of leaving "where he was going from and landing where he was going to"—3,600 miles distant across the Atlantic ocean.

Miss Elder came in for a lion's share of acclaim, naturally, and deservedly so, for she showed not only great courage, but marvelous aviation ability in keeping her plane aloft in the teeth of a raging storm for more than 14 hours.

At the president's party there were Brock, Chamberlin, Levine, Maitland, Goebel, and others.

The question arises, why was not Lieutenant William P. Davis, the Atlanta boy, there?

He was recently married, and perhaps he was not available.

But surely he deserved to be with such a galaxy of aeronautic celebrities.

Lieutenant Davis was the navigator of the plane that won the Dole race from San Francisco to Honolulu.

He is a navy offical and a fine young man of intrepid courage.

No group of internationally-known American air heroes can be complete without him.

SHOP AND MAIL EARLY.

Christmas is less than six weeks ahead. The stores are well stocked with holiday goods. Then why not do the shopping now and get the benefit of fresh merchandise that has not been picked over, and also the benefit of orderly service and orderly delivery.

Another injunction is to mail early. By doing so the postoffice department can assure deliveries that cannot be assured in the last-minute congestion.

A Christmas gift loses its value, and the thrill of receiving a gift is lost, if it is received after Christmas. While it is not always desirable to have gifts in the hands of the recipients before the spirit of the holiday season is felt, it is possible to get presents for children in the hands of the parents prior to Christmas, thereby assuring certain delivery on Christmas morning. Millions of such packages will pass through the mails, and it is better to get them off early.

Shopping early and mailing early serve also to lift a tremendous burden from the shoulders of thousands of clerks and postoffice employees.

NEW EXECUTIVE COMES.

Atlanta extends a cordial welcome to Joseph Hexter, of New York, who comes as the new executive head of the Southern Baking company, succeeding Harry D. Tipton, who voluntarily retires for a well-earned rest.

Mr. Tipton has, by his great ability as a business man and organizer, created one of the largest producing corporations in the country, with large plants in a number of southern cities. He will continue his stockholdings, and remain on the board of directors.

In Mr. Hexter, who will make Atlanta his permanent home, the corporation has a man of wide experience in the baking business, and an executive who has proven his ability in New York city where he held a high executive position in a similar line of industry.

A politician is one who wants the country to do something for him while he tries to impress the voters that he wants to do something for the country.

It will be more satisfactory to a Mexican when he can satisfy his craving to be its president without being executed.

The vegg who robbed an Atlanta sausage factory of the entire contents of the sate played the whole hog or none.

Atlanta is now running on all six cylinders and knocking on none.

Army Troubles.

The French army so dangerously near revolt in 1917 under Nivelle and Mangin, is again honey-combed with agitators and many regiments have their own newspaper, generally of an extreme radical tendency. There have been miniature mutinies in the reservists' camps this year, and every day the papers report new incidents. The reservists rebel against leaving civil employment each year after the expiration of their regular service and spend 25 days under arms. This grievance has been exploited to the utmost by the communists with the result that the outbreaks have taken on a revolutionary character. At Toulon and Brest there have been violent scenes between reservist-sailors and loyal troops. No casualties are reported, but on several occasions the men had to be forced back into their barracks and camps at the point of the bayonet. The reservists have just held a congress in Paris at which a list of demands were drawn up. Some of the items on this list show a decided political character such as "freedom of the press," which obviously relates to the imprisonment of communist deputies, Duclos and Marty, for having incited the troops to mutiny in the "red barracks." Marty is the man who led the Black Fleet mutiny.

Nude Cult.

"People who are shocked at the idea of showing the human body unclothed are not advised to read the book, which speaks for itself," declare the English publishers of "Men and Sunlight," a book translated from the German, and a copy of which has been sent to the home secretary by the director of the council of public morals. "Man and Sunlight," which is the work of a former chief of the German army school for physical exercises, advocates naked gymnastics in the sunshine. In a preface to the English version, Dr. C. W. Saleeby quotes Dean Inge as saying he is in favor of publication, and adding that "the author is a bit of a fanatic, but the book will do good." The Sollux Publishing company, of Slough, who are responsible for the publication, further state that "the British press and public will be better able to judge its value than Mrs. Prendy and her followers.

Schwartzbart Trial.

The Schwartzbart trial ended with a jubilant cheering of the whole audience and shouts of "Vive la France!" when the jury's verdict of acquittal was read. Still there are many voices of protest heard now against the practise of exiled foreigners to come and fight out their quarrels in France. "We cannot tolerate that France should become the camping ground of all Europe's plotters and revolutionaries," says one paper. "Political exiles are accorded the right of asylum, but they must not compromise or involve the French people or the French state in their quarrels." This is a reference to last year's attempt by Colonel Marcia, the Catalonian autonimist, to equip an armed expedition directed from Perpignan in the Pyrenees against Spain. "When Schwartzbart came to France and took out naturalization papers he became a Frenchman and ceased to be an Ukrainian. Frenchmen do not resort to murder to avenge the acts of a tyrant, especially a foreign tyrant. He should have known to moderate his hatred for Petlura after he became a Frenchman." The anti-Semitic press is still raging. Under the heading: "Israel Mobilized," Charivari says that during the most scandalous performances of the international Jewish ring at the time of the Dreyfuss trial, nothing comparable to the scenes at the Schwartzbart trial have been enacted. To Charivari and its kind, the Petlura murder is still a diabolical soviet plot, and the murderer a Cheka agent, "paid and rewarded for his gruesome act."

Gold!

You may talk about the golden west,
There's gold enough right here
If you'll drive up to our mountains, when the sun is shining clear!

The trees that were leaf-burdened are shaking off their gold
With all the rainbow colors and a million more untold!

So, ever thus, must grandeur, no matter
from what source,
Take a trend that's downward; it's only to have the suitcases brought to him by Franklin L. Dodge, ex-prohibition agent, named as his dead wife's lover. Remus gets possession of this evidence without the court seeing it.
Nature's course!

REMUS PICKS JURORS FOR TRIAL

Flushed with success on a birthday that had begun so tragically, George Remus laughed and joked about the talesmen during the remainder of the session. Apparently he wore mourning for the wife he slew. He was soberly dressed in a blue sack suit, with a solid black tie and black sox. From time to time he peered at the prospective talesmen from behind a handkerchief with a border of two narrow black stripes.

The paunchy wife-slayer paid particular heed to women talesmen. He smirked when Mrs. Ruth Cross, 22, and modishly dressed in a brown suit, was chosen as a temporary juror. He smiled benevolently at Mrs. Anna Ricking, a crotchety grandmother of 63, who also was passed by both state and defense.

Four other jurors were chosen during the day, making six so far. They were F. H. Oberschmidt, a bristling little German baker of 63, with nine children and 16 grandchildren; Henry Huitink, 35, a bespectacled cigar-maker; Charles J. Riggs, 60, a retired manufacturer, with grandchildren, and John B. Lipp, 66, who does odd clerical work.

May All Be Challenged.

But in Ohio, the state and defense do not exercise their challenges until after the jury box is filled. After the 12 are selected, tomorrow, it is possible all may be thrown out. The state is allowed four peremptory challenges and the defense sixteen.

Gunmen, doctors, merchants and thieves crowded the spacious courtroom to witness the first day of this love-and-liquor drama.

Many women, very few flappers but the majority middle-aged and rather plump, sat in the front rows and watched the fat little wife-slayer. He nodded to one or two of them. To reporters he passed a birthday card received with a box of home-made fudge, from his daughter, Romola, now in Chicago, but due here in a few days. It read:

"Dear Daddy: This is good candy. I hope your next birthday will be much happier."

But there was hatred for George Remus, too, on his birthday. His 18-year-old step-daughter, who calls herself Ruth Holmes, it was learned, will testify that he drove her mother, the murdered Imogene, to seek out Dodge and ask his aid while he was in Atlanta.

NEW OIL MYSTERY WITNESS CALLED

mitted to make any "stump speeches" and must confine himself to testimony pertinent to the investigation.

Burns urged that he be permitted to go before the inquisitorial body to present his answer to McMullin's charge that reports as to activities of the oil jurors and a government employee were fabricated with the idea of using them as a basis for asking for a misttrial in the Teapot Dome case should the defense find such a course necessary.

To Appear Today.

Neil Burkinshaw, assistant district attorney in charge of the investigation, at first declined to accede to Burns' request, but after the three detectives had conferred with District Attorney Gordon and Burkinshaw it was agreed that they could appear tomorrow in the grand jury room.

The attitude of William J. Burns today was in sharp contract with that of a week ago when he first appeared here to testify before the grand jury. A week ago the internationally known detective talked freely with the newspapermen and set up a back-fire against the government with a charge that a federal employee had made contact with one of the jurors.

Today Burns' manner was subdued and he appeared rather nervous. He talked very little with the correspondents who crowded about him both before and after his conference with the prosecuting officers. Before he left the courthouse he gave instructions that all of his men were to meet him outside. He called especially for Charles G. Ruddy, of Philadelphia, who was in charge of the jury shadowing operations.

There also was a change in the attitude of the operatives themselves. Heretofore they had mingled freely and talked much with the correspondents, but today they kept to themselves in one part of the corridor. Some of them gave evidence of apparent concern at the turn of events following McMullin's disclosures.

company which owned the property in all innocence of its sinister reputation.

The Simpson road farm achieved fame of a sort when the body of a negro, Owen Carruthers, was unearthed some two weeks ago. He undoubtedly had been murdered, authorities said. The anonymous police informer asserted that at least two more negroes who "knew too much" of rum-running activities said to exist on the farm, were buried on the property.

The farm, which is located a scant two miles from the heart of Atlanta and which recently has become the target of many sinister rumors, was purchased by the Standard Life Insurance company about four years ago. With the 40 acres of land go three buildings, at least one of which is asserted by county authorities to have been the rendezvous of a sizable rum-running ring.

One of these houses was the residence of Thomas B. Trollinger, now in Fulton tower under indictment for the murder of the negro. With him lived his brother, Ben Trollinger. Thomas Trollinger is also under indictment for the slaying of Millard Allen, a former associate, of whose killing he was exonerated several weeks ago. He was re-indicted on this count when the slaying of the negro on the farm of which he was a tenant came to light.

engaged 500 extra employees for the Christmas rush at an average cost of $20 each for the short period of hire. This will make the cost of extra help close to $10,000, while overtime for carriers will be approximately $4,000 and for clerks $5,000. The postoffice is contracting for 2,000 extra hours of truck service at $2 an hour, or a total of $4,000.

Salaries, hire of trucks, extra space and everything else needed to rush the mails through this Christmas will cost the local postoffice approximately $100,000, including the extra salaries to be paid railway mail clerks operating out of Atlanta into the rest of Georgia and Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and South Carolina. The cost of providing extra railway mail cars and providing for the strain on the railway mail service operating out of this city is expected to add another $100,000 to the figure calculated for the local postoffice. Though the latter figure is credited to the Atlanta postoffice, the money is paid out of Washington.

$1,000,000 for Month.

The Atlanta postoffice pays out an average of $800,000 in salaries every month, but it is expected that the money paid out during the Christmas rush will approximate $1,000,000 for the month, due to the extra expenses.

Last year the postoffice department disbursed $8,688,215 for additional service to take care of the great volume of Christmas mail that poured into the vast postal machine from every possible source. Most of this amount was expended for salaries of additional employees.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

Campaign Observations Taken in the Democratic Camps of New York.

New York, November 13.—(Special.)—Here in the great metropolis one quickly senses the fact that active leaders of both parties are working to make it the "pivotal state" in the presidential campaign of next year.

The state has 45 electoral votes and it has happened in some past campaigns that the New York vote determined which party won the presidency of the nation.

But that has only happened once to the benefit of the democratic party since the civil war. That was in 1884, when Cleveland, by the fortunate bad break of old Rev. Dr. Burchard, got a bare plurality over Blaine. New York voted against Cleveland in 1888 and for him in 1892, but in the latter case Cleveland had a clear majority without the vote of New York and even had it gone again to Harrison.

Therefore, democratic campaign managers have put small dependence upon the New York vote and have usually tried to figure out a victory without it.

But for next year the aspect is changed and nearly all calculators in both parties are counting the New York vote as almost indispensable to party victory.

* * * *

Non-Natives Are Not Sure.

There are some strong party men here in New York who are not native sons, but have come here in years past from states of the west and south. They are men in the professions, finance and commerce, and are not galvanized partisans of the Tammany outfit. But, as democrats, they go along with the party as the Tammany leaders conduct it.

I find considerable doubt among such men that a Tammany candidate for president could carry the state next year. They say Governor Smith would be the only one who could possibly do it, but they fear very much that in a presidential race Judge Hughes would outrun even Smith.

It is the sincere hope of such men, therefore, that the party leaders of the west and south can so harmonize their views, while congress is in session this coming winter, as to produce a candidate for president who will be strongly popular throughout those states west of Pennsylvania and who could be elected without reliance upon the eastern electoral votes.

That seems to be a "long shot" hope and some are heard to say that if it cannot be materialized the chances of the democratic party fall to zero. But there are men of political reputation here who believe that a courageous south-and-west leadership next year would carry the party through to the white house.

* * * *

You Can't Pooh-Pooh Smith.

Yet almost every student of the democratic status of today admits that Governor Smith cannot be pooh-poohed out of the picture. He is a popular person and a militant party figure.

His energetic partisans here are shouting to the rest of us "you can't beat somebody with nobody!"

That is a political axiom that apparently needs no reinforcement by argument. But does it always hold good?

In 1844 Van Buren and Lewis Cass fought through eight ballots in the democratic national convention at Baltimore. Van Buren started with a majority of the votes in the convention. He had 146 to 83 for Cass and 37 for five others who got votes; but on the eighth ballot Cass had 114 to 104 for Van Buren and 44 cast for the first time for James K. Polk, of Tennessee. On the next ballot the convention swung unanimously for Polk and in the following election Polk was victor by 170 electoral votes to 105 for Henry Clay.

Unquestionably, in that case, a "nobody" so-called beat a mighty big "somebody" who was making his third strong bid for the presidency!

In 1848 the democrats put up a big "somebody" in the person of General Lewis Cass, but the whigs strutted General Zachary Taylor, a political "nobody" who confessed during the campaign that he "had not cast a ballot in forty years," and he beat Cass by 163 electoral votes to 127.

Again, in 1852, Cass, Buchanan, Douglas and Marcy fought each other through 48 ballots in the democratic convention—all of them very considerable "somebodies," when Franklin Pierce, very much of a political "nobody," was rushed in on the 49th ballot, was almost unanimously nominated, and in the subsequent election beat General Winfield Scott, the whig "somebody," by 254 electoral votes to 42.

Other instances in party history, both sides, might be cited to prove that the slogan "you can't beat somebody with nobody" is largely wind and smoke.

* * * *

The Big Problem as to Smith.

It is told me here by strong Smith men that should he be denied the nomination by the party convention next year that fact will be interpreted by the entire Roman Catholic world as a repudiation of him "because of his religion." Actually, they do not believe that his "wet" sentiments only would bar him from the nomination. So they contend that if Smith is not nominated the party will lose the great majority of Catholic democrats in all the states of the nation. That might not count much in the southern states, except Louisiana, but would probably determine the electoral votes of a number of eastern and western states.

The puzzle in the premises is to say where the deserting Catholics would go?

The republican party has never been more tolerant toward their faith than the democrats.

In 1876 the democratic platform denounced the republican party for "the false issue with which they would enkindle sectarian strife in respect to the public schools." The issue referred to was the plank in the republican platform which said:

"The public school system of the several states is the bulwark of the American republic, and with a view to its security and permanence we recommend an amendment to the constitution of the United States forbidding the application of any public funds or property for the benefit of any schools or institutions under sectarian control."

That was aimed directly at the Catholic mission schools among the Indians of the west and certain hospitals, orphanages and refuges of the Catholics in the east that were receiving measures of compensation from public funds for doing a public service that the state or city was not equipped to do. It was clearly meant to supply a sop to a strong anti-Catholic sentiment.

* * * *

Will the Catholics Go Republican?

That is the question that is bothering a number of party leaders. It is certain that the republican nominee for president next year will be both Protestant and dry! And if the democratic nominee should be both Protestant and dry, what will the Catholic voter do with the dilemma, both horns of which are alike?

Health Talks

AN OUTLINE OF HYGIENE—9.

Our Mineral Food Requirements.

A normal adult requires daily rather less than an ounce of mineral food, to replace the mineral matter daily excreted from the body through the intestine and kidneys. This includes an average daily ration of half an ounce of common salt (sodium chlorid) taken as a natural constituent of foods (meats) and as a condiment, and this salt is not changed in the body but is excreted unchanged through the kidneys, intestine and skin. Common salt, as every one knows, is an important constituent of the blood serum, tears, sweat and other body fluids. Common salt especially serves to control the absorption, retention and excretion of water, in the body.

In deference to many queries about salt we will digress here to introduce a few pertinent facts about the role of common salt in nutrition, particularly emphasizing points upon which correspondents seem misinformed or confused.

Carniverous animals, eating the flesh and bones and sucking the blood of their prey, get sufficient salt in their food. Herbivorous animals get but little salt in their food and often go far to seek a salt lick. Upon the amount of salt ingested depends the amount of water required by the body and retained in the body, in the tissues. If much salt is consumed, more of the water is retained in the blood and tissues, and the feces will be dry, as in the carnivora; if little salt is consumed less water is retained in the body and the water content of the feces is greater. In a reasonable degree this applies to man's salt consumption. Certainly persons who take too much salt tend to retain too much water in their tissues and more readily develop edema or dropsical states. On an ordinary mixed diet a moderate daily condimental salt ration for an adult is perhaps half a teaspoonful, or two grams; many persons, by habit, take four or five times more salt than they require, and this does not always cause any trouble but it frequently keeps the body somewhat waterlogged and flabby.

A common practice of drinking salt water, perhaps hot, every morning, is scarcely commendable. Drinking plain water is commendable, and will usually accomplish all the benefits one can derive from drinking salted water.

It is still a mystery, awaiting solution by some great chemist—perhaps your boy, who knows?—how the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice is produced or where the stomach gets the hydrogen and chlorin to manufacture the acid. Some physiologists assume it must be made from common salt somehow, which theory seems far fetched. If so, then this is the only purpose for which any salt is actually used up in the body—otherwise all the salt taken into the body is excreted unchanged, serving merely to facilitate the passage of water through the tissues and cells.

Sulphur is taken up by plants from sulphates in the soil and manufactured by the plants into protein food material. If man's diet contains sufficient protein material it will necessarily contain enough sulphur, since sulphur is present in all vegetable and animal proteids, such as egg, milk, beef, beans, peas, wheat, potatoes, oatmeal. There is no reason to imagine that anybody ever suffers from a shortage of sulphur in his diet. On the other hand, we find no indication that an excess of sulphur in the diet can do any harm. Thus there can be no advantage in selecting foods that contain much sulphur or in excluding such foods from one's diet.

AIRMEN HONORED AT WHITE HOUSE

planded mildly. When Lindbergh walked over from the state, war and navy building with a group of fellow pilots, the crowd could not be restrained. They broke through the battling white house police lines and almost mobbed their idol.

Lindbergh stepped faster and at last broke into a run, making the safety of the white house entrance just a few feet ahead of the mob.

"Lindy, Lindy," the crowd yelled and clapped their hands.

They tried to entice the young flier out of the white house but to no avail.

Crowd Seeks Lindy.

Most of the crowd waited for an hour and a half, until the president's luncheon was over and again made a dash for Lindbergh. Ruth Elder went out one gate and Lindbergh the other. But the crowd cast a passing glance at Ruth and broke into a run after Lindbergh who made across the white house lawn for the war department across the street.

Other celebrities were there but were passed by with a smattering of applause. There were, besides Lindbergh, Miss Elder, Haldeman and Byrd, Arthur C. Goebel, winner of the Dole Hawaiian flight; Bernt Balchen, companion to Byrd on the Atlantic flight; Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and A. F. Hegenberger, first to fly to Hawaii; William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, of the around-the-world flight; Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, who flew from New York to Germany; Emory Bronte, Hawaiian flier; George Noville, companion of Byrd's, and Paul Schulter, Dole flight navigator.

Lindbergh Escorts Mrs. Coolidge.

In the white house, President Coolidge escorted Miss Elder to the luncheon table and Mrs. Coolidge entered on the arm of Colonel Lindbergh.

The flying guests sat down to a luncheon of soup, sausage, chicken and mushrooms, and topped it off with coffee and ice cream. During the luncheon Miss Elder held the center of interest and directed most of her conversation to the president.

It was the first time she had met either the president or Lindbergh.

The former, she said, was a "darling" and the latter "a peach."

LINDBERGH'S EXPLOIT BOOST TO AVIATION.

Washington, November 14. Because of what Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has said and done, aeronautic plans for 1928 indicate an activity far beyond any dreams of six months ago. President Coolidge declared tonight as he presented the pilot of the "Spirit of St. Louis" with the National Geographic society's Hubbard medal for pioneer achevement.

"Transportation and communication are essential to civilization," President Coolidge declared in his presentation address. "Within the year an encouragement has been given to their development that has few parallels in history.

"It remained for one of our own citizens in May, 1927, to arouse universal interest in the practical possibilities for travel through the air. His flight, unaided and alone, from New York to Paris, thrilled the world. What he did to strengthen the cordial relations between our people and Europe is well known."

But Lindbergh's greatness did not end there, the president added, for when he returned to America he refused to capitalize his fame for selfish gain but devoted his time to the promotion of aviation.

"This courageous, cedar-headed, sure-handed youth, whose character has withstood the glare of publicity and the acid of hero worshiping adulation, became an apostle of aeronautics," Coolidge said. "He dedicated himself to advancing the science and practice of aviation."

In turning to Lindbergh to pin the medal on his coat lapel, the president declared:

Praise Given Lindy.

"Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, it has been the privilege of few to do as much for a cause in so short a period of time. You have richly merited the many honors already bestowed. Tonight, I have the utmost gratification in awarding you this further recognition of achievement, the Hubbard medal of the National Geographic society."

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society, was in charge of the presentation ceremonies.

Accepting the medal, Lindbergh responded briefly. He said he believed that in the near future airplanes would be flying over all parts of the world and would bring the nations into more intimate contact.

WORK ON VIADUCTS WILL BEGIN MONDAY

and Charles Wickersham, of the L. & N. railway.

B. E. Brooks, of the Brooks-Callaway company, the contracting company to which the work of lowering the tracks was formally let Monday afternoon at a conference in the mayor's office, announced that his company would be ready to start and prosecute to rapid completion the track work as soon as the railroads and other companies can permit his men to begin.

"We are ready now and could start right away," Mr. Brooks said, "but the roads require a little time for adjustments. We plan to complete the present contract in about 60 days, although the contract gives us 90 days in which to finish."

"We are gratified that the contracts are signed, and know that erection of the viaducts means elimination of two very undesirable grade crossings," Mr. Hill said. "Our company has attempted to cooperate in every way possible. The Dixie Limited and the Dixie Flyer, of our road, and the Flamingo and Southland, of the L. & N., will operate from the Terminal station while construction is going on. All other trains will operate from the union station as at present. The tracks will be lowered two at a time and while lowering work is being done on one pair the other four will be used.

"We wish to express our thanks to city officials, the mayor and railroad officials at the Terminal for the gracious manner in which they have cooperated."

Fund Problem Solved.

Action of Mayor Ragsdale in approving the proposal by which the power company is to contribute $400,000 towards financing the structures for the privilege of using them, obviates the necessity of reducing the strength of the bridges or of eliminating the connection bridge along the Wall street side of the projects between Peachtree street and Central avenue or of Alabama street approaches, steps contemplated in the event the city found itself without sufficient funds to construct them.

A proposal to which Mr. Arkwright agreed was offered to city council at its last meeting, but it was amended. The present contract provides among other things that the city keep present jitney ordinances in force, but permits abrogation of the contract by repayment of $50,000 of the $400,000 contribution. The paper to which Mr. Arkwright agreed stipulated that abrogation should be "in the reasonable judgment of the mayor and city council for public convenience and necessity." This clause was omitted from the amended paper.

Papers Are Approved.

Frank H. Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission, is in New York on an inspection tour for the purpose of assisting members of the school board of education and the bond commission in settling on a system of heating for the new schools.

"Members of the bond commission have worked tirelessly in an effort to bring about just what occurred Monday afternoon, so that actual start on the viaduct projects can be begun at once," A. D. Greenfield, chairman of the viaduct committee of the bond commission, said. "All members of the viaduct committee and Mr. Neely have done everything possible to hasten start of actual work. Now that it is near, we feel much gratified."

"Construction of the viaducts will mean removal of cross-town street car and vehicular traffic from Whitehall, Broad and Forsyth streets and will speed up travel in the heart of the city at least ten miles an hour," Councilman Harry York, chairman of the traffic committee of city council, said. "Atlanta needs the viaducts badly. Two dangerous grade crossings will be bridged. This is one of the greatest single improvements. Atlanta has seen since erection of the Spring street bridge."

"The Atlanta Improvement association has assisted in the movement, and helped sponsor the bond issue making the viaducts possible," C. D. Knight, president and former councilman from the ninth ward, declared. "Members of council, the bond commission, state, county and railroad executives are to be congratulated. Work on the city hall, schools and other projects contemplated from bond funds should be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible."

Participants in Conference.

Included among those who participated in the conference at Mayor Ragsdale's office Monday afternoon in addition to the mayor, Mr. Hill, Mr. Wickersham, Mr. Schulz, Mr. Moore and Mr. Hartsfield, were Fitzgerald Hall, vice president and general counsel for the N. C. & St. L. railroad; W. G. Templeton, general manager of the same line; D. F. Barry and H. G. Overholt, of the Schulz organization; J. P. Anderson, division engineer of the N. C. & St. L.; S. R. Young, engineer of the Georgia railway, and L. & N. railway; C. E. Kaufmann, bridge engineer of the city; C. H. Johnson, senior engineer of the N. C. & St. L.; Mr. Brooks, B. R. Moore, and John L. Tye, counsel for the N. C. & St. L.

During the morning hours, the contract between the state of Georgia and the city was signed at the governor's office. Those approving the papers included Governor L. G. Hardman, James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission; Commissioners Albert J. Woodruff, O. R. Bennett, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale; Senator Walter F. Hendrix, of Atlanta, chairman of the legislative committee, and Representative Emmett Williams, of Walton county, secretary of the legislative committee. The special legislative committee consisted of three senators and six members of the legislature and the following six, constituting a quorum approved the papers:

Senators Walter Hendrix, of Atlanta, and Shirley Boykin, of Carrollton, and Representatives J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county; Hamp and Emmett Williams, of Walton county, and Joe Wood, former representative of Fulton county.

Society Head Delivers Address on Organization's Work as Honor Guest at Dinner.

In rebuilt France, the only concrete thing remaining to draw attention to the late world war is the fact that white crosses stud the green slopes of hills, reminding members of the American Legion that it is their duty to carry on the ideals of those who fought and died for this country, declared Pelham St. George Bissell, of New York, chef de chemin de Fer, of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, Monday night at a dinner in his honor at the Henry Grady hotel.

Mr. Bissell was entertained Monday by the local voiture, No. 217, of the society of forty men and eight horses, the playground of the legion. The visit of the national commander included a trip to Stone Mountain, a luncheon given by the executive committee of the local legion post, a visit to the veterans' hospital on Peachtree road, and the dinner Monday night, followed by a party at Keith's Georgia theater as guests of the management on the occasion of its anniversary week.

Purpose of Society.

In his address Monday night, Mr. Bissell pointed out that a serious purpose underlies the organization of the society of the 40 and 8, and that in carrying out this purpose the society during the past year presented $18,000 to the legion for child welfare work and a gift of $5,000 to Madame Foch for the war orphans. In addition the 40 and 8 society brought in 13,000 new members for the legion during the year.

France is now a place of rebuilt homes, with the trenches filled in, the barbed wire of no man's land used for cattle fencing, and the landscape cleared of war-time scars, Mr. Bissell said. Occasionally a trench is found in a forgotten portion of the forests, and dug-outs still exist in the Argonne, but the only real concrete evidence of the war remaining is the presence of the cross marked graves.

Mr. Bissell urged the local voiture to forward the work of the American Legion school award, which is given on a basis of honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service. The 40 and 8, he said, is primarily an organization for service, and expressed the hope that an endowment fund will be established so that the awards may be strengthened.

Speakers at Dinner.

Frank Haase, commander of the local voiture, presided as toastmaster at the dinner. Asa Warren Candler, state commander of the legion; Frank Kempton, local post commander; Mrs. A. H. Hazzard, president of the legion auxiliary; Mrs. W. R. Price-Smith, president of the Atlanta Woman's club; John Westmoreland; George West, president of the chamber of commerce; Guy Stone, grand commander of the Georgia 40 and 8, and Joe Carr, of Rome, state secretary of 40 and 8; Harry Wallerstein, voiture 217, and Basil Stockbridge, made short addresses of welcome to National President Bissel and Mrs. Bissell.

Major General R. P. Davis, commandant of the fourth corps area, made a short speech in French, urging support of the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C., and asking that the 40 and 8 do everything in its power to strike down pacifism and communism.

and professional men and all others who in any measure, large or small, may aid the campaign, was announced with J. B. Coppedge as chairman and organizer.

A board of directors committee with Robert H. Jones, Jr., as chairman, and members of the board of directors from Atlanta as members, was created. A third committee, to be headed by Joseph R. Murphy and to include a large number of Oglethorpe university alumni, will function as the alumni committee. The faculty committee will be under the direction of Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe, with Dr. James Routh, Dr. H. J. Gaertner, Dr. M. H. Hunt and Frank Bauderson as assisting members.

Great Progress Outlined.

Dr. Jacobs told the group at the luncheon of the exceptional progress being made at Oglethorpe, how the campus had grown from 40 acres to 200 acres, of a student body which has increased from 40 to 400 students and a library which started with 10 volumes and which now numbers 60,000.

Clark Howell, Sr., spoke of the unusual character of Mr. Lupton's gift to Oglethorpe, a man not an Atlantan and not even a Georgian, who has made possible the acquiring of half a million dollars, himself giving half of that sum, for an institution of higher education located in Atlanta.

This entire amount would be spent in Atlanta, would be for the benefit of Atlantans and would greatly add to the Gate City in every way, Mr. Howell declared. Atlanta will show its appreciation, he asserted, and in its gratefulness to Mr. Lupton will match his gift dollar for dollar.

The annual report of the board of directors was presented by Judge Edgar Watkins, president of the board, showing the financial condition of the university following the annual audits.

Alumni Meeting Today.

The alumni committee will meet at 12:30 o'clock today at a luncheon at the Winecoff hotel. Alumni of Oglethorpe are urged to be present. The faculty committee will meet Wednesday, the board of directors committee Thursday and the citizens committee Friday. The meetings will take the form of luncheons at the Winecoff and complete organization of the four groups will be accomplished.

The board of directors committee, under the leadership of Mr. Jones, will be composed of:

C. K. Ayer, Dr. G. D. Ayer, James R. Bachman, Dr. S. T. Barnett, Milton W. Bell, G. H. Brandon, John A. Br

4TH PSYCHOLOGY LECTURE TONIGHT

Lectures on phychology begun last week by the Rev. Thomas H. Johnston, D. D., Litt., D., dean of St. Philip's cathedral, will be concluded this week in the parish house of the cathedral on East Hunter street, directly opposite the state capitol. The three concluding lectures will be given tonight, Wednesday and Thursday nights, beginning at 8 o'clock.

"It's a predigested course in psychology," declared one of the dean's students at the conclusion of the first three lectures. "The trouble with the study of psychology for the average man and woman is that the text books are too abstruse. Psychology is such an elusive subject that few other than college professors have attempted to master it. Naturally, their books on the subject have been mostly of a pedantic style, filled with the terminology of the scientist, which the average person hasn't the time and patience to puzzle out. Dean Johnston has packed into a few lectures the result of many years of deep study on the subject of psychology, and is serving up to his hearers the sum and substance of all these years of study."

According to the announcement Dean Johnston purposes in the lectures to present psychology in simple every-day language, employing readily understood illustrations, in order that the lay student may comprehend the subject and gain a better idea of how to employ the forces of phychology in the working out of his every-day problems.

"Psychology, rightly understood, is one of man's greatest aids," stated Dean Johnston. "It has lain dormant with many men and women, while others, comprehending its possibilities and learning how to employ them, have achieved success far beyond their apparent abilities. Ever and anon someone points out a person of alleged mediocre ability who has surged far ahead of the crowd and wonders how he managed to get all of the 'lucky breaks.' A study of phychology shows us how the lucky breaks' may be predetermined through the application of natural laws, and it is this side of psychology that I am trying to present in these lectures."

LOREN LEISTER HAS RELAPSE; DEATH EXPECTED

After being apparently on the road to recovery for several days, Loren Leister, 12-year-old victim of a Halloween bullet, lapsed Monday back into a serious condition with death momentarily expected, according to attending physicians.

The boy's pulse, respiration, and temperature were extraordinarily high, and he was just barely conscious throughout the day. Food and nourishment had to be forced on the boy for the first time in four days. Heretofore he has been eating candy and ice cream with enthusiasm.

Woman's Club Endorses Plan For Memorial To L. P. Grant

:: Organization Approves of Move To Honor Park Founder ::

A resolution indorsing The Constitution's editorial captioned "Does Atlanta Remember?" in which impetus was given the suggestion of Mrs. John E. Murphy that a monument be erected to L. P. Grant in the city park bearing his name, was passed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club, in the clubhouse on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Murphy called attention to the fact that except for the name the park bears there is no memorial to show Atlanta's appreciation for the gift made a half century ago, when the late L. P. Grant presented the city with the beautiful south side tract.

In taking action upon the matter of the Grant memorial the Atlanta Woman's club went on record as pledging full support and cooperation to erecting a proper monument to the great city benefactor. Mrs. Charles J. Haden, resolutions chairman, introduced the resolution with the following words:

"The small waters which bubble in Lake Itasca and swell into the mighty Mississippi will illustrate the thought that came into the heart of one of our splendid citizens, Mrs. John E. Murphy, who recently made a visit in company with friends to Grant park and realized that there was no suitable memorial in honor of the donor of this lovely park. Great benefactions do not always receive immediate recognition in visible expression, yet in human hearts there lie deepest gratitude for such benefactions, with the awakening of patriotic appreciation of the manifold benefits to our city from this great gift of L. P. Grant."

In her letter to the editor of The Constitution, Mrs. Murphy said: "L. P. Grant, the donor of Grant park, not only furnished a playground for the children of Atlanta, but he also gave his time and energy for the cause of education, being one of the founders of the public school system and a member of the first board of education. In all the vast and beautiful acreage given to the city by this public benefactor there is not one mark of appreciation erected to his memory."

STRICTER OBSERVANCE OF GAME LAWS URGED

Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner, returned to his office Monday after attending a series of conferences with game wardens held in several cities recently to discuss plans for the enforcement of the game laws during the hunting season. During the past week Mr. Twitty attended conferences held at Albany, Waycross, Millen and Macon.

Mr. Twitty states that in his talks to the game wardens at these meetings he placed particular emphasis upon the importance of arousing a more wholesome sentiment for the observance of the game and fish laws in each county. "We are conducting a vigorous campaign for the proper enforcement of these laws," said Mr. Twitty, "but I think it extremely important that we first 'sell the law to the people.' We are trying to show the people of every county that it is to their interest that they protect their game, fish and other wild life. Georgia's game and fish laws are more liberal than those of any other state, and if our people do not observe the few, reasonable, commonsense provisions of these laws, our supply of game and fish and other wild life will soon be depleted to a very alarming status.

"I am persistently urging all game wardens and deputies to use good, common horsesense in the prosecution of cases. Occasionally some overzealous or indiscreet warden will make a case for a petty violation that should have been disregarded. The prosecution of a frivolous case does our cause more harm than good, and I am urging wardens and other representatives of the department not to prosecute except for fundamental offenses, or for infractions of the real spirit of the law.

"It is extremely unpleasant to docket a case against anyone; on the contrary, we believe it our first duty to acquaint the people with the law and warn them against violations. I believe there should be a reasonable amount of sportsmanship used in the enforcement of our game laws as well as in their observance."

WITNESS IS FINED $30 FOR FAILURE TO ANSWER CALL

Continuing his policy of fining tardy witnesses, Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, Monday fined H. Randolph, an employee of the Fisk Tire company, on Stewart avenue, $30 or 20 days in jail.

Mr. Randolph failed to answer when his name was called to testify in a case and Judge Howard immediately dispatched a deputy sheriff to bring the witness into court. He was asked why he had not appeared when court convened at 9 o'clock, and Mr. Randolph replied that he "was too busy and didn't notice the time." Judge Howard ruled that this was no legitimate excuse and assessed the fine.

Judge Howard reasserted that drastic measures would be resorted to in the future to see that the court is not delayed by witnesses, lawyers, or anybody else failing to answer a subpoena.

ALUMNI WILL GATHER SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Alumni of the Georgia State College for Women will gather at 1:30 o'clock Saturday at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic club. Members of the association and former students have been urged to attend by Miss Julia Fillingim and Miss Ida Randall, in charge of reservations.

RACING INJUNCTION HEARING DELAYED

By agreement of attorneys representing all persons concerned, a hearing of a petition for an injunction to restrain the Dixie Lakes Kennel clubs from operating its dog-racing plant near Union City was postponed Monday by Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit until the next term of the Campbell county superior court which will be held in February.

Recently a temporary restraining order was granted by Judge Hutcheson at the request of a group of citizens of Campbell county. Under this temporary order the club was restrained from using its method of presenting purses to owners of winning dogs for division.

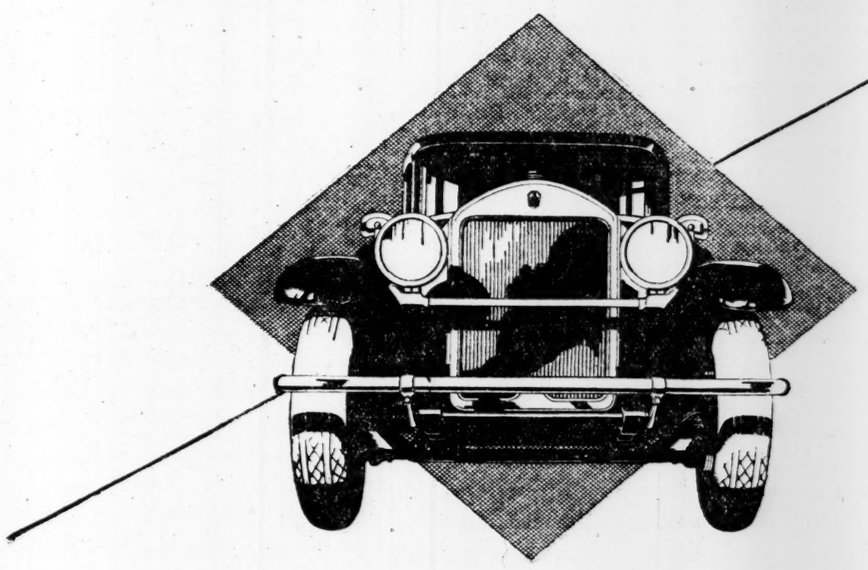
New in its every aspect!



THIS is the most momentous day in Pierce-Arrow's twenty-six years. It marks the arrival of the Pierce-Arrow 81—a new motor car which strikingly transcends all predecessors—which in beauty and performance incorporates significantly more than even Pierce-Arrow ever before offered.

Pierce-Arrow designers and engineers have reached into the future and made tomorrow's car an existing creation.

Its charm and symmetry—its distinctively Continental atmosphere—its spirited lines and poise—render it irresistible to the eye. Rich in interior appointments, as one naturally expects of a Pierce-Arrow, it will entice and thrill the most fastidious.

Revolutionary in its responsiveness, it will instantly captivate the most critical driver.

Distinctively Pierce-Arrow, it is on all occasions, formal or otherwise, an unmistakable social asset. For Pierce-Arrow is and always has been the car of fine cars.

Like all Pierce-Arrow cars, it is generously roomy and luxuriously comfortable. It is in no sense a small car.

TICKET SALE OPENS FOR PIANO RECITAL

The first day ticket sale for the Maier & Pattison concert of music for two pianos had a spirited start Monday with several schools and studios of music purchasing blocks of seats. This is the second attraction of the civic series under the auspices of the Atlanta Music club to be presented at the city auditorium Wednesday evening, 8:30 o'clock.

Guy Maier and Lee Pattison deserve the credit for popularizing a long-neglected form of musical art. They have raised the music for two pianos to a standard hitherto unapproached. They use two concert grand pianos, with the long ends dovetailed together so that both players face each other. The lid is removed from the piano nearest the audience and the other lid then acts as a sounding board for both pianos.

Much curiosity and speculation have been aroused as to just what is the reason for their practice of changing pianos during the course of the programs, often several times in a single recital. According to Mr. Pattison, the only reason for the change for any number is that one piano may be better than the other for carrying the theme, or for getting a singing tone. No two pianos, he claims, are exactly alike, no matter how expertly they are built. There is always a good musicianly reason for using one or the other piano and it is determined, he says, by the exigencies of the music itself.

Tickets for the concert will continue at Phillips & Crew Piano Co. until the night of the concert.

W. F. DYKES HEADS FULTON COUNTY TEACHERS' BODY

W. F. Dykes, principal of Fulton High school and former superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, was elected president of the Fulton County Teachers' association Monday afternoon at the first general meeting of the school year.

Mr. Dykes succeeds Boyd Taylor, who left the county school system to return to the editorial staff of an Atlanta newspaper, with which he was identified for a number of years before entering the teaching profession. He was president of the county teachers two years.

The Fulton County Teachers' association is made up of 3000 teachers of Fulton county, East Point and College Park and is affiliated with the Atlanta Federation of Trades and with the American Federation of Teachers.

The annual election Monday was held at Fulton High school.

TENNILE BOY KILLED HUNTING SQUIRRELS

Tennile, Ga., November 14.—(AP)—Funeral services were held here today for Clyde Walker, 16, who was accidently shot and killed in a squirrel hunt Saturday. The youth left his home early in the morning and told members of his family he would return by 9 o'clock. When he failed to return in time for dinner his family became anxious and a search was instituted. He was located by his uncle, who found the body lying face downward in a small thicket near here. It is supposed the youth dropped his gun causing it to discharge and he received the full charge in the stomach.

He is survived by his parents and one brother and one sister.

SMALL PLANT BURNS AT STEVENS POTTERY

Milledgeville, Ga., November 14.—(AP)—Fire which started from a stove in the moulding room of one of the plants operated by Stevens, Inc., at Stevens Pottery, nine miles from here, partially destroyed the smaller plant owned by the company. The loss is estimated at $50,000 by Walter S. Stapler, president of the organization.

Stevens, Inc., which is owned by and operated by heirs of the late W. C. and J. H. Stevens, manufacture fire brick at their two plants at Stevens Pottery. Mr. Stapler said that the fire will not materially affect the company as the larger plant was not damaged and plans will be made for the rebuilding of the destroyed plant, as soon as the board of directors can be convened.

TWO BOYS DIE IN BANK CAVE-IN

Newnan, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—Two boys, J. C. Stamps and J. Hewlete Wallace, were killed on the Wallace farm thre miles north of Newnan Sunday afternoon when a creek embankment caved in on them while the boys were enjoying baked sweet potatoes they had cooked during the afternoon. Both boys were 14 years of age and had been inseparable companions since childhood.

The Stamps boy was spending the day with the Wallace boy and about noon they told Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wallace, parents of young Wallace, that they were going down to the old cave on the creek and roast some sweet potatoes and would not be home to dinner.

Late Sunday afternoon the parents of young Wallace became uneasy and a search was made for the youths. When they arrived at the creek they noticed that the bank had caved in for several feet. Excavation of the fallen dirt and rocks disclosed that the boys were embedded nearly five feet below the surface.

Stamps is survived by his father, C. H. Stamps, and several brothers and sisters. Wallace is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin D. Wallace, and two sisters. Funeral services will be held from the First Methodist church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. C. M. Lipham officiating. Interment will be at Oakhill cemetery.

MISSING MISSISSIPPI YOUTH SOUGHT HERE

John Hunter Dorroh, 17-year-old Johnson High school student, of Jackson, Miss., has been missing from his home since November 5, and W. G. Dorroh, his father, a veteran engineer on the Illinois Central railroad, has written The Constitution asking for aid in locating his son.

The lad left home presumably to attend a picture show, his father stated, and has not been seen since. He is a member of the senior class of the high school, a member of the boy's band, the DeMolay's, the high school orchestra, and of the Capitol Street Methodist church of Jackson.

He is described as being about five feet and six inches tall, dark complexion, has grey eyes and wore a brown suit. Members of his family can assign no reason for his having left home, as he is of a bright and cheerful disposition and seemed to be exceptionally happy at home and among his schoolmates.

DECISION WEAKENS ELLIS HEALTH LAW

Milledgeville, Ga., November 14.—(AP)—James B. Parr, presiding judge of the Ocmulgee circuit, three a bomb under the Ellis Health law in a decision handed down here today, ruling that county health officers operating under the Ellis law had no jurisdiction in the municipalities in the counties in which they served.

Dr. Sam Anderson, Baldwin county health officer, was the defendant in the case heard by Judge Park this morning in Monticello. Dr. Anderson had issued an order to the Walter Main circus preventing them from showing here due to threatened epidemic of diptheria in the county. The circus had filed an injunction to restrain Dr. Anderson from stopping the show. The injunction was read this morning.

Affidavits from every doctor in Milledgeville and Baldwin county bore out the fact that there was a threatened epidemic and that the disease was generally spread over the county. Several cases of scarlet fever had been reported and Dr. Anderson, acting on this situation, tried to prevent the circus showing here, thus checking any spread of the disease.

After Judge Park ruled on the right of Dr. Anderson to stop a show or other traveling performers from coming here regardless of the condition of affairs, the matter was referred to the Milledgeville city council seeking to have the license rescinded with similar evidence introduced. The council had already issued a license, the show having arrived here Sunday and refused to interfere with the performance.

Dr. Abercrombie, head of the state board of health, with offices in Atlanta, was present at the hearing and testified. It is probable that the decision of Park would be appealed to higher courts as the ruling makes the Ellis health law useless in the counties where it is operating.

The law was passed in 1914 and there are now 18 counties in Georgia operating under this system.

McDONOUGH ROAD HOUSE AND BARN RAZED BY FIRE

A large two-story house and a barn on the McDonough road about two miles south of the United States prison were completely destroyed by fire early Monday night.

City firemen were called to extinguish the flames, but could do nothing but prevent the flames from spreading to nearby houses, as there was no water supply near. Several chemical extinguishers were used to prevent the flames from spreading. No estimate of the damage was made by firemen.

Three two-story negro dwellings on Pulliam street were considerably damaged by fire early Monday morning and one was completely gutted. Origin of the fire was not learned and occupants of the houses were unaware of the danger until city firemen had arrived.

TWO FORMER ATLANTA NEWSPAPERMEN HERE

Two former Atlanta newspapermen who have now risen to high places in New York politics and in business, Robert Adamson, former city editor of The Constitution, and Joseph Johnson, former political writer of the Journal, will be honored at a dinner at 7 o'clock Friday night at the Biltmore hotel by the Presidents' club.

Mr. Adamson and Mr. Johnson are motoring to Atlanta from New York city and will arrive here some time this week. Mell R. Wilkinson, perpetual president of the Presidents' club, will preside at the dinner, with F. J. Paxon, vice president, in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Adamson is now president of the Southern Society of New York. Mr. Johnson is now the public service commissioner for the city at large.

Both of the men went east more than 20 years ago. They were both members of the "Quadrant club," composed of four newspaper men, Adamson, Johnson, Julian Harris, now editor of the Columbus Enquirer-Sun, and Walter Howard, now dead.

Mr. Adamson at that time was city editor of The Constitution, and Mr. Johnson was a star writer and political expert on the journal.

Adamson With Sun.

Later Mr. Adamson became reporter for the New York Sun when that newspaper was in its palmier days, and afterward he became political writer for the New York World. He was executive secretary for Mayor Gaynor, of New York, and a fire commissioner. Going into business, he became president of the International Vegetable Oil company, from which post he resigned to be vice president of the Central Mercantile Bank & Trust company. He was also active in Woodrow Wilson's first presidential campaign.

Mr. Johnson was for years a newspaperman in New York. Entering politics, he and Mr. Adamson fought as friendly enemies when the former managed John McCall's campaign for mayor on the Tammany ticket, while Mr. Adamson managed the campaign of John Purroy Mitchel, independent candidate, who won.

Mr. Johnson served as fire commissioner under Mayor Hylan, and he also organized the "Order of Acorns," an experiment in New York politics which became internationally famous.

One of the best local friends of the two men is Alfred C. Newell, of Columbian National Life Insurance company, who was a newspaperman in Atlanta and afterward in New York, about the same time as the visitors.

Noted 'Moo-Cow' Band To Enliven Fiddlers' Meet

This week's convention of the Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' association at the Atlanta auditorium will be enlivened by the presence of Jim Byles and his noted Moo-Cow band, from Fayette county, it was announced yesterday by Professor Aleck Smart, master of ceremonies.

Professor Smart has just returned from a visit to several counties where he had conducted fiddlers' contests and enlisted contestants for the state championship, to be held Friday and Saturday nights at the auditorium.

"Jim Byles has a regular band or string orchestra of eight fiddlers, if you count banjoes and a bull fiddle," he said. "They play regular music, not this new kind that's sweeping the country and playing heck generally. All of them live down at the foot end of Fayette county.

"Grady Carson and his one-string fiddle are coming back, and Grady says he is going to bring along enough 'possum and sweet potatoes to give a 'possum feed to all the fiddlers, if he can find some place to cook. He has a pen full he has been fattening up for two weeks."

A special session of the fiddlers' convention will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the special benefit of the old folks and children. Mr. Smart announced. The public is invited to all three of the fiddlers' performances.

Grand Jury Presentments--An Appalling Increase of Crime

The County Administration, Taxes, Roads, Bridges, Jail, Courthouse and Penal Institutions.

PRESENTMENTS OF THE GRAND JURY.

September Term 1927—Fulton Superior Court.

To the Honorable John D. Humphries, Judge of the Superior Court.

We the grand jury for Fulton county, September term 1927, make these presentments to the honorable court.

During the nine weeks of our term we have found 312 true bills and 13 no bills, after hearing from near a thousand witnesses. These indictments cover almost the whole range of crime, from misdemeanors to murder. Nearly all the offenders are under 25 years of age and a large majority are under twenty-one.

We are confronted with an appalling increase of crime among young people. The juvenile court has tried 2,175 boys and girls during the past year and an equal or greater number were dealt with by the officers out of court, making more than 4,000 juvenile offenders. During the same year the grand juries have indicted and the superior and city courts have tried about 1,000 under twenty-one years, making in all something over 5,000 boys and girls under age who were charged with various grades of crime, from minor offenses to robbery and rape.

These offenders outnumber the boys and girls in the high schools. The enrollment in the high schools of Atlanta and Fulton county is 4,250 against 5,000 young law breakers.

This frightful condition exists at a time when the forces at work for the improvement of society and the development of men and women are more numerous, better organized and more active than ever before. The city of Atlanta is spending twice as much on schools as it spent ten years ago. There are more and better paid teachers and the same is true of the county schools.

Two great universities and a theological school have been established here in the same period. Many churches have been built. Sunday schools have been greatly enlarged and young peoples' religious bodies have grown by thousands. Not less than 60 per cent of the population is enlisted in religious, civic and fraternal organizations actively at work for the betterment of old and young.

In this community there are 110,000 church members, 50,000 in Sunday schools, 10,000 in young peoples' religious societies, 54,000 in the public schools, 8,000 in colleges and technical schools and more than 50,000 in civic, fraternal and professional clubs. With due allowance for duplication not less than 150,000 are enlisted in good work. Many more millions are spent through all these agencies on work for the elevation of men and women, boys and girls, than ever before, but in the face of all this well-meant and organized effort to improve conditions and elevate the standard of life, crime, especially among the young, is increasing at an appalling rate and all that the courts, the schools, the churches and the welfare organizations are doing does not stop the frightful growth of evil.

This alarming condition is not peculiar to Atlanta or Fulton county. It exists in all the great cities of this country and the problem of dealing with it has baffled the thought and effort of the ablest and best men of many states. Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Illinois and other great states are wrestling with it and a number of states have created crime commissions to study this situation and recommend measures that will prevent crime. In New York it is said that the series of laws proposed by the commission headed by Honorable Caleb Baumes and enacted by the legislature in 1925 have greatly reduced serious crimes.

In an earnest effort to find measures of improvement we asked seven of the ablest judges and three of the best prosecuting officers in Georgia to come and counsel with us on this grave matter. They all came and spent the afternoon with us on October 31. We heard first of all from Judge John D. Humphries, under whom we serve, and then from these eminent gentlemen:

Judge Samuel H. Sibley, U. S. court.

Judge James K. Hines, Georgia supreme court.

Judge William F. Jenkins, Georgia court of appeals.

Judge G. H. Howard, Fulton superior court.

Judge Jesse M. Wood, criminal court of Atlanta.

Judge Garland Watkins, juvenile court of Atlanta.

Hon. E. A. Stephens, assistant solicitor general.

Hon. Carlton Binns, socilitor general of the city criminal court.

Chief James L. Beavers of the Atlanta police department.

Solicitor General Boykin was out of the city but has made known his views to us and they are in harmony with those expressed by these gentlemen.

This session, like others of the grand jury, was executive, but Judge Humphries had the remarks of the learned gentlemen taken down in shorthand, and the stenographer's report of them accompanies these presentments. The grand jury was deeply impressed with the earnestness, the wisdom and the practical nature of the talks by gentlemen who had been practicing law for 25 to 40 years and had filled every position from solicitor general to judge of the highest court.

Feeling the need of more than human wisdom in dealing with this grave problem, the grand jury called on Judge Sibley to open the proceedings with a request for divine guidance and he did so reverently and earnestly.

Everyone felt the seriousness of the occasion. In a discussion lasting more than two hours there was hardly a jest by any speaker. The talks were luminous and at times brilliant, but all were dominated by a spirit of complete frankness and great earnestness.

Their value can only be appreciated by reading the verbatim report, which we recommend to every parent, every editor, every minister of the gospel, every teacher, every judge and solicitor general and every leader of thought.

In order that they may be read we recommend that the stenographer's report of this discussion, and the charge of Judge Humphries, be printed in pamphlet form and sent to editors, ministers, teachers, judges, solicitors general and members of the legislature throughout the state, the pamphlet to include the part of our presentments which deals with crime.

Judge Humphries, in opening the discussion, said that while it is necessary to punish crime in order to protect society, that is not a constructive work. The criminal is seldom reformed. The great constructive work is to train the young so that they will abhor evil, obey the law, have respect for authority and live upright and useful lives.

The learned gentlemen agreed in the opinion that the courts cannot prevent crime without the active and consistent support of the home, the school, the church and all organs of opinion, by instilling in the mind of the child from early infancy a wholesome respect for law and authority, a conscientious regard for right and an abhorrence of evil.

As Mr. Stephens tersely said, "the way to prevent crime is to stop it before it begins."

All emphasized the breaking down of home influence as one of the causes of crime. Judge Jenkins said:

"With many a boy the father is 'the governor' or 'the old man,' and home is a place to park the automobile. The family altar is almost a forgotten institution. Thousands of boys and girls don't know what it is."

He said that style has a powerful influence on people and if it is made stylish to obey law people will obey it.

Judge Hines said that while, under our laws, the schools can't teach the Bible, they should teach morality to the child from his earliest years to the highest grade. He thought the home should do more to train the child and should not so soon shove it off on the public, and parents should not shirk their sacred duties to their children.

He spoke reverently of the churches, but said he thought they gave "too much attention to mint and anise and cummin, and neglected the weightier matters of the law."

Judge Howard commended the work of the Industrial School for Girls and suggested another for girls somewhat older.

Judge Wood said that criminals coming out of the chaingang or the penitentiary have no place to earn a living as nobody will employ them. It is impossible to reform them without teaching them a trade by which they can earn an honest living.

Judge Garland Watkins, Mr. Stephens and Chief Beavers pointed to moving pictures, bad literature and pool rooms as prolific causes of crime.

"Many a boy tried in my court," said Judge Watkins, "had simply acted out what he saw in the movies."

We commend to the attention of parents the weighty words of Judge Watkins of the juvenile court, concerning the neglect of children by parents.

This solemn warning comes out of his experience in dealing with hundreds of boys and girls whose heartbroken parents were shocked to find that their neglected children were law breakers.

Judge Sibley emphasized the importance of a healthy public sentiment for obedience to law as one of the strongest preventives of crime.

The individual conscience, with the realization that God sees all offenses and punishes them, a healthy public sentiment for law observance, the influence of the home and the church all combined constitute the power that will prevent crime.

He said that the most shocking thing to him, even more than the number of criminals, was the apparent indifference of people to the odious nature of their offenses. It does not seem to trouble them if only they can get by with it.

Judge Hines said that years ago when he was solicitor general of a Georgia circuit larceny by a white man was almost unknown, but now it is a common occurrence. He agreed with Judge Sibley that there is a breaking down of public sentiment against crime and this is one of the most serious phases of the present condition.

Mr. Carlton Binns said that while all that had been said was true, it was not the whole truth, and to give the other side of the picture he told of the earnest work of the young peoples' religious societies, which number thousands in Atlanta and many scores of thousands in the state, one body having 60,000 members.

Chief Beavers said he thought the situation was not hopeless; that the nation as a whole is not going to destruction, though many people are. He emphasized the evil influence of bad movies, pool rooms and scant bathing costumes, saying that if women had appeared 35 years ago in the bathing costumes of today they would have been locked up with the approval of the people.

This grand jury had to indict for abandonment of wives and young children a number of men who earned a fair living for themselves, but had gone to other states to live unlawfully with other women. Judge Humphries tells us that divorces are largely increased by the evil influence of examples in communities and families and our observation shows that the increasing laxity of marriage relations is accompanied by shocking offenses against girls and young women by young men under age.

Most crimes of violence are committed by young people under 25 years of age and in most cases the perpetrators were under the baleful influence of bootleg liquor. This vile stuff not only destroys the health of those who take it, but produces in them a homicidal mania which endangers the lives of those about them.

There is evidence to show that bootleggers encourage larceny by furnishing a market for stolen automobiles.

Whatever may be the opinion of people about the prohibition law and the 18th amendment, so long as they are the law of the land, they should be enforced by the whole power of state and national governments. If the law is wise, enforcement will be salutary. If it is unwise enforcement will cause its repeal. Nothing is more pernicious than a general disrespect for law, and those people who patronize bootleggers in defiance of law have no one but themselves to blame when their children become law breakers.

We have had before us several cases in which burglars and thieves found a market for stolen goods in the shops of pawnbrokers and junk dealers. This encourages crime and we recommend that the city council and the legislature enact stringent laws and ordinances which will stop this evil practice.

We have been deeply impressed with the great ability, the practical wisdom and the earnest and laborious devotion to duty by Judge John D. Humphries, under whom we serve; Solicitor General John A. Boykin and his assistants, Mr. E. A. Stephens and Mr. Walter LeCraw, who have worked with us.

COUNTY ADMINISTRATION.

We find that the affairs of the county are being capably administered by the board of county commissioners, but there is room for improvement and the further exercise of economy.

On January 1, 1927, after paying all indebtedness, the county had on hand $25,622.76 and about $1,000,000 due the county on uncollected taxes. During the fiscal year ending September 30, 1926, the total receipts of the county exceeded its disbursements by $122,158.64. As the previous year showed a large excess of expenditures over receipts, this was a gain of $792,793.61.

As the tax rate is not fixed until October 10 and the bulk of the taxes do not come in until near the end of the year, it is necessary for the county to borrow money to meet its heavy monthly pay rolls and other large expenses. The constitutional limit of temporary loans to one-fifth of one per cent of the taxable property does not allow the county to anticipate enough of the year's revenue to meet its monthly obligations and this has led to the issue of county warrants before the taxes come in. It would be far better to give the county commissioners authority, as proposed by the legislature, to borrow in anticipation of the year's tax receipts, as much as one-half the previous year's tax receipts and pay it back when the tax comes in.

It will be still better and we recommend that the county commissioners adopt and enforce a policy of rigid economy in county affairs with the purpose of eventually accumulating a surplus to meet the expenses of the county through the first nine months of the year and until taxes come in.

The necessity for borrowing would be obviated if the county taxes were made payable as city taxes are, in three installments, May 1, July 1 and September 1, with the final limit December 10 as at present, discounts being allowed the taxpayers on early payments, which would bring money into the treasury with a more even flow. To this end we recommend that the county commissioners and our representatives in the legislature take steps to secure the legislation necessary to put this plan of tax collection into effect.

Believing that the present tax rate of Fulton county produces funds in excess of its reasonable requirements, we do not earnestly request the honorable commissioners of roads and revenues to so prepare their budget as to give some relief to the taxpayers.

We commend the county commissioners for the present splendid system of roads, and as a body we heartily favor good roads, but it should be borne in mind that the rich and poor alike pay for these roads and that taxes are capital levies and are burdensome. A reasonable curtailment in road building, thus extending the period of construction over a number of years, together with a more economical administration of the county's affairs, should reduce our taxes.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Fulton county has a third of the hard-surface road mileage in Georgia and it is claimed that this county has, in proportion to area and population, more miles of hard-surface road than any other county in the United States. Of these roads there are 332 miles, of which 140 miles are concrete, 120 miles are asphalt and 72 miles are oil macadam, in addition to 60 miles graded, but not yet paved.

There are in the county two steel bridges, 27 concrete and 26 wooden bridges. The commissioners expect to replace the wooden bridges with concrete in three years.

We call attention to the dangerous condition of the bridge over the A. B. & C. railway on the Fairburn road. It crosses the railroad on a reverse curve and is very dangerous. A serious accident occurred there several years ago. We recommend that the A. B. & C. railway, which built this bridge, replace it with a new one, cut out the curve and make it safe. The bridge over the Moore's Mill road, built by the Seaboard Air Line, is only 12 feet wide and the paved road is 30 feet wide. We recommend that the Seaboard Air Line widen this bridge to the width of the road. Both these bridges over railways are in urgent need of attention.

The county police regularly inspect the bridges of the county and report their condition to the construction department. This cooperation is valuable to the county and has prevented deterioration of bridges by causing prompt repairs.

The two steel bridges over the Chattahoochee river are a joint charge of Fulton and Cobb counties, but Fulton has had to bear most of the expense of their upkeep. It is proposed to lay a concrete floor on the wooden base of these brides.

Piedmont avenue, a much needed highway into north Fulton from Atlanta, has been completed under the capable direction of Mr. Clarke, the superintendent of public works.

SCHOOLS.

Our committee visited many of the county school buildings and found them in good condition.

Many of the schools are crowded and temporary buildings are used, but the board of education has a program which we think will relieve much of this congestion.

The handsome new high school building on Washington street was built in 1925 and paid for with current funds. It is already crowded to capacity and we commend as wise the plan of the board of education to enlarge the high school at East Point to accommodate that part of the county and relieve the crowded condition of the present high school.

We congratulate the school authorities on carrying forward important construction work of the high school and other buildings without a bond issue and without debt.

The county commissioners have aided the school authorities materially by paving driveways into school property and beautifying the grounds.

It is remarkable that the school system is taking care of the increased attendance so well, in view of the fact that it has grown from 1,400 white pupils in 1909 to 10,000 in 1927.

The Fulton county schools are operated on a budget basis and revenue for operating the system is in sight before appropriations and disbursements are made. We agree with the auditors in commending the board of education for their strict adherence to this policy of living within the school income.

We commend the work of Mr. Jere A. Wells, the able and courteous school commissioner. He is well posted, active and efficient, and is building up the school system of the county on lines which will make it one of the foremost in the southeast. We commend the board of education for their good work, and thank the county commissioners for their effective cooperation with the school authorities.

We recommend that the salaries of the county school teachers be placed on a parity with the salaries paid to teachers in the Atlanta city schools.

THE COURTHOUSE AND RECORDS.

Our committee inspected the courthouse and found it in excellent condition and well kept, for which we commend the custodian.

The noise coming into the grand jury room from Pryor street is so great that it is hard for jurors to hear the testimony of witnesses. This is so important that a suitable room should be provided for the grand jury in a less noisy location. After inspection of the building, we are satisfied that a suitable room could be easily provided on the east side of the courthouse and though not as large as the present grand jury room, would be large enough and far more satisfactory. We urge the commissioners to make this change.

We made a brief examination of the records in the office of the clerk of court and they seem to be in good condition. It is impossible for the grand jury to inspect these records in detail.

We received a letter from the auditors, Respess & Respess, who report that they have audited the receipts of the clerk of court and the ordinary since January, 1926, and find no irregularities. They report the records of these offices exceptionally well kept. They also audit the receipts and disbursements of other county officers, and say:

"During our investigation of the current year we have not found a shortage of the funds of any of the officers or employees of the county."

MUNICIPAL COURT AND JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Our committee on this subject is informed by the presiding judge of the municipal court that the recent act of the legislature increasing the powers of the criminal court of Atlanta and the municipal court in trying cases has enabled them to relieve the superior courts of Fulton county to some extent of the heavy burden of criminal business. We understand that this has relieved the congestion in the courts and has obviated the expense of creating another superior court.

Our committee examined the books of justices of the peace, with the exception of the following justices of the peace, who did not respond to the summons sent them to appear before the committee:

Adamsville, No. 1,289; Bryants, No. 479; Collins, No. 1,328; East Point, No. 1,33; Edgewood, No. 1,429; Peachtree, No. 1,363.

Some of the records of expenditures our committee were in excellent condition, while others did not show the proper cost entries of the different fees allowed them in handling cases. We think this is due to lack of knowledge of details and their duties and recommend that these fee items be regularly recorded on their records.

Some of the justices of the peace told our committee that certain limit on cases tried by them had caused considerable inconvenience to parties living at a distance from the municipal court. We make no recommendation on this subject but submit this for the investigation of subsequent grand juries.

JAIL AND ALMSHOUSE.

Our committee found the county jail to be as good condition as a building of that age would warrant. We recommend that a new jail be built at the earliest possible date.

The jail was found clean and sanitary and the food, both raw and cooked, all that could be desired. Prisoners were given ample opportunity to make complaints, but made none. Floors and walls were clean and the general conditions good. Our committee sampled the food served to prisoners and found it good and wholesome.

The white ward of the almshouse has about 160 inmates and appeared to be conducted in keeping with such institutions.

The roof of this building leaks in many places and this has caused plastering to fall. There is a great deal more plastering that is loose and about to fall. The roof should be repaired first and then all loose plastering removed and the ceiling thoroughly repaired. The walls and ceilings should be painted. The plastering has fallen in such sheets that we think it would have produced death if it had fallen on the bed of an inmate. This matter should have immediate attention and we have called the attention of authorities to it.

We find the same conditions in the colored ward, except that the roof does not leak as badly. This building has not a sufficient foundation, which has caused it to settle and has cracked the plastering. We don't think either the white or the colored ward has sufficient bathing facilities or toilets.

We call attention to the many beggars infesting the streets of Atlanta, both white and colored. This is a disgrace to the city and not only excuses but makes a bad impression on citizens as well as upon our many visitors. We recommend that the city either send them to the almshouse or have them removed from the streets. The almshouse is maintained by the county for that purpose and we cannot see why these beggars should be allowed to remain on the streets.

CHAINGANG CAMPS AND INDUSTRIAL FARMS.

The county commissioners report 732 convicts in the chaingangs. Some are felons and some misdemeanor convicts. The felony convicts from other counties number 19.

Our committee found the grounds in good condition and the buildings sanitary, scoured twice a week, with plenty of heat and ventilation. Sleeping quarters are sanitary and the food is well-cooked, wholesome and plentiful. Much of the food is produced at the camps and a surplus at any camp is divided among the others.

A county doctor and assistant look after the sick and sick prisoners are transferred to the hospital.

There are eight convict camps in different parts of Fulton county in isolated places. These camps raise an average of 100 hogs and 25 chickens each. Scraps of food and vegetables left from feeding prisoners are used to feed hogs and chickens.

INDUSTRIAL FARMS.

At the industrial farm for negro boys there are 169 ranging from 6 to 18 years. Half of them are in school one day and the other half the next day. The boys and yard boys attend a night session. The school is taught by a white teacher. The farm is productive and the sanitary conditions are good except some cots and bedding. These should have immediate attention.

The industrial farm for white boys has 63 inmates, of whom part attend school in the morning and part in the afternoon.

CONSOLIDATION WILL SAVE MONEY.

We recommend the removal of the almshouse and the almshouse industrial farm for negro women, both located on Wheat road, and the industrial farm for white boys located beyond Hapeville on the main highway to Macon. These properties are more valuable than the property at the River industrial farm, which has 1,100 acres and has ample room to take care of the above-mentioned farms. These could be separate units, managed by one deputy warden, which would effect a considerable saving to the county.

There are about 25 beds in bad condition at the River industrial farm and we recommend that new beds and bedding to replace these be purchased immediately.

In order that important work begun by grand juries may be carried forward by their successors, we recommend that the law be changed to provide for holdover members, who will acquaint their associates on succeeding grand juries with the valuable unfinished work of their predecessors.

We thank the honorable court and its officers for their uniform courtesy and their cordial cooperation in everything we have tried to do for the public good.

As the presentments of grand juries cannot be of any value to the public without publication, we recommend that these presentments be published in the daily newspapers of Atlanta and that the remarks of the judges and prosecuting officers be put on October 31 be printed in pamphlet form and sent to the editors, ministers, teachers, judges, solicitors general, members of the legislature and mayors of Georgia.

NEW PIERCE-ARROW CARS GO ON DISPLAY

Pierce-Arrow's new line of cars, the series 81, will be placed on public exhibition in Atlanta this morning, it is announced by Jack Phinizy, manager of Pierce-Arrow's Atlanta distributing point. A special display of cars will be shown at the local showroom, 58 North avenue, N. E.

Because of preliminary announcements that the physical appearance of the new car is strikingly different form the more conservative Pierce-Arrow of former years, there has been unusual advance interest in the car. The new car succeeds the moderately-priced, 130-inch wheelbase car which Pierce-Arrow has been building for the last three years. In addition to the transformation in style, the new car will introduce a group of chassis and engine improvements which are said to effect a marked improvement in performance.

The power plant, designed and built in the Pierce-Arrow factory, is described as an "aluminized, high-compression" engine, which does not require the use of "anti-knock" fuels. An automatic chassis lubrication system, using liquid grease instead of oil, has been engineered into the design. Vital points are lubricated simultaneously by pushing a foot plunger.

Immediately noticeable among the changes in exterior appearance are lowered body lines without sacrifice in head room, an unusual visored roof which arches and sweeps from front to rear without a break in its lines, airplane fenders, unusual paneling and moulding effects and a new rear shield or apron which conceals the gas tank, rear springs and running gear and which lends graceful sweep to the body lines.

One feature which will cause comment is the appearance for the first time in Pierce-Arrow's history of a radiator emblem, a richly enameled reproduction of the Pierce coat of arms. Another departure of interest is the appearance of many of the cars with a special helmet design of bracket headlamps, although the famous Pierce-Arrow headlamps, now modernized to harmonize with the new design, are retained for those who prefer them.

FOUR CONVENTIONS TO ATTRACT 350 VISITORS TO CITY

Atlanta this week will be host to four conventions that will bring a total of more than 350 visitors to the city, according to officials of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist bureau.

The Southern Sash Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association will assemble at the Ansley hotel for its regular annual meeting, November 16-17, with about 50 representatives. The Biltmore will be headquarters for the business conference of the Southeastern Electric Light association. According to C. M. Kilian, of Atlanta, secretary of the association, this body will bring about 150 members here on the dates of November 16-18. The annual meeting of the Southern and Southwestern Railway club, with an assemblage of around 150, will convene at the Ansley hotel on November 17. The city auditorium will be headquarters for the southern championship fiddlers event, held under the auspices of the Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' association.

Reports from the files of the convention bureau show that this makes a total of four national conventions booked for November; 14 sectional, and three state meetings, or 21 conventions booked to date for the entire month.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs' drug stores, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

Mrs. Holt Weds C. S. Dangler At Brilliant Home Ceremony

The marriage of Mrs. Martha McCrea Holt and Clifford Schofield Dangler, of Cleveland, Ohio, was a brilliant social event of Monday evening, taking place at 9 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hilliard McCrea, on Peachtree road, in the presence a limited number of relatives and close friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, before an improvised altar erected in the living room. The altar, circular in shape, was formed of palms and ferns, starred in the center with a basket holding Easter lilies and white chysanthemums, beaded in valley lilies, and flanked on either side by seven-branched candelabra holding cathedral candles. The bridal party descended the stairway to the strains of an orchestra augmented by the harp and cello, which rendered the "Lohengrin" wedding march.

Miss Charlotte McCrea was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a bouffant model, the skirt of lavender and pink tulle, and the tight fitting bodice was of pink taffeta. She carried a graceful arm bouquet of Pernet and Briarcliff roses, blue and pink sweetpeas, exquisitely beaded in sweetpeas.

Beautiful Bride.

The beautiful bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. McCrea. She wore a model of lustrous shell pink velvet, the gracefully draped skirt edged with handsome rose point lace, and the bodice outlined in the same lace. A motif of lace was appliqued around the neck, and formed the lower part of the long close fitting satin sleeves. She wore a becoming headdress of rose point lace, and a shell pink tulle veil was fastened at the back with clusters of apple blossoms, and several small clusters were caught in the folds of the veil, which extended to just below the waistline.

She carried a bouquet of pale pink orchids and valley lilies headed in lilies, and wore a diamond and platinum bracelet, the gift of the groom.

C. E. Dangler, of Cleveland, Ohio, acted as best man for his brother, and standing close to the bride and groom were Hilliard McCrea Holt, four-year-old son of the bride, who wore a suit of pink satin, and Misses Virginia and Barbara Dangler, the groom's daughters, who wore robe de style costumes of pink tulle and taffetas and carried old-fashioned bouquets of rose, sweetpeas and valley lilies.

Handsome Gowns.

Mrs. McCrea, mother of the bride, was gowned in black velvet and wore an old-fashioned pearl necklace, and carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies. Mrs. Martha Hall, grandmother of the bride, wore black Chantilly lace veiling flesh-colored chiffon and a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. D. E. Dangler, of Cleveland, mother of the groom, was gowned in aquamarine blue chiffon, fashioned along straight lines embroidered in sequins, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. C. E. Dangler, of Cleveland, sister of the groom, was gowned in ivory chiffon velvet, the drapery at the waist fastened with an ornament of brilliants, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of valley lilies and roses. Mrs. C. H. Cogswell, of Cleveland, aunt of the bride, wore a costume of cream lace veiling peach-colored chiffon, and a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Informal Reception.

An informal reception followed the ceremony and the bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with a Venetian lace cloth, a flat plateau of pink roses and valley lilies forming the centerpiece, and a silver vase filled with these same flowers rose from the center to add effective height. Silver candlesticks held pink candles and alternated with silver compotes filled with pink and white mints. The bride's cake, richly embossed in roses, and encircled by pink roses and valley lilies, adorned the buffet, ornamented on either side by Dresden vases filled with pink rosebuds and valley lilies. Punch was served in the sun room where the decorations were entirely of yellow chrysanthemums, the bowl embedded in vari-colored flowers, decorated in hot house grapes and oranges. Misses Sara Harris, of Gadsden, Ala., and Beulah Knight, of Athens, cousins of the bride, served punch, and Mrs. Perry Adair and Mrs. Charles E. Freeman kept the bride's book.

Wedding Journey.

Mrs. Dangler wore a stylish two-piece model of beige jersey, topped with a beige coat of English tweed, collared and cuffed in badger fur, and a close fitting French hat of beige felt. Mr. and Mrs. Dangler will spend their honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va., and New York. On going to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will reside in the future, they will make their home at the Alcazar hotel, until the completion of their new home in Shaker Heights, on Fontenay road, the first of April.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Dangler, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dangler and Mrs. C. H. Cogswell, of Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Sara Harris, of Gadsden, Ala., and Miss Beulah Knight, of Athens.

Mrs. Grace Marceau Weds Mr. Ranney.

Cards were received in Atlanta Monday announcing the marriage in Paris of Mrs. Grace M. Marceau and A. Elliott Ranney October 24. Mrs. Marceau is the widow of Theodore Marceau, a former prominent clubman of New York. She spent the month of June in Atlanta this year at Atlanta Biltmore hotel, and made many friends here who will be interested in the announcement of her marriage. While here Mrs. Marceau had a golf lesson almost every day with Stuart Maiden at East Lake, having come here for that specific purpose. She was a lovely figure on the golf links, her auburn hair and exquisite coloring accentuated by her stylish sport clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ranney will be at home in Paris at 63 Avenue Marceau.

She also spoke of the observance of "Children's Book Week" being observed and stressed at the Carnegie library and in the public schools, with especial plans for encouraging the reading of books among the youth the city.

Why Is Fat So Rare?

There's a reason

Do you realize how uncommon are the people with excess fat? At one time there were many times as many. But men and women came to realize that fat blighted beauty, efficiency and health.

One great factor in this change is a discovery made some two decades ago. Research men found a cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of some elements which turn food into fuel and energy. They found a way to supply those elements.

Twenty years ago that discovery was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People began to use them back in 1907. They told others the results. Thus the use has grown to millions of boxes. You can everywhere see the slender figures which today prevail.

Users of Marmola are not forced to abnormal exercise or diet. They combat the cause of obesity. They simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. And they gain at the same time new health and vitality.

The formula of Marmola comes in every box. Also the reasons for results. We do this to ward off any fear of harm. You know what you are taking, and why.

Excess fat blights beauty and health and efficiency. If you suffer from it, learn the right way to combat it. Do this now. Order a box of Marmola and let the results tell you how long to continue. You will be amazed and delighted in many ways. And you will learn that excess fat is inexcusable today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out he will get them at once from his jobber.

Mr. Van de View Gets Into a Traffic Jam

Mr. Van de View, a man of equanimity and poise,
Disconcerted by the whirling of the traffic and its noise,
Has marooned himself completely in a perilous position
And is dizzy with the tumult of disordered expedition.

But Vandie is adaptable; though everything's amuck,
He stands and contemplates the situation and his luck—
A lady in a motor car who wears a charming hat
He thinks is compensation for the Jam and all of that.

And he spies another window with a maiden looking out
Who has quite the smartest bonnet in the world, or just about,
It's a closely fitting turban with a perky little bow
A new champion in the fashion world, that Vandie ought to know.

And rapturously gazing through another motor pane,
The limousines and roadsters honk their honkers all in vain.
For Van de View, unconscious in a haze of admiration,
Is looking at a velvet toque, another late creation.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

WOMAN

While an honest man may be the noblest work of God, any kind of woman seems to be the most interesting bit of the Creator's handiwork. Men poetize, prose and preach about and to her. They paint her in all the known colors, from purest white to the deepest uncomprising black. From all sides they try to prove the mystery of her eternal feminine, but because they will not believe that she is made from the same clay as themselves they will never understand her.

Woman is not man's complement, with attributes of which he is deficient and a lack of virtues and vices which he claims as his own. She is just a human being like himself, with her sympathies, patience and forbearance educated to a higher power than his, and if he will stop to realize that she only wants from him what he exacts from her he will soon solve the perplexing riddle.

But, oh! what will man talk about when the silly season comes on?

How will the masculine editor edit his magazines with no peculiar, feminine idiosyncracies to expatiate on?

How will the masculine playwright write his plays if he finds out that women with pasts are not of greater menace to society than men who have a problem or two behind them?

What will become of the masculine writer's novels if he cannot make some poor woman be the brunt of all the sins of creation?

And where, oh, where, will the dollars come from that go into the business offices of the yellow journals if there be no woman with the face of an angel and the blackened soul of a devil pictured on the front page?

There has been nothing since the world began so persistently misunderstood as woman.

Men make all sorts of graven images of her, and are properly punished for breaking the first commandment by finding out that the thing they worship is not something they have made to suit themselves, but a being fashioned by the great Artificer, not for the fancied needs of man, but as a factor like themselves in the great perfection of creation.

Memo: Woman, woman, lovely woman, dear sir, is just a human being like yourself, neither better nor worse.

INDIGESTION PAIN STOPPED GENERAL HEALTH IMPROVED

"I SUFFERED with indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Henry I. Mullins, of Pound, Va. Mrs. Mullins explains that while afflicted with indigestion, she became "thin and weak" and was nervous.

"For months I did not see a well day. I worried along, but I never felt well. A little book, telling about Black-Draught, came to my notice, and I read what some people said about Black-Draught and how they were helped by it.

"I got a package of Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught this pain entirely stopped.

"I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years.

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach. It quickly relieves headache when caused by constipation. When I feel a bad cold coming on, I always begin to treat it by taking Black-Draught to open the bowels.

"I have been married thirty-four years, and I have never found any medicine so dependable as Black-Draught for a general laxative. I have recommended Black-Draught to many of my neighbors."

Black-Draught is a purely vegetable remedy, prepared from roots and herbs, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

LEOPARDY SKINS.

While you know the leopard cannot change its spots, many of you have hopes of changing yours, evidently, from the numerous requests I receive asking me to write on how to get rid of dark and white spots on the skin. So today I am going to write on both of them.

The dark spots are known as Chloasma, and the white spots as Vitiligo, or Leucoderma (leuco, white; derma, skin). I'll take up chloasma first.

Chloasma is a term applied to increased pigmentation of the skin. It occurs as variously shaped and sized spots of a yellowish or brownish or blackish color. There is no elevation of the skin and the surface usually remains smooth. The spots generally shade off gradually into the normal surrounding skin.

The face is usually the site for the common variety, although the spots may be found occasionally on the trunk and other parts.

Causes: Chloasmic spots may be caused by sunburning, blisters or irritation due to pressure, friction or scratching. These gradually fade. A type of chloasma known as symptomatic chloasma includes all forms of pigment deposits which occur during systemic diseases such as tuberculosis, malaria and anemia, or diseases of the internal secretory glands, such as the adrenals (glands over the kidneys), pituitary (gland in the skull), thyroid (gland in the neck), etc. Chronic indigestion with constipation and absorption of putrefactive products may also cause this type.

The type of Chloasma Uterian is that due to some functional or organic change in the uterus (womb) and is most often seen during pregnancy (but it may occur in diseases of this organ). It is most frequently seen on the forehead, but sometimes on the neck and occasionally on other parts of the body. It usually disappears after confinement.

Treatment: This has to be directed towards the cause. Stellwagon states that the discoloration sometimes can be removed by local applications, and when it is impossible to discover any disturbance as the cause, then reliance is to be placed upon local treatment. The local treatment consists of the application of remedies that will peel the skin. They must be applied by a skillful skin specialist. Lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen can be home tried.

Vitiligo or Leucoderma. The white spots that come on the body are the opposite to "liver spots" or chloasma, in that instead of having extra amounts of pigment or coloring matter, they have no pigment at all in them. (Sometimes, around the edges of the white spots there will be more pigment than normal.) The size of the patches vary from that of a 10-cent piece to immense areas involving nearly the whole body. The general health does not seem to be affected and there seems to be no change in the sensibility of the skin on the spots, except an unusual sensitiveness to the sun's rays. If these spots are on the scalp or other hairy regions, the hair turns white.

The medical text-books say the cause of the disease is not known. It may be due to a disturbance of the internal secretory or ductless glands, or it may be due to a disturbance of the nervous supply to the part. Not knowing the cause of them, the treatment is also unsatisfactory. Sometimes physicians use the glandular products for medication.

I suggest you have a thorough physical examination for both of these conditions. Of course, all the suggestions I give in the column regarding balanced diet, exercise and prevention of constipation, etc., should be practiced. We have articles on both these subjects which you may have by sending a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

SYNOPSIS

On the way to Donald Brierly's house at Rublington for luncheon, Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancee, tells her friend, Olive Weston, that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortunate in winning him.

Sandle and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Brierly of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Brierly, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Sandle. Querk suggests to Sandle that he invite Brierly to Harrowby house and there, with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wode, dispose of Brierly. Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out, but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Sandle and another man kill Mr. Brierly, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story Querk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, the three proceed to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the men place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to th police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagines the scene, and, in exasperation, Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandle to come to the superintendent's office, and he presents his alibi, which the officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wode's office, where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heirs, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones there. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son, but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Querk later pretends that Connie imagined she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Sandle is about to bring criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private institution at Maenton which he recommends. While Donald is visiting Connie at Maenton house a body is found buried in his garden. Olive, sent out on the case by her newspaper, meets and warns Donald. She arranges a hiding place for him in London. She later helps Connie to escape from Maenton.

INSTALLMENT LXXXI

For 14 hours Olive slept the deep sleep of total oblivion in which her active young body recovered its strength.

By the time she was bathed and dressed it was past midday.

Before her toilet was complete the telephone bell rang. She went to answer it.

"Good morning, Miss Weston. Rason speaking. Can you lunch with me at one at the Red Hill restaurant—grillroom?"

"Yes, I think I can. Thanks very much. I'll be there at one, sharp."

She was there before her time, and so was Rason. He found a secluded table and led her to it.

"I've got something to show you," Olive said as she seated herself and took a long envelope from her bag and handed it to him.

"That," she explained, "was written by the nurse who had charge of my friend, Connie Elmore, while she was in Maenton House."

Rason whistled softly as he finished reading Nurse Flecker's confession.

"Where is this woman now?" he asked.

"I don't know," answered Olive. "Out of the country, I should think. I let her go in return for that. Is it of any use?" she asked.

"I don't know," he answered after a pause. "We might get Querk with it—or they might think there was not enough to prosecute him if the woman's evidence is not available. In any case, it won't help Donald Brierly. Young Jones I may tell you, lands in England tonight, and is due at Charing Cross at 7:30 o'clock. Tomorrow his claim is heard in the probate division. Can you, by the way, produce Mrs. Jones?"

"Yes," answered Olive. "She is looking after Connie."

"Well, we could prove that young Jones is not entitled to Turle's fortune. It's about all we could prove. We could get the youngster—and we might get his solicitor. The question is, do you think you could frighten him into anything?"

"I think I could have a jolly good try," answered Olive.

"Look here! We shall pick him up at Charing Cross tomorrow night and shadow him. Suppose I were—quite unofficially, you know—to pass you the tip as to where he is? What about going along and seeing what you could do before we get in? If you can confront the young man with Miss Elmore and his mother, I will be outside and I can promise you that I will not come in and interfere with your friend. I shall simply arrest young Jones."

They parted on that.

It was shortly after eight when Olive, sitting in her flat, received a telephone message from Rason. Before 9 o'clock she had driven in the Ford brougham to an hotel in the neighborhood of Charing Cross.

"I want to see Mr. Turle, please," she told the reception clerk.

Mr. Turle, the hotel staff discovered, had retired to his room, and it was several minutes before he reappeared in the lounge.

Olive sized him up and decided she did not like the look of him.

"Mr. Turle?" she asked.

"That's me," he answered.

"I'm Mr. Querk's personal secretary," she said in an undertone. "I have a car outside. Mr. Querk wants to see you—he would be much obliged if you could spare him a few minutes—without Mr. Sandle."

Under his eye he made himself ready, then followed her to the car.

"Mr. Querk is not at his own flat but at mine," she explained as they ran up the Charing Cross road. "He doesn't like doing business in his own home."

There were running into Bloomsbury now and a couple of minutes later had drawn up. Connie had given her a latchkey. She took it out of her bag as they walked together up the stairs.

"Here we are!" she said, inserted the latchkey and opened the door. "You go in."

The young man stepped across the threshold. Olive followed im—not a second too soon. For simultaneously the doors of the kitchen and the sitting room opened, Olive slipped behind the young man, fastened the catch and, stooping down, shot the bolt.

"Mrs. Jones," she said in clear, ringing tones, "I've brought you your son."

"Ned, my boy, don't you know your own mother?"

The old woman's arms were about her son; she was kissing him, weeping.

Olive felt an odd weakening in her throat.

"He is dazed, Mrs. Jones. I wanted it to be a surprise. He doesn't understand yet."

Young Jones allowed himself to be led, half dragged by his mother into the kitchen and the door closed behind him.

"Connie, you recognized that young man, didn't you?" Olive asked.

"Yes, of course."

"Well, he is young Turle—that is to say, he's pretending to be young Turle and claiming Donald's money. In a few minutes he will leave his mother. Then we're going to deal with him—you and I. By the way, can you lend me two long pins?"

Connie darted into the bedroom and produced them.

In less than five minutes Jones appeared. His mother would have followed him but he shut the kitchen door on her roughly.

"A trap, eh?" he snarled. "Well, I'm going, let me tell you."

THEATER REVIEWS

Splendid Bill Inaugurates Keith's 'Anniversary Week'

With George West, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Herbert Kennedy, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; John M. Slaton, Jr., former Junior chamber president; Thomas C. Law, potentate of Yaarab temple of the Shrine; Colonel J. C. Woodward, chief of Governor L. G. Hardman's staff; Montgomery S. Hill, of the Publix Theaters corporation; Willard Patterson, southern district manager of the Universal theaters, and a large delegation from the Junior Chamber of Commerce as honor guests, Keith-Albee's Georgia theater celebrated an "anniversary" night program Monday night with one of the most entertaining bills of the past several months.

The vaudeville program was preceded by short talks from Mr. West, Dr. Kennedy, Mr. Slaton and Manager Roltaire Eggleston of the Georgia. Each speaker paid tribute to the theater and the progress it has made during its first year of operation, and Manager Eggleston responded in behalf of the theater. Monday was officially designated as "Junior Chamber of Commerce" night.

Special Programs Planned.

Every night in the week something special has been planned for various civic organizations of the city. Tuesday night has been designated as "Rotary" night and Manager Roltaire Eggleston, a fellow member, has promised a rousing reception for Atlanta Rotarians on his first anniversary in Atlanta as manager of the theater. Yaarab temple of the Shrine will be honor guests on Wednesday night and Thomas G. Law, potentate, and his divan expect to have a large delegation present. American Legion and Atlanta Post No. 1 members will be present in a body for a "big time" Thursday night, while Atlanta lodge of Elks, B. P. O. E., No. 78, will have their "party" on Friday night. Saturday will be "actors'" night and a special program has been planned by them.

A specially-selected vaudeville bill with the Original Cavaliers in "Music entirely different" as the headliner, and "Jesse James" on the screen, feature the anniversary week program and is varied and pleasing in every respect.

The Cavaliers band is splendidly organized and the music on opening night was unusually good and contained some of the latest hits. The act was interspersed with several clever dancing numbers and some highly entertaining skits featuring a number of actors from other acts.

Topline honors were somewhat divided, judging from the audience's applause, between the Cavaliers and Charles Stuart and Harry Lash, who offered a clever comedy number, "Strange People." This team of comedians literally took the audience by storm and was the source of a continuous round of laughter. They gave a number of encores and also appeared in the final act on the program.

Gymnast Opens Bill.

"Vaudeville Viking Venus," featuring Helen Carlson in a number of new and different kinds of gymnastics, opened the well-balanced bill. Her act was one of the best of its kind ever presented here and she was rewarded with a prolonged applause.

An offering of "Ann's Ancestors," featuring four clever actors and singers, was warmly received. Walter and Betty Reddick were the stars and were ably assisted by Marie Hunt and Virginia Cole. The buck and tap dancing was unusually good.

Fred Thomson and Nora Lane play the leading roles in "Jesse James," the feature picture of the week. It is a story woven around the bold raids of the Confederate cavalry through Kentucky in the "war days" and shows some beautiful scenery.

—ROY E. WHITE.

Bebe and Beulah Leavens Share Honors at Howard

Miss Atlanta—that is, Miss Beulah Leavens—came back to perform for the homefolks Monday night. Miss Atlanta is with a number of other good-looking young women bearing the names of municipalities who make up the cast of "Young America," the Publix stage show offering at the Howard this week, Al Short directing.

Some months ago The Constitution and the Howard held an "Opportunity Contest," in which amateurs appeared each night at the Howard for a week, put over a song, dance or whatever they had to offer and the winner was decided by the amount of applause received. Similar contests were held in other Publix cities and the winners taken to New York, where they were trained and sent on a tour of the Publix circuit.

Miss Leavens appeared in a specialty dance number, which was well received by the audience. Every girl—there were lots of them—did her own specialty after being introduced by Al Short. There was "Miss Houston," who played a harmonica and did things with her shoulders that kept everyone laughing. Al Short's boys played a couple of modern numbers mixed in with some classical ones. Bob LaSalle, a comedian, got over well with a number of songs.

Bebe Daniels scored again in her latest comedy—"She's a Sheik." There's no doubt about it—Bebe's a sheik. She went so far as to capture the man she wanted haul him off in the desert—wrapped in an over-sized rug—and keep him in a cage until he broke a rather short hunger strike. Being a very proper young man and an officer of the French Foreign Legion—of course, the story is laid in the Sahara desert—the young officer, capably played by Richard Arlen, didn't think so much of the idea at first, but in two days Bebe had everything coming her own way—including the officer.

Only on one or two occasions does the picture even pretend to be serious. It's full of acrobatics and swordsmanship—or in this case, should it be swordswomanship?—on the part of Miss Daniels and has several funny situations. There's one time when the villain, a real movie sheik, surrounds a company of the legion and a couple of Yankees, friends of the woman sheik, cause the Arabs to surrender by flashing movies of a column of soldiers advancing into conflict, using a convenient sand dune for a screen.

Taken as a whole it's a very good bill that the Howard has for Atlanta movie-vaudeville fans this week. A Technicolor film, illustrating high lights of Goumod's celebrated "Faust," with musical accompaniment by the Howard orchestra and a Paramount newsreel round out the program.

—BEN COTHRAN.

'Sinner,' Current Forsyth Vehicle, Scores Big Hit

The proposal of a problem to an audience, the subsequent discussion and attending action, followed by a natural development to the logical end—or illogical, if it be comedy—is one of the oldest and best means of creating audience interest in a play and causing it to be talked about over the city.

Of such is "Sinner," an immensely entertaining play which opened Monday night for a week's run at the Forsyth theater where it is being presented by the Forsyth Players, and it is doubtful whether echoes of the play will have been completely stilled in woman's clubs and other places of discussion within several weeks.

For "Sinner" is quite frank and not a little bit startling in its propounding of a problem which is not new, but which is presented in a distinctly new light, that of the "battle of the sexes," as it has been termed. It is a story of a girl who valued her personal freedom more than her personal morals, if there be such, and consequently when the right chappie came along she tried to absolutely avoid marriage altogether.

Miss Ivy Mertons last week was put to the acid test in a role that required the highest histrionic ability. This week she has an easier part, but one which she does no less skillfully, and from the between-the-acts comment current Monday night, it would seem that the personable Miss Mertons has won a place in the heart of local stock lovers.

Miss Mertons has the name role of the play, her character designation being Cynthia Pemberton, and named "Sinner" by Jimmy La Farge (Stanley Andrews), gentleman, artist and would-be suitor for the lady's hand. Her portrayal of the role is quite able, she lending to it her remarkable personality and not a little of her striking charm.

Walter Regan, in the past, has had a run of parts that were more or less of the "tough" order, and consequently his appearance this week in the virile and yet genteel role of Tom Page, who loves "Sinner," is a delightful surprice to stock-goers.

Stanley Andrews is his usual sauve self, and one begins to wonder just when the flickering celluloid drama of Hollywood will claim this talented actor as a possible rival of Mr. Menjou.

Antoinette Rochte and Kelly Masters give very nice performances as the parents of "Sinner" and Frances Woodbury is quite eminently pleasing as Estelle Pemberton. Barton McLane, Jack Jordan, Ainsworth Arnold and Aileen Meehan round out well-balanced performances in the cast.

If you like play entertainment, then "Sinner" was made for you.

King Returns.

Cartagena, Spain, November 14.—(United News.)—King Alfonso has returned to Spain today after a tour which took him to Italy, Malta and the Balearic islands.

DOROTHY MACKAILL STARS IN DIFFICULT ROLE AT METRO

A vehement man hater, a regular feminine "he man"—this is Dorothy Mackaill, starring in "The Crystal Cup," the feature presentation showing at the Metropolitan theater this week. In this extremely difficult part Miss Mackaill, with her mannish customs and masculine ideas, makes a tremendous hit.

Learning from early childhood to hate all men through the cruelty displayed by her father, our star of "The Crystal Cup" vows never to take the marriage oath.

But it is not an easy task to spurn the magic touch of love after Cupid's arrow has pierced the heart. And so our heroine weakens a bit and enters into a platonic marriage agreement with a young novelist, which ends disastrously.

A Christie comedy, "The Daffy Dill," featuring Neal Burns, adds a touch of humor to the show. Metropolitan News and Views show the latest news events of the world.

Enrico Leide and his Metropolitan orchestra render a number of musical selections which add materially to the enjoyment of the program.

HERB WILLIAMS, FUNMAKER, HEADS LOEW'S PROGRAM

One of those comedians who make you laugh until your sides literally ache is the headline attraction on one of the best vaudeville shows of the year at Loew's Grand theater. The fun-maker is the veteran Herb Williams, and for nearly half an hour he kept the crowds roaring Monday. Williams is an old-timer and brings this year nearly all the tricks in his bag. He is supported by a capable company which includes a remarkably pretty young woman.

Not only is the vaudeville bill one of the best, but the picture, "The Garden of Allah," is a powerful and gripping play, with many stupendous effects and a pretty romance running through it. It is based on Robert Hichens' famous novel and was directed by Rex Ingram with Alice Terry and Ivan Petrovich in leading roles.

Other acts on the vaudeville bill are up to the same high standard. The Red Carnations offer a speedy revue with lots of pretty music and dancing done by some unusually attractive girls.

Nellie Arnaut and her two brothers appear in a combination musical and acrobatic dancing turn entitled "The Merry Widow," which is a real novelty.

Lots of fun was provided by Packard and Dodge, "Two Nuts From a Garage." The Four Hartinis open the show with a sensational wire walking novelty, which includes the performance of some daring and remarkable feats.

The whole program forms one of the best shows offered at Loew's Grand in weeks.

CAPITOL OFFERS BEST PROGRAM IN ITS HISTORY

With every act on the bill fulfilling, in so far as local vaudeville is concerned, the apt designation—"Bigger than Big-time"—of M. Carter Barron, assistant manager, and with the widely and justly heralded "East Side, West Side" on the screen, the current week's program at the Capitol theater was Monday night hailed as the finest sort of entertainment by as much of the very wise and very fortunate populace of the city as could safely be packed into the theater.

It is without doubt the best balanced bill ever presented at Atlanta's newest theater and there are those, no doubt, who would spread this statement to cover the entire city. To begin with the headliner, there's Tom Brown and the Six Brown Brothers, who were experts on saxophones when that instrument was still considered some weird and ungodly foreign contraption. It is not exaggeration to say that they made the instrument what it is today, and so it is only just that they should be the absolute past masters of saxophone playing.

The personnel of the act numbers fourteen, all musicians, and with Tom Brown to lead the festivities, they present an act which is a rare treat.

Even the acrobats, a set part of every variety bill, are extraordinarily good. The Blerios Troupe, four sensational aerialists who really are just that, for a wonder. Allan Reno, a wholly personable and talented Englishman, at least he says he is, holds second spot on the bill, and how! in the vernacular.

Frank Dobson's "The Love Doctor" is an act placed in the unusual class by strikingly good and original lines and the remarkable comedy delivery of Dobson. Burt and Lehman are two patter artists who make the entire bill one of unanimous applause.

If you were turned away from the Capitol Monday night, try again. Or a couple of times. It's worth it.

—ELMO HAMBY.

Coming to Erlanger.

There are twenty-five dancing girls of various types in "Queen High," coming to the Erlanger theater, Thanksgiving week. The chorus was selected and trained by Sammy Lee, who staged "No, No, Nanette," "The Music Box Revue," the new "Ziegfeld Follies" and "Rio Rita." Mail orders, accompanied by proper remittance, are now being received. The boxoffice seat sale starts Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. After that time, seats for all performances may also be had at M. Rich & Bros. Co., and at Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

Alamo No. 2.

In a film replete with big moments, the biggest moment of "Stella Dallas" is in its last fifty feet of film. Henry King, director of the film version of Olive Higgins Prouty's celebrated novel, has adroitly built a powerful emotional suspense, which he unleases in a smashing climax. In developing the finish of the picture King used all the screen arts and technique at his command. "Stella Dallas" will be shown at the Alamo Theater No. 2 today only.

Tudor.

Lon Caney carries the honors in the picture version of one of James Oliver Curwood's most famous novels, "Nomads of the North," and starring Lon Chaney. The picture was made several years ago, just when Chaney was emerging into screen prominence and the famous actor displays the ability which has brought him from obscurity to the very front rank of movie fame. In addition to Chaney, the cast of the picture boasts of such names as Lewis Stone and Francis McDonald. The Tudor is showing "Nomads of the North" today and Wednesday.

Palace.

The last chance you will have to see Emil Jannings in "The Way of All Flesh" will be today. The star of "Variety" and "The Last Laugh" has by far outdone all past efforts. "The Way of All Flesh" is one of the greatest of all present day dramas. This picture opens the week's program at the Palace.

Ponce de Leon.

Two great feature pictures will be shown at the Ponce de Leon theater today in Colleen Moore's "Twinkletoes" and Charlie Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms," famous war comedy. "Twinkletoes" is considered by many as the finest picture that the personable Colleen has made, it is certain that it is one of her very best. To elaborate on "Shoulder Arms" would be quite useless. It is the forerunner of all the hundreds of war comedies now being made, and needless to say, "Shoulder Arms," by virtue of its originality, stands first.

Tenth Street.

Esther Ralston, beautiful blond star, is featured today for the last time at the Tenth Street theater in "Ten Modern Commandments," a film which portrays the code of the modern chorus girl in her efforts to get her man. Miss Ralston was never seen to better advantage than in "Ten Modern Commandments."

West End.

One of the best comedies of the season, and one which on its first showing here scored a tremendous success as well as other places where it was first run is "Poker Faces," which closes today a two-day run at the West End theater. Edward Everett Horton and Laura LaPlante are featured in this picture.

Georgia Squad In Fine Shape For Bear Game

Bulldogs Hold Light Workout After Taking Tigers Into Camp.

BY BOB SHERROD.

Athens, Ga., November 14.—A light workout on Monday afternon made up the Georgia Bulldog program in the first assemblage after the Clemson fray. The entire squad came out of the Tiger tussle in fine shape and the Georgians are now primed for the next two engagements—Mercer and Alabama.

Particular stress wil be laid on the Alabama game this week, although Mercer comes in between Clemson and the Crimson Tide. The Red Devils have been learning Alabama plays for the past week and the varsity will probably scrimmage against them Tuesday. The Mercer game, which is to be played in Athens Saturday, seems to have faded in comparison with the Thanksgiving game in Birmingham.

Piled Up 202 Points.

Georgia's perfect record shows that the Bulldogs have now piled up 202 points against 13 for the opposition. McCrary increased his conference scoring lead by 18 points against Clemson. The team scoring now reads as follows: McCrary, 72; Hooks, 26; McTigue, 24; Dudley, 24; Johnson, 20; Rothstein, 12; Estes, 6; Sox, 6; Nash, 6, and Cook, 6.

The goal line, which has yet to be crossed by a southern team, was most endangered Saturday when the Jungaleers advanced the ball as far as the six-inch line. Clemson threatened that goal line three times, twice by virtue of blocked punts and the other time against a mixed second and third-string team. Coach Woodruff pulled one of the most sensational feats of the year, according to witnesses who have seen many games, when he injected his entire first eleven as Clemson held the ball on Georgia's seven-yard line. The longest run made by a Georgia player this year was registered by McTigue in the first quarter when he romped down the field 71 yards to a touchdown.

Hooks Is Better.

Bobby Hooks' broken hand is mending in fine shape, and although he probably will not see service against the Mercer Bears Saturday, he will have received the doctor's okay by Thanksgiving. Gene Smith, who was also held out of the Clemson game, will be able to play in the Crimson Tide engagement, if not before.

Most of Monday afternon was devoted to signal drill and running down under punts, an art which the Bulldogs have well nigh perfected, as evidenced by statistics. Tuesday will see the first scrimmage of the week and of the Alabama preparation, but by no means the last, as Coach Woodruff has planned a full program for the Red and Black in order that they be in their prime when Thanksgiving rolls around.

GOOD COLORED FIGHT CARD SET TONIGHT

People who like their fights served in caveman style and who revel in the big "sock" will have a chance to give vent to their enthusiasm tonight when Billy Hooper, veteran middleweight who knew nothing but fight in his ring days, tosses right around a dozen Senegambian fighters into the arena at the auditorium annex tonight.

He will offer four matches besides a battle royal, all negro performers, and he has set aside a special section for the white fans who attend. Incidentally, there should be quite a number of them, for at his last show a goodly portion of Billy's attendance was white, and the fans reported they saw one of the best boxing entertainments Atlanta has been offered in many a day.

Billy has a keen eye for fighters and he has selected his card with utmost care in order that the public will be pleased with every bout.

For his headliner he has Eddie Cox, local product, who scales 175 pounds and has been moving steadily upward on the pugilistic ladder, pitted against Texas King, a North Carolinian.

That will be 10 rounds.

The next best attraction will be the semi-final between Cowboy Kid and Kid Miller. The former has had several fights here in which he made considerable of an impression.

As appetizers Hooper will stage Battling Kelly against Kid Macon and Tiger Brown against Black Panther.

Doors will open in plenty of time for the first match to get under way at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets for the show can be purchased at Chess' Place.

Citadel Graduates To Hold Meeting At Ansley Today

Graduates of the Citadel living in Atlanta are requested to meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the lobby of the Ansley hotel to discuss plans for attending home-coming day in Charleston on Saturday.

The Citadel will play Furman Saturday afternoon and an effort will be made to bring together several hundred graduates of the school.

This is the first full meeting of the Citadel club held this year and all members and graduates are requested to be present. Those unable to attend are requested to call Ivy 3774 and state whether they will attend home-coming day or not.

JIMMY LONDOS, THOUGH LIGHT, GOOD MATMAN

Courage is one of the greatest assets any athlete, or athletic team, can have and it is one of the reasons why Jimmy Londos, who meets Nick Gotch at the city auditorium Thursday night, has become one of the best wrestlers in the game today. Londos generally is recognized as worthy of rating next to Joe Stecher and Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

Londos does not weigh much more than 190 pounds and in practically every match is compelled to concede a weight advantage of from 15 to 25 pounds. That handicap never has bothered the little Greek star.

The Hellenic champion has perfected his holds, developed resistance to physical pressure as applied by opponents and made himself a name, both among his foes and wrestling fans.

The cash customers like Londos, because they know that he will give them a good run for their money, expending all his physical energy and spirit in the laudable endeavor to add to his mounting string of victories.

Londos has been beaten very few times in the past two years and practically all of his matches have been won through science and skill, rather than undue use of physical power.

Plenty of action is expected to result from the clash between Jack Washburn, Oklahoma cowboy, and Firpo Wilcox, a full blooded Indian, who, according to all reports, tolerates nothing that borders on unfair play. In case an opponent gets rough Firpo tries his dead level best to get rougher and the fans profit thereby.

The other bout on the program will bring together Jim Browning, old favorite among Atlanta fans, and "Scotty" McDougal, heavyweight wrestling champion of Scotland. Tickets are on sale at Chess' Place, the Piedmont hotel cigar counter and the Piedmont and Dandy theaters.

ANSLEY PARK WOMEN'S MEET UNDER WAY

An extension of one day has been given those tardy feminine contestants in the Ansley park golf championship who did not play their 18 holes Monday.

This tournament, the first women's championship to be held at the Ansley park course, has created much interest among the best feminine golfers of Atlanta and from present indications it appears that at least a dozen will enter the contest.

Qualifying was started Monday and will continue Tuesday. Match play, consisting of 18-hole matches, will begin Wednesday.

The following players will probably compete: Mrs. T. T. Williams, Mrs. Harrie Ansley, Mrs. Claud Williamson, Miss Lucy Adams, Mrs. John Welsh, Mrs. R. R. Haskell, Mrs. Tom Wilson, Mrs. L. W. Grenade, Mrs. O. B. Keeler, Mrs. N. R. N. Bardwell, Mrs. E. E. Glenn, Mrs. Lewis Gress, and Mrs. J. C. Wright.

New Sport Club Opens Here Soon

"Ringside Club" is the name of a new organization that is to open its doors to the public at an early date. The club is located at Mitchell street at Broad, and the intentions of those connected with the club are to stage weekly shows at popular prices.

The club is backed by some well-known sportsmen who like the boxing game. James A. Mayson, former manager of Tim O'Dowd, was made matchmaker. According to Mayson, he plans to give the public here real good scraps at popular prices, something that Atlanta has not had here in a long time. Mayson is planning to develop some good local attractions and hopes to bring out some new faces to entertain the fistic public.

The opening card will be announced at an early date, Mayson being in communication with several popular mitt slingers for the first show at the Ringside club.

Goebel, Hancock Tied for Lead

Columbia, S. C., November 14.—(AP)—Bill Goebel, of Charlotte, and Roland Hancock, of Wilmington, with 147 each, were tied at the end of the 36 holes played here for the Carolinas open golf championship. Marshall Crichton, of Durham, defending titleholder, had a total of 154. The second 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

Twenty-six golfers, including six amateurs, entered the tourney, which is being played on the links of the Ridgewood Country club. Other scores follow:

Fred Hyatt, Charlotte, 148; Robert Spence, Columbia, 149; Melvin Hemphill, Columbia, 150; J. W. Spence, Columbia, 150; Henry Pickhard, Charleston, 153; Harold Long, Raleigh, 153; Duganaycock, Charlotte, 155; Hugh Kirkpatrick, Columbia, 156; Clarence Owen, Greenville, 156; Donald Vinton, Charleston, 157; Tom Hancock, Wilmington, 157; C. R. Farlow, Salisbury, 157; L. F. Davis, Charlotte, 157; W. H. Lyle, Shelby, 163; W. C. Hale, Columbia, 166; A. H. Rion, Columbia, 166; Charles Reynolds, Sumter, 168; Paul Cuesman, Greenville, 169; E. M. Dupre, Columbia, 170; H. Woodman, Brevard, 171; S. E. Wheeler, Columbia, 174; J. F. Lane, Columbia, 178, and Alton Sligh, Rock Hill, 186.

Hale, Rion, Cushman, Dupre, Wheeler and Lane are the amateurs in the contest.

Martinez Wins.

Mercer Begins Preparations For Bulldogs

Mercer, in 34 Years, Has Yet To Score Victory Over Georgia.

Macon, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—The Mercer Bears today began preparations for their hardest and next to the last game of the season, Saturday afternoon Mercer will meet the undefeated Univers[illegible] of Georgia eleven in Athens.

For 34 years these two teams have fought, and each year Georgia has been victorious.

The opening practice of the week today was very light and consisted mainly of passing and punting. Coach Moore has announced that a scrimmage will in all probability be billed for Wednesday afternoon.

Only two casualties resulted from the game with Oglethorpe here Friday, which Mercer won 21-6. Buck Loser, quarterback, was the victim of a chipped bone on one of h[illegible] shins and Luther Ray, guard, received some torn ligaments in his right shoulder and also a bruised left elbo[illegible] he feature of Mercer's work against Oglethorpe Friday was the fact that each of the Bear backfield men starred. Bill Alderman, Phoney Smith, Art Wright, Buck Loser, each formed an offense which Oglethorpe was unable to stop.

In going up to Athens Saturday the Bears have nothing to lose and all to gain. Georgia has run roughshod over all its southern rivals this season, having defeated five of its opponents by at least 30 points, and another by 28 points. If Mercer scores she will be the first southern team to perform the feat against Georgia.

An outstanding fact concerning the coming Georgia-Mercer game is that it will be the first time in a number of years that Mercer has not opened Georgia's season. The Bulldogs have but three games to play. Mercer Saturday, then Alabama and Tech. Mercer has two, the game with Georgia and a tilt with Wake Forest in Asheville, N. C., on Thanksgiving day.

S. S. A. A. Cage News

All churches represented at the last Sunday School Athletic association meeting are urged to have representatives at the meeting to be held tonight on the fourth floor of the Atlanta Athletic club at 7:30, when the different leagues will be formed, and a committee appointed to draw up the schedule in order that the season may open on Monday, December 6.

Fifteen teams are already lined up and have been practicing for quite a while. These teams will be assigned to different leagues, and it looks as though some more teams will be represented at tonight's meeting.

Quite a few matters of importance are due to be brought up at this meeting. Registration and entry blanks will be ready for signatures and distribution, and everything will be done to get matters in shape for the opening.

DELANEY SUBS FOR SHARKEY IN FRIDAY GO

Bridgeport, Conn., November 14.—(AP)—Jack Delaney will meet Tom Heeney in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament at Madison Square Garden Friday night, replacing Jack Sharkey of Boston, who was today reported suffering from a fractured wrist, according to an announcement here tonight.

Delaney was notified by his manager, Pete Reilly, today, that he would replace Sharkey, providing Heeney was willing to meet the former light heavyweight champion. If Heeney was unwilling, Delaney said, the Bridgeport boxer will meet some other likely opponent on Friday's card.

Loughran Wins.

Philadelphia, November 14.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, recognized by Pennsylvania boxing authorities as the world's lightweight champion, battled his way to a judges' decision in 10 rounds over Pat McCarthy, of Boston, at the Arena tonight. The fight was full of action with Loughran doing most of the leading. Loughran weighed 178; McCarthy 186.

Spiller and Brooklyn Magnates Buy Macon Ball Club

Cracker Boss To Head Club; GoodRetained

New Owners Will Use Macon as Farm for Players, It Is Said.

Macon, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—Sale of the Macon Baseball club of the South Atlantic league to Bell J. Spiller, owner and president of the Atlanta Crackers and the Brooklyn National League Baseball club, was announced here tonight after a conference of local officials and the new owners.

Each party acquired half interest in the Macon club, which will be used as a farm for players of the two clubs owing the Peaches. Mr. Spiller, through an agreement, will be active head of the Macon Peaches, it is said. Spiller has held a 30-day option on the Macon club which will expire Thursday.

The figure involved in the deal is not known, although officials stated that it was in excess of $10,000. Macon owns several valuable player contracts and holds a large equity in the league which makes the franchise valuable.

It is also understood that the Brooklyn team will be brought to Macon this spring and will train at Central City park. The local chamber of commerce has been making an effort to bring it here even before it was intimated that the club would become part owner of the Peaches. Despite numerous injuries and the unfortunate death of Pete Mann, the Peaches had a successful season in so far as finances were concerned. Several important trades were made, including the sale of Chick Fullis to the New York Giants for $10,000 and Tom Angley and Pat Wright to Atlanta for a sum that has not been announced.

Wilbur Good, former Cracker player and present manager of the Peaches, will remain as pilot of the club under the new owners.

JONES DENIES ARMY, NAVY BREAK STORY

West Point, N. Y., November 14.—(United News.)—Captain L. M. ("Biff") Jones, coach of the army football team, denied tonight that he had given an interview to Gene Kessler, sports editor of the Washington News, in which he discussed the possibility of a break in football relations between the army and navy.

Jones was quoted by Kessler as saying the military academy would decline to adopt the navy's eligibility rule prohibiting play by men who already had participated three years on varsity college elevens.)

Captain Jones said that as the military and naval academies only a year ago had signed a four-year contract under which the coming army-navy game would be the first contest, a break in relations during the next three years was out of the question.

Washington, November 14.—(United News.)—Gene Kessler, sports editor of the Washington News, said tonight he had quoted Captain L. M. Jones, army coach, correctly in attributing to Jones the statement that a difference between army and navy eligibility rules threatened a break in football relations of the two academies.

Kessler interviewed Jones in Yankee stadium, New York, after the Army-Notre Dame game Saturday, he said.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

"Big League Stuff."

The papers of Sunday will tell you a tale of crushing defeat administered to the Auburn university rats by the yearlings of Georgia Tech, but will not tell the real story of the game as seen from the side lines by a rabid Auburn fan.

The fan (name on request) took his place in the grandstand with the assurance that the strong rats from the home school would show this Lumpkin, Dunlap, Jones, Murray and the rest of the boys from Tech several things about football that were new.

And what was his surprise when Coach Kid Clay, the little Napoleon of Dixie diamonds, started his second team. This move brought little argument from the fan, for he had a vision of seeing his alma mater pile up enough points against this second team to win the game before any men could be sent in.

Of course, he expected Kid Clay to make some substitutions before many minutes, but this did not prepare him for what happened. The second team did well enough to suit most folks, but this man Clay is hard to please, and along about the beginning of the second quarter the 11 men in the field came out and 11 new ones went in. About that time Auburn went out and never came back in.

From that time on it was just a question of how badly the rats of Auburn would be bitten. But that did not close the incident for our friend, the fan. He swooned when the new team took the field and when he came around he railed at Coach Clay for three full periods.

"Who is that little runt?" queried this irate fan up in the stands behind Kid. "Who is this little runt who comes down here with a bunch of freshmen and pulls this big league stuff? He must think he's Knute Rockne or something."

All of which brought about as much reply from Coach Kid Clay as one might expect to elicit from a dead oyster. And the new team staged a foot race at the expense of the great Auburn freshman team.

Kid Clay pleads guilty to this thing of "big leaguing" and also declares that the Auburn gang has a great line, weighing more than 200 pounds per man from tackle to tackle.

Answering a Question.

We have an inquiry from a fan which we take occasion to answer in this column because there seems to be a general misunderstanding regarding the point in question.

The fan asks if the five-yard penalty inflicted for the second incomplete forward pass is only incurred when the two incomplete passes are made on consecutive downs.

The answer is NO. The penalty is incurred on the second incomplete pass in any series of four downs. The rule reads as follows:

"If there has already been one or more illegal or incomplete passes in this series of four downs, the side which made such pass (forward pass) shall put the ball in play five yards back of the spot of the preceding down and the play shall count as a down. The point to be gained shall remain the same."

This answers the question. Even though a play through the line shall be sandwiched between two incomplete passes the penalty is incurred just the same.

Advisory Council Is Reorganized

Chicago, November 14.—(AP)—The major league baseball advisory council, established when K. M. Landis became commissioner, but operating only spasmodically while Ban Johnson remained head of the American league, reorganized today with E. S. Barnard in Johnson's place and John K. Heydler representing the National league.

The Rogers Hornsby-St. Louis Cardinals stock controversy was settled by the two league presidents and Judge Landis by enunciation of a rule that no player shall retain stock in one club after his transfer to another club in the same league, or else he becomes ineligible either to play or manage on his new club.

A player can hold stock in the club for which he is playing, the rule continues, only under a specific agreement approved by the advisory council.

Secret Work Held at Tech; 'Stumpy' Back

Second String Sent Through Open Workout Monday at Flats.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

The shyness displayed by Tech's varsity last week is still prevalent, it would seem, because Monday afternoon the Jackets went behind locked doors again and the idea was conveyed, in impressive fashion, that secret practice would continue until Saturday, December 3.

All of which means a great deal.

For one thing, the boys aren't talking about what they'll do when the season is over. They're cooking up something on the baseball field and whatever it is won't taste good to the Bulldogs.

Pointing to Georgia.

Of course, preparations are being made for Oglethorpe and Auburn, but the varsity—the team that started the second half against L. S. U. Saturday—is concerned mainly with this Georgia bunch that is to be met in some three weeks—more or less—from now.

Exactly what's going on at secret practice is something the varsity and Alex know about, but it is a safe guess that Alex is driving his squad on offense and that Tech's offense against Georgia will be unlike any offense shown this season. That, you will remember, happened last year.

Stumpy Thomason's shoulder is recovering and the duck-legged halfback will probably be shot into the Oglethorpe game Saturday just long enough for a good workout.

The second team—the one that started the game against Mike Donahue's gang—is practically out in the open and will face Oglethorpe at the kickoff Saturday. Those reserves showed plenty of power last Saturday and if Bob Parham and Bob Horne keep going like they were against the Tigers the team will be even better. The line performed in good fashion and Bill Fincher will improve it even more during the coming week.

Rats Working Hard.

Kid Clay had his freshman team on the field Monday afternoon. The rats trimmed a strong Auburn team in decisive fashion last Friday and have one game left—with the Georgia Bullpups the Saturday after Thanksgiving, and Kid is working them hard for the tilt. Kid was tickled over the way his freshmen were performing and from talking to him, one received the idea that he had the best freshman team that has been seen on the flats in several years. With such men as Lumpkin at full; Dunlap at half; Tom Jones and Marree in the line, Kid has a team that some college varsities would have a tough time subduing.

21 SANDLOT STARS PICKED FOR BIG GAME

Twenty-one players from different Atlanta sandlot elevens in the 125-pound class were named Monday to make the trip to Augusta for a game Saturday with a picked team from the Sandlot association of that city.

With the aid of the managers of local teams, officials selected two of the best players from each of the positions in the league for the invasion of Augusta. Practice for the Saturday sandlot classic will start this afternoon at Piedmont park and will continue until Thursday. Those selected to play on the team are requested to report for practice this afternoon at the park at 3:30 o'clock.

It was also announced that a meeting of the 105-pound class teams will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Sam Salzman's offices. The 140-pound teams will meet Wednesday night at the same time and place.

Following are the players named for the all-star eleven:

Centers—Ansley Woodall, Maddox, and John Manley, Northside.

GIRL CAGERS OPEN SEASON AT TAFT HALL

A large cheering crowd witnessed the three opening girls' basketball games of the Y. C. A. A. Monday at Taft hall. Miss Winnie Conliff proved the outstanding star by shooting 22 points in Patillo Memorial's 32-to-2 victory, in the opening game against Central Baptist. Western Heights came out a 12-to-4 winner over St. Luke. Misses Jenkins and Johnson led in the scoring in Avondale's 27 to 3 win from Central Presbyterian. The games were played under boys' rules with eight minute quarters.

Bulldog-Tide Classic Set for New Stadium

Turkey Day Game Switched From Rickwood Field at Birmingham to Municipal Stand.

Those football supporters of the University of Georgia and Alabama who had about given up hope of seeing the annual turkey day classic between these two teams in Birmingham because of the fact that all the reserved seats in Rickwood park had been disposed of will hail with delight the announcement from Birmingham Monday that it has been decided to transfer the game to the new municipal stadium.

Strong pressure in which The Constitution through a forceful editorial argument in Sunday's issue took a leading part, caused a meeting to be held Monday morning in Birmingham for the purpose of bringing about a change of site for the big game. This meeting was attended by Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia; George Woodruff, coach of Georgia; Wallace Wade, football mentor at the University of Alabama; Russell Cohen, assistant athletic director at Alabama; Billy West, of the Birmingham Baseball association, and R. S. Marshall, superintendent of the park and recreation board.

As a result of this change about 8,000 additional reserved seats will be available. It is also understood that stands will be erected in the end zones which will accommodate an additional 10,000 spectators. This will enable the stadium to seat something in the neighborhood of 30,000 fans at the game.

The stadium stockholders will be allowed to secure their allotment of 2,000 tickets. Those desiring tickets should get into communication with S. G. Swain, secretary of the park board. The entire ticket sale will be in charge of the park board. Mail orders will be received provided a certified check plus 25 cents for postage is enclosed.

The stadium will be renumbered for this game and those having purchased tickets for Rickwood field will get corresponding seats in the stadium. There will be no tickets exchanged. This will do away with much confusion. Holders of unreserved seats will be taken care of in seats extending to the 25-yard line on each side.

The University of Georgia office, which has been attempting to look after the many calls for tickets from the Georgia supporters, announced Monday night that those persons already having sent in checks for tickets on the Georgia side but who had not yet received their tickets, would be taken care of. Up to the time of the transfer of the game the Athens office had been swamped with requests which could not filled because of the limited seating capacity of Rickwood field.

Y Church Cage News

The "Y" Church Athletic association will hold an important basketball meeting Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 and all teams expecting to enter are requested to have a representative present. All details of organizing a league have been worked out and only the schedule remains to be made for the teams that have entered.

Scott League News.

Atlanta Joint Terminal has entered the City Basketball league and the Southern railway has withdrawn and will enter the Trammell Scott league. This will make six teams in the City league and eight in the Scott loop. It is absolutely necessary that all teams expecting to enter the City league be present at the business meeting Friday at Trammell Scott's, at 7:30. The final arrangements will be made.

Bout Postponed.

Boston, November 14.—(AP)—Illness of Red Chapman, featherweight contender, forced the postponement of his scheduled ten-round bout here tonight with Tony Canzoneri. A new date for the fight has not yet been set.

2 Star Backs Are Missing At Oglethorpe

Scrimmage Slated Today for Birds; Work Easy Monday.

BY FRED M'EACHIN.

With the time for the opening whistle rapidly approaching for the annual conflict with the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech here next Saturday, the Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe university went through their initial practice drill Monday in preparation for the event.

On Hermance field Monday afternoon the Petrels were put through their daily chores by Coach Harry Robertson, who seems determined to whip his charges into the best of shape to give the Jackets plenty of opposition for the encounter Saturday afternoon.

The workout was a strenuous one, although the scrimmages were deferred until today and Wednesday. The main events of the practice Monday was the running of signals by both the first and second teams. There was also a session of tackling the dummy, a phase of the game in which the Birds looked very poor against the Mercer Bears at Macon last Friday. The failure of the secondary defense to function properly against the onslaughts of the Mercer backs proved detrimental to the Petrels in their Armistice day game and they have undertaken to remedy this defect.

With such a foe as Georgia Tech confronting them in their next engagement, it would seem that the Petrels, who have not won but a single game this season, would be at ebb spirits. However, they appear to be in the most optimistic frame of mind and evidently are not suffering from a mental hazard which they most certainly have a right to be, with the most important game of the season near at hand and with two of their star backfield men out of the game.

The services of Bob Shepherd and Asa Wall, the two mainstays in the Petrel ball toting department, will be sorely missed when the Birds meet the Jackets. Shepherd is out on account of a broken ankle and Wall has been having some trouble with his knee. However, there is a slight possibility that Wall may round into shape in time for Saturday's melee.

New York, November 14.—(AP)—The cotton market was lower today under renewed liquidation, combined with southern and local selling, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, reports of warmer weather in the south and a less active demand after the rallies late last week. January contracts sold off to 19.66, or 28 points net lower, and closed at 19.70, the general market closing steady at net declines of 21 to 26 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 5 to 15 points in response to easier cables. Buying developed on the part of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 612,935 bales. China advices were more encouraging was supplied on bulges of 8 or 10 points and the market soon turned easier.

These consumption figures were somewhat above general expectations and their failure to bring in a more general or active demand was considered a disappointment to buyers of late last week. This may have accounted for some of the selling which followed the early rally and which sent prices about 27 to 30 points below Saturday's closing quotations. December liquidation in preparation for the first notice day toward the end of this month appeared to be a factor of some importance, although there was a demand for the near months from spot houses at a discount of about 25 points, as compared with March. December sold off to 19.59 and March to 19.83, the low point touched early in the afternoon, and while there were rallies of 18 or 20 points on covering they were not maintained, the close being within a few points of the lowest.

Trade interests were credited with buying cotton again today on scale down orders, but local brokers said the market showed evidences of a slightly easier technical position after the covering of late last week.

Private cables reported hedging and liquidation with a poor offtake in the Liverpool market and that while China advices were more encouraging for business in cotton cloths, yarns made of American cotton were being pressed for sale.

Exports today, 56,239, making 2,584,811 so far this season. Port receipts, 73,267. United States port stocks, 2,536,841.

MARKET REACTING ON DELIVERY NOTICE.

New Orleans, November 14.—(AP)—The cotton market here today was reactionary due to liquidation induced by the approach of the first notice day for December deliveries. The general market closed at net declines of 17 to 18 points.

January declined to 19.96, 13 points down, in the early trading, rallied to 20.10, eased off to 19.83, rallied to 20.07 and closed at 19.92, a drop of 17 points for the day. The jump to 20.07 was caused by fears of bad weather in the belt.

Near the opening of the market the census bureau reported domestic consumption during October as 612,935 bales, a record for the month.

Liverpool was 3 to 9 penny points lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 3 to 9 points, with the decline continuing until December went down to 19.93 and March to 20.07. After a 12 to 14 point rally the market turned easier on liquidation and dropped to 27 to 30 points under the early highs. Fear of bad weather brought about a 20 to 24-point advance, but this was lost when December later declined to 19.85 and March 20.01, a loss of nearly a dollar a bale for the day.

Exports 56,316 bales.

TRADE DIVERSIFIED ON CURB MARKET

New York, November 14.—(AP)—Widely diversified trading was accompanied by a strong tone in today's curb market, in which more than a score of issues marched into new high territory. No particular group took the lead, but practically all divisions participated in advances ranging from fractions to 6 points or more. A few issues late in the day lost part of their gains on profit-taking.

Pipe line shares continued to move forward, along with some of the oils. Standard of Indiana, selling ex-dividend, rose to 76 1-4 for the first time this year and Eureka, Indiana and Prairie Pipe Lines also reached their best 1927 figures. Rising prices in this group was the natural consequence of the heavy production of crude oil.

Utilities again reflected the current prosperity of the industry, buyers favoring such issues as American Gas & Electric, United Gas Improvement and Southeastern Power & Light.

Demand in the specialty division was distributed among both high and low-priced issues. Deere & Co. responded again to the heavy buying of farm implements, rising 15 points to 242. New peaks also were established by such miscellaneous stocks as Tubize Silks, Ohio Brass, Newmont Mining, General Ice Cream, General Baking "B," Celluloid preferred and American Rolling Mills.

Celanese issues continued to recede despite the strength of the subsidiary shares.

Servel 6 per cent bonds broke to a new low of 17 1-2, while the common stock duplicated its previous minimum of 10 cents a share.

Total stock sales shares.	2,106,900

New York, November 14.—(AP)—Curious cross currents of prices ran through today's stock market, but major speculative operations were again on the upside. A sudden demand for United States Steel common, which rallied from a low of 138 1-4 to 143 1-4 and closed just below that figure for a net gain of 4 points on the day, helped materially in bolstering bullish sentiment, and stimulating buying for both accounts in other quarters. Total sales again crossed the 2,000,000-share mark.

With the steel trade showing signs of marked improvement and indications of a substantial increase in the farm wealth of the country this year, coupled with a plethora of credit at easy rates, operators on the long side confidently continued to mark up their favorites. Fears of so-called "tax selling" in the closing weeks of the year, have dwindled considerably, and even the motor trade expects record-breaking production next year, despite the competition likely to be furnished by the new Ford models.

Call money continued in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3 1-2 per cent in the face of the calling of about $10,000,000 in bank loans, and the vast preparations incidental to the new government financing tomorrow. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Spirited bidding for mail order and mercantile shares was influenced by predictions of unprecedented holiday trade, particularly in the agricultural regions. Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Arnold Constable, Best & Co., Bloomingdale Bros., Julius Kayser and May Department Stores, all touched new 1927 highs, but not all of the gains, which ran as high as 6 points, were maintained.

Public utilities also presented numerous points of strength, new peaks in that group being established by Radio corporation, American Railway Express and Adams Express. The recent turn for the better in the copper industry was reflected in the demand for those shares, Magma and Kennecott reaching new high ground. International Harvester, which sold as low as 135 3-8 earlier in the year, continued its sensational gain by soaring 10 points to a new high at 249. American Machine and Foundry skyrocketed 11 points to 166, or a point below its record high price. Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, Gulf States Steel, Postum, Union Tank Car and United States Cast Iron Pipe sold 4 or more points higher.

Warren Bros., a recent strong spot, broke 5 points on realizing, and heavy selling of Gabriel Snubbers carried that issue down 4 1-2 points to 31 1-2 but it recovered nearly half the loss.

Speculative activity in the rails was confined to a few issues. Missouri Pacific preferred was run up to a new high at 113 in anticipation of an early announcement regarding details of plans to wipe out the accumulated dividends of nearly $50 on that issue, and Chesapeake & Ohio advanced 4 points to 214.

All the leading commodity markets except sugar were reactionary. Cotton fell back about $1 to $1.25 a bale on a renewal of southern selling, although the census bureau report on October mill consumption of 613,000 bales was regarded on the exchange as bullish. Wheat futures dropped about a cent a bushel on an increase in the visible supplies of the commodity. A reaction of 23 to 28 points in coffee was rather unusual and probably inspired by reports of larger stocks in Sao Paulo. Sugar was slightly firmer.

Establishment of a new low for the year by Japanese yen at 45.65 cents, or 13 points below last week's final quotation, and the continued firmness of sterling around the year's high of $4.87 1-16 for demand bills, divided interest in the foreign exchange market. Other changes were nominal.

Measure To Aid Farmer by Bank Law Is Proposed

Washington, November 14—(United News.)—Remedy for the agricultural situation must be found in a bank bill, Senator Brookhart, Iowa, asserted today.

Expressing the opinion that "65 per cent of the present farm discrimination is due to the control, manipulation and high cost of credit in the federal reserve banking system," Brookhart declared a farm bill alone would not provide a cure.

"The ordinary cost of bank credit for agriculture is excessive," the Iowan asserted, "and the federal reserve law is diverting most of the surplus credit of the country into speculation at a low rate of interest, while the farmers are compelled to pay a high rate of interest for their bank loans."

Pointing out that the federal reserve law was designed to deny speculative loans the rediscount privilege, Brookhart declared that instead of preventing accumulation of the country's surplus credit in New York banks the law operated to increase speculative loans from $768,000,000 to $3,674,000,000 over a ten-year period.

"This vast sum is loaned to gamblers in the stock market at about 4 per cent rate of interest," he asserted, adding, "the farmers are charged from 6 to 12 per cent, and even more in some places."

"It is an illogical and senseless situation to permit banks to make speculative loans and then outlaw them in the reserve bank. They should be outlawed all along the line."

Brookhart said the law should be changed, prohibiting any ordinary bank from paying any interest rate to another bank for redeposits and fixing the rediscount rate, preferably at 3 per cent.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, November 14.—The strength in a few individual stocks in the early afternoon, particularly American Can and Corn Products and Union Carbide, started a general covering movement in the late afternoon. A large short interest seemed to cover in steel, which in rather wild trading for this stock, got above 143, with smaller gains in some independent steels. There was also a strong demand for specialties such as General Asphalt and some of the store stocks, particularly Arnold Constable and Dry Goods. Good gains were registered in the equipments with American Steel Foundries reaching 50½. We believe this stock a good purchase at present levels, if for no other reason than that the dividend gives a good yield at present prices. In addition, however, there is a prospect of considerably better business in the coming year. Copper stocks were in good demand. International Harvester continued its sensational advance to new record highs. Chesapeake and Ohio reached 214 and Canadian Pacific 196 in the rail group. The hectic trading in certain stocks indicates considerable reduction in the short interest has taken place and some reaction now is likely to develop. However, there is no change indicated in the outlook for special issues.

HUBBARD BROS.

Although the market has improved a great deal technically there still seems to be a desire to liquidate long holdings which still remain in the market. Consequently our market was lower than Saturday's close and continued to remain quiet some 20 points under Saturday's figures. Toward the middle of the afternoon, however, contracts appeared to be a trifle scarce and local interests were short and small covering movement took place, causing prices to recover a great deal of the early losses. Toward the close the market met fresh selling which eased prices off again to round the low points of the day.

It cannot be denied, however, that the character of the buying continues good and that the market is improving its position daily. It may not be ready to advance at the moment, but we feel after some days of this trade buying that contracts will become scarcer and that the market will then be in a position to respond rapidly to any news of a bullish character. In the meantime, however, we do not look for any sustained advance.

Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: January 10.54; March 10.53.

ORVIS BROS.

The government report today showing 612,000 bales consumed in October is bullish insofar as it goes, but it does not show the more or less hidden part of the business, which is that goods are moving out slower than cotton is being consumed and it is predicated upon this that mill managers are considering curtailment plans. Stocks in mill warehouses were 1,327,000 October 31, against 1,118,000 September 30, and 1,213,000 October 31 last year. Active spindles number 32,497,000, against 32,604,000 October, 1926. There was hedge selling on the opening of the market, after which a spirited little rally developed on the consumption figures only to be lost again as the market was found to have only moderate demand, except as prices receded in the afternoon a rally followed, most of which was lost and left prices moderately above the day's lows. Failure of expected freezing weather to develop over the week-end was disappointing to bulls and no doubt included liquidation to some extent. We see nothing particular to encourage expectancy of any advancing prices just now but we believe it quite advisable to follow the trade's policy of scale down buying.

January Liverpool due 10.54.

Reports from Pittsburgh that the Pennsylvania railroad had completed plans to electrify its lines between that city and Altoona were denied by W. W. Atterbury, president, who said no such plans were under consideration.

New York, November 14.—(AP)—High-grade bonds continued in brisk demand today. Recent investment buying having cut deeply into the available supply, particularly in the railway group, prices responded smartly to the day's accumulation and a number of new high records resulted. Only a thin trickle of new issues arrived on the market as the week opened, so that little competition was offered to listed mortgages.

Firmness of treasury 3 3-8s, which reached 102 1-16 for the first time since they were issued, was attributed largely to demand by investors who have liquidated their second Liberty 4 1-4s. More than $750,000,000 of the second Liberties had been redeemed as the new week began, but owing to the wide distribution of the issue, it was expected that a large amount will remain outstanding on the call date tomorrow.

An unusual number of buying orders for Canadian Pacific 4s drove that issue up more than a point to a new high for the year, while Chesapeake Corporation 5s and Erie 5s also were heavily accumulated, the latter reaching 98 1-8 for the first time. Purchase of only a couple of bonds was sufficient to lift Union Pacific 4 1-2s more than a point to a new top at 105.

The trend in the industrial and utility groups was less uniform. Julius Kayser 5 1-2s, heavily bought, touched 107 3-8, a new peak, and International Telephone 4 1-2s duplicated their previous best price. Pathe 7s, on the other hand, retreated to a new low for the year.

Trading in the foreign list was well diversified, and prices were mixed. French obligations declined on realizing after last week's rally, and Italian issues eased off after scoring fractional advances in the earlier trading.

Chicago, November 14.—(AP)—With 2,099,000-bushel increase of the United States wheat visible supply announced today, offerings of wheat were more than could be readily absorbed. Besides, there was a prospect of rain in the southwest, where the domestic winter wheat crop is in need of moisture.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 3-8c to 1c net lower, corn 1-8c to 3-4c down, oats 1-4c to 1-2 to 5-8c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 15c.

Today's enlargement of the United States visible stock of wheat brought the total up to 90,783,000 bushels, against 73,626,000 bushels a year ago. An increase of 440,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage was a contributing bearish factor, and so likewise was slackness of demand today for wheat from North America. Meanwhile, advices were at hand that the Argentine harvest was making favorable progress and that southern hemisphere crop conditions as a whole indicate probable yields such that North America could easily take care of any shortage.

Rallies in wheat prices here, ascribed to strength shown by the Winnipeg market and to wintry conditions northwest, failed to prove of a lasting character, and it was pointed out that although the Canadian government crop estimate shows a reduction instead of an increase from last month the yield indicated is the second largest on record. Under such circumstances, despite considerable buying here against sales at Winnipeg to close spreads, the Chicago market finished at virtually the day's lowest level.

Notwithstanding that wet weather over Iowa and Illinois reduced country offerings of corn to almost nothing, corn prices averaged lower, continuing to reflect the sensationally bearish showing of the latest official crop figures. Oats demand was less brisk, and the oats stock in Chicago showed 450,000 bushel increase.

Provisions were irregular, lard developing late firmness on account of talk about likelihood of a liberal decrease being shown in the amount of lard on hand here.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Early Threatens Washington.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

IN SPITE OF ALL GRANT'S EFFORTS, THE CONFEDERATES CONTINUED TO HOLD PETERSBURG. THE UNION ARMY SINCE CROSSING THE RAPIDAN HAD LOST 75,000 MEN, BUT THIS GREAT SACRIFICE WAS NOT IN VAIN. LEE'S ARMY HAD LOST MANY MEN, AND THE CONFEDERATE GOVERNMENT WAS UNABLE TO REPLACE THEM.

IN JULY, 1864, WHILE GRANT LAY BEFORE PETERSBURG, LEE SENT GEN. JUBAL EARLY WITH A STRONG FORCE TO THREATEN WASHINGTON BY WAY OF THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY, IN THE HOPE OF DRAWING OFF THE FEDERALS. EARLY SWEPT THROUGH THE VALLEY, DRIVING SIGEL'S SMALL UNION FORCE BEFORE HIM.

THE CONFEDERATES CROSSED THE POTOMAC, DEFEATED LEW WALLACE AT THE MONOCACY, AND ON JULY 11TH WERE CLOSE TO THE FEDERAL CAPITAL. AT THE CRITICAL MOMENT, TROOPS FROM GRANT'S ARMY REACHED THE CITY AND THE INVADERS, FINDING WASHINGTON STRONGLY DEFENDED, RETIRED.

GEN. EARLY ELUDED PURSUIT AND ESCAPED TO STRASBURG, VIRGINIA. JULY 19TH HE AGAIN MOVED NORTHWARD, DEFEATED A BODY OF FEDERALS AT KERNSTOWN, AND SENT McCAUSLAND'S CAVALRY ON A RAID INTO PENNSYLVANIA. THIS FORCE COLLECTED SUPPLIES AND BURNED CHAMBERSBURG FOR ITS FAILURE TO PAY A CONTRIBUTION.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New Year's High Reached by Southern Railway — Barnum Thinks Dividend Could Be Increased From 7 to 8 Per Cent. New Offering of Common Stock With Rights to Shareholders Expected, However.

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, November 14.—Stock exchange money opened at 3 1-2 per cent despite the $15,000,000 gold purchased by Portland following the recent purchase of $30,000,000 of the yellow metal by Brazil and today's withdrawal by the treasury of $147,000,000 deposits, including $55,000,000 from the banks of this district, in preparation for the November 15 government financing. Stimulated by continued easy money and optimistic sentiment regarding the outlook for general trade American Can, International Harvester, Southern Railway and a few other shares made new 1927 highs.

Wall street heard from Detroit that Ford worked 5,000 men yesterday in his Highland Park plant, which is turning out parts for the new car. This is the first Sunday work done by this plant in some two years. The consensus of opinion in Wall street as well as in Detroit, Cleveland and other manufacturing centers is that both the automobile industry and general trade will show improvement with Ford back in heavy production.

It was learned today that W. C. Durant is figuring on a merger with several small automobile manufacturers. Negotiations have reached the stage where representatives of the interested plants are gathering around one table to discuss terms. It is understood that so far the discussion has been on the basis of an exchange for Hupmobile shares with no new financing. Besides Hupmobile the other interested companies include Moon, Chandler, Gardner, Jordan, Peerless and Star. It is proposed that the new company will have a capital of $100,000,000. Durant is following the lines he adopted in forming General Motors.

No New Wells.

National Supply Manufacturing Well Equipment reports for the September quarter net income of $369,000 against $1,402,000 for the corresponding period for last year. For the nine months net income was $2,034,000 against $3,157,000 for the corresponding period of 1926. This falling off in earnings is understood by Wall street to reflect curtailment in drilling of new wells and hence it is accepted as favorable to oil company shares which have been suffering stock market weakness from over-production of crude and refined oil.

DuPont's meeting of directors, scheduled for today, was postponed until next Monday. DuPont now has 3,992,000 shares of General Motors and will, therefore, get $14,975,000 from the recently declared General Motors dividend. DuPont has had no increase in dividend or split-up since the General Motors split two for one. DuPont's policy has been to pass along to its shareholders anything extra received from its holdings of General Motors.

When American Can was selling around $40 a share early this year all the talk heard was about heavy inventories being carried. With the stock now selling above 70, Wall street is full of rumors that the heavy inventories have been worked off at good prices and that an extra dividend will be declared before the end of 1927. American Can does not publish current earnings and does not report gross in its annual reports, these statements beginning with operating income. No official information is available, therefore, to show how much earnings are being put back into plants. According to the rumors now being heard the company is now earning profits on a very large sum of current income spent for improvements and betterments.

American Can may get an extra dividend but it would seem that such news has been discounted. A stock paying $2 annual dividends and selling at 70 offers an income of only 2.90 per cent.

LAUNDRY OWNERS MEET IN MACON

Macon, Ga., November 14.—(AP)—The Georgia division of the Laundry Owners' association convened here today for its annual session with a number of laundry owners attending. D. W. Corbin, eastern representative of the national association, and C. R. Ross, Charlotte, N. C., director of the southeastern division, were the chief speakers this morning.

Corbin discussed the need of the laundry owners using advertising to promote their business. He spoke at length on the necessity of advertising. Ross also discussed cooperative advertising as mapped out by the national association.

The speaker this afternoon was Dr. I. E. McKellar, of Macon, teacher at Wesleyan college. An open forum followed, presided over by Carl Knight, of Atlanta. A. H. Hardy, vice president of the southeastern division, composed of Georgia, Florida and Carolina, is presiding.

ROBLES RELEASED IN OBREGON PLOT

Mexico City, November 14.—(AP)—If there was an organized plot to assassinate General Obregon, candidate for the presidency, the police have not revealed the names of "the men higher up." Miguel Alessio Robles, prominent in the political party which opposed Obregon's candidacy, was released today after having been arrested Sunday night and held for examination. The police found nothing to connect him with the attempt against Obregon's life.

Unofficially it is reported that other arrests have been made, but information has been withheld until investigations are completed.

Of the four men in the murder car who attempted to kill General Obregon, one, Antonio Tirado, has died from his wounds. Another is in a serious condition. A third man, who was captured directly after the attempt—Francisco Olivero—may be released, the police being inclined to believe his story that he was an innocent bystander, and ran away when the shooting began. If Olivero is released it means that two, instead of one, of the bombers escaped.

BOARD WILL STUDY OIL OVERPRODUCTION

Washington, November 14.—(United News.)—For the purpose of studying overproduction of oil, a committee has been appointed, at the suggestion of Secretary of the Interior Work, by the National Bar association.

The committee will devote its attention to considering laws and proposals for the conservation of mineral resources in the United States and will cooperate in this study with other organizations having similar purposes, it was announced.

Nine men were named on the committee as follows: Chairman, Chester I. Long, Wichita, Kans.; James A. Vessey, Tulsa, Okla.; James W. Finley, Bartlesville, Okla.; F. C. Proctor, Houston, Texas; Henry M. Bates, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; Paul N. Cregg, Los Angeles; Clarence N. Martin, Martinsburg, W. Va.; John P. Gray, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

COURTS TO HANDLE BED CO. FINANCING

That plenty of southern capital is available for financing southern business is being proved by Courts & Co., investment banking house of Atlanta, which has just concluded arrangements with the Southern Spring Bed company, also of Atlanta, for additional financing involving the sum of half a million dollars.

This additional capitalization of $500,000 is in the form of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, preferred both as to assets and dividends. Its par value is $100 per share. Proceeds of the issue will be used to retire the company's outstanding first mortgage gold bonds and preferred stock and to increase working capital. No mortgage or funded debt of any kind can be placed against properties of the company as long as this new issue of preferred stock is outstanding.

This preferred stock is a new form of financing, with the safeguards of a bond issue, but carrying exemption from city, state and county taxes when held by Georgia residents.

Additional proof of the ability of southern investments bankers to handle large stock issues and to finance or refinance big southern businesses is found in the refinancing plan which Courts & Co. recently worked out for the White Provision company of Atlanta, a large meat packing concern. Every dollar of the sum involved in this transaction was raised in the south and in unusually quick time Courts & Co. has also raised large amounts for other well-known southern businesses—proof that the south is sold on the south as the great manufacturing center of the United States.

The Southern Spring Bed company, for which the new stock issue is being handled, was organized in 1883 with a capital of $20,000, and from this original capitalization the now large capital of the company has been built up almost exclusively through earnings.

The Southern Spring Bed company is the oldest and the largest manufacturer of beds, springs and mattresses south of the Ohio river. Its assets at the close of 1926 were six times as great as in 1916; its sales in 1926 seven times as large as in 1916 and the year 1927 showed month by month splendid gains over 1926.

Ownership and management of the company has been vested in the same families since the founding of the company 44 years ago. Sons of the founders are now in active charge of the management. Robert Schwab is president; Richard Schwab is vice president, and Jack Pappenheimer is secretary and treasurer.

Early advances in raw futures, which reflected the firmness of the London market and private advices reporting that Colonel Tarafa, of Cuba, and European delegates at the convention held in Paris had agreed to curtail the production of sugar were followed by reactions in raw sugar futures. Houses with European and Cuban connections were the principal buyers and prices advanced to 6 points early, but after this buying had subsided, offerings increased and reactions followed, with the close 1 to 2 points net higher. Approximate sales, 60,000 tons. December closed 2.91; January, 2.93; March, 2.88; May, 2.96; July, 3.03; September, 3.11.

There were no changes in refined sugar, with quotations at 5.80 for fine granulated. A fair withdrawal demand was reported, although new business was light.

Cottonseed Oil.

New York, November 14.—The cottonseed oil market was quiet today, but the undertone was easy under December liquidation and commission house selling, in sympathy with the decline in cotton. Final prices were 5 to 15 points net lower. Sales, 7,600 barrels. Prime crude 9.12½; prime summer yellow spot 10.70; December closed 10.81; January 10.88; March 11.04; May 11.20; June 11.30.

DOCTOR SCORES ANTI-VIVISECTORS

Memphis, November 14.—(AP)—Anti-vivisectors were taken to task by Dr. J. Shelton Horsley, of Richmond, Va., president of the Southern Medical association, in an address tonight before the 21st annual convention of that body.

He named some of the noted medical men who have sacrificed their own lives in the study of disease in order that others might be saved and then asked:

"Yet, with such examples by the pioneers of research, does it not seem strange that those who complain of research work on animals as unjustifiable should disregard these noble human sacrifices of health and of life and continue to adorn themselves with plumes plucked from beautiful birds killed for the millinery establishments or delight in the delectable fried chicken whose neck has recently been wrung by the cook in the back yard?"

Dr. Horsley, speaking on the subject, "Research and Medical Progress," said "it is difficult to conceive the mental attitude of one who indulges in animal diet and in the products that are derived from the slaughter of animals and yet objects to the painless performance of a few animal experiments that may save countless human lives."

"Have you ever tried to hold one of the books students must read during their first year?" inquired Dr. Stewart R. Roberts, of Atlanta. "One of them has 30,000 pages. We try to teach our students too much in too short a time."

THREE MEN HELD IN GIBBS SLAYING

Mount Vernon, Ga., November 14.—(AP)—Three men are under arrest, charged with murder, following the killing of Flournoy Gibbs, 25, here yesterday afternoon at the county jail. The three men are J. Y. Nordeck, L. N. Thompson and T. H. Wright. Gibbs was killed by members of a possee which had been sworn in by Sheriff McRae and had been in search of Gibbs. The warrants charging murder were sworn out by members of the dead man's family. A hearing will be held shortly.

Gibb went to the county jail yesterday with the declared intention of recovering his automobile which, according to the sheriff, had been taken near the scene of an incendiary fire.

A series of barn fires here stirred local officials to seek Gibbs who was believed to be the man setting them ablaze.

The sheriff's office attributes the fires to Gibbs' revenge against members of a grand jury, which last week indicted him on charges of bootlegging. Since the indictment Gibbs had not been found.

When he approached the jail yesterday to recover his car a posse was awaiting. Gibbs was armed. One member of the posse, in ordering Gibbs to throw up his hands, fired a gun in the ground to frighten Gibbs. Gibbs reached for his own pistol and was shot down as he attempted to draw it.

The funeral will take place this afternoon. Gibbs is survived by a widow.

Judge John S. Candler Buys 2,500-Acre Farm South of Hawkinsville

Hawkinsville, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—One of the largest and most important real estate deals to take place in this section is that of the sale of the Massell farms to Judge John S. Candler, of Atlanta, which is announced here. The Massell farms embody about 2,500 acres and are located about six miles south of Hawkinsville on the Dixie highway. Judge Candler bought the farm out-and-out, stock and all, and will operate it on a large scale.

AMERICAN IDEALS URGED BY HEINZ

Hollywood, Fla., November 14.—(AP) Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, Ga., president of Kiwanis International, entered plea for commercial integrity, peaceful arbitration of business disputes, American ideals as opposed to those of the anarchist and the iconoclast and public participation in the affairs of the government, in an address before the Florida State Kiwanis convention here today.

He declared himself and the organization unalterably opposed to abuse of the bankruptcy laws; to cancellation of contract without mutual consent; to misleading advertising and to commercial bribery.

Commercial and industrial arbitration have Kiwanis approval, he said.

President Heinz deplored conditions which he said had made "what we are pleased to term the better class of business men" too busy to assist in government. He condemned the jury duty dodger along with the man who is too busy to vote or hold office. "What right has the man who will not lend his aid to better things to complain against dirty politics?" he asked.

THOUSANDS SLAIN BY PROHI AGENTS

New York, November 14.—(AP)—Senator Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey, in an article published today in the December issue of the magazine Plain Talk, estimated that the toll of lives taken by prohibition agents "must run into four figures."

Senator Edwards said that no nation-wide research has been made to establish the accuracy of his estimate, adding "As long as prohibition lasts statistics will never catch up with the number of persons killed by prohibition officers, federal, state and municipal."

"The federal men to date," he said, "have slain about 200, and I have read the 'dispositions' from the treasury department by 152 killings by federal agents, with some 84 other cases where deaths have occurred at the hands of local officers."

The cause of the large number of killings in the enforcement of prohibition he declared "lies in the character of the men who enforce it; grafters and busybodies."

General Lincoln C. Andrews' statistics of discharged prohibition agents up to February 1, 1926, Senator Edwards said, revealed that 875 men of a standing staff of 3,600 were discharged "for all sorts of scoundrelism," including 215 for intoxication and misconduct, and 123 for extortion, bribery or soliciting money.

SCOT FREED AFTER 18 YEARS IN JAIL

Glasgow, Scotland, November 14. (United News.)—Oscar Slater was freed today after serving 18 years in Peterhead penitentiary upon his conviction in 1908 for the murder of aged Miss Marian Gilchrist.

Pardoned a few days ago, Slater had expected to remain in jail for another two weeks and his sudden release was a surprise to him.

He was taken from the prison at 3 p. m. in an automobile, accompanied by Rabbi E. P. Phillips, of Glasgow, who had offered him his home.

Slater and the rabbi drove to the station where they entrained for Glasgow, where friends had prepared an enthusiastic welcome.

Eighteen years imprisonment had not changed Slater materially, his moustache and the hair around his temples had greyed, and his features were somewhat drawn and haggard.

He intends to devote his life to proving his innocence, he said.

Slater's release was effected by years of investigation undertaken by Sherlock Holmes in the person of his creator, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. It came only a day after the disclosure that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of a prominent Englishman, known only by the initials "A. B.," who is said to have been implicated by the original statement in 1908 of Helen Lambie, Miss Gilchrist's maid.

'HARVESTING NIGHT' DINNER IS PLANNED BY SECOND BAPTIST

A "Harvesting Night" dinner, at which time final reports on the forward campaign of the Second Baptist church to raise funds to pay off a church indebtedness and with which to make a 1928 church financial budget, will be given at the church Wednesday night with a special program arranged.

Among the speakers on the program will be Fred W. Patterson, general chairman of the campaign; Phil McDuffie and Rev. Carter Helm Jones, pastor of the church. Mrs. Fred J. Paxon, president of the Business Women's league and Mrs. G. E. Cooper will be in charge of the dinner.

Business Club To Meet.

Members of the American Business club will hold their regular meeting at 1 o'clock today in the Henry Grady hotel ball room. The program will be in charge of G. M. Phillips.

Hoke Smith P.-T. A. Meets Thursday.

The Hoke Smith Junior High P.-T. A. meets Thursday, November 17, in the gymnasium. Miss Anne England, who is the head of mathematics department, will be the speaker, her subject being "Home Study Habits." Miss England is highly qualified to discuss any phase of education, having been called to fill H. O. Bixler's place during his absence last year, he having spent the year in research work at Columbia university.

The three sections of teachers will assemble in class rooms at 2:15 p. m. for a 30-minute conference prior to the opening of the meeting in the gym at 2:45 o'clock.

New York, November 14.—(AP)—The Radio Corporation of America announced receipt of a radiogram at 10:50 a. m. today from the master of the French liner Ile de France, at sea, reporting the sighting of a white airplane "traveling very high overhead."

The radio company said the French captain reported the plane was traveling west northwest. The ship's position was given as latitude 42.22 north, longitude 61.05 west, or about 100 miles south-southwest of Sable Island.

LISTEN TO ME!

All right, let it stay warm. I'm going to do business anyhow. Been holding on to 600 medium weight union suits hoping that it would get as cold as a polar bear's nose, when I could make a little "jack." I don't mind tellin' you that I paid $12.00 a dozen at the mill for 'em and was going to slip 'em to you for $1.50 a suit, 'cause they're worth it, but this confounded weather hangin' on so long, I'm goin' to turn 'em loose now for 99c a suit. It don't make no difference to me, 'cause my livin's made anyhow. When a fellow's been in this rag business more than thirty years, 600 union suits don't mean nothin' to him when he wants to start something, and that's what I'm goner do this morning. If you can't come I bet you'll send for 'em. 99c will be the price today instead of $1.50. Sizes 34 to 48. Don't be scared of 'em, Mr. Doubtin' Thomas; you know—What Metcalf says is so! And if you don't like 'em, after you're worn 'em a week, bring 'em back and get your money. But wash 'em.

Oh, yes, I got STYLE PLUS SUITS, KNIT COATS, OVERCOATS, TOPCOATS, SHIRTS, SOX and HATS, and I can save you about half, if you're willin' to pay cash and carry 'em home. You know a little "jack" goes a long ways with me.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. METCALF (Owner).

LINDBERGH HEADS ATLANTIC PILOTS

Washington, November 14.—(AP)—The first club in history of trans-oceanic fliers was formed here tonight at a reception given by Assistant Secretary MacCracken, of the commerce department.

The club, said Lieutenant George Haldeman, pilot of the American Girl, was named the International Trans-Oceanic Pilots' association. Its first president in Charles A. Lindbergh, while Ernest Hegenberger, one of the two who first flew from California to Hawaii, was named vice president.

Edward F. Schlee, who flew with Walter S. Brock to England, said Haldeman, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The club includes as charter members all those who in the past year have survived trans-oceanic flights, including Miss Ruth Elder.

Cooper To Seek Measure Against Blazes of Films

While preparations were being perfected Monday for interment of Edna Adeline Cleaton, 6, who died Sunday in a fire on Marietta street, the result of a cigarette being cast into a pile of motion picture film clippings, W. Garland Cooper, councilman from the tenth ward, initiated a move designed to prevent further accidents from fires of that origin.

He announced that he will seek an ordinance requiring owners of picture houses to destroy clippings to keep them from falling into the hands of innocent children not acquainted with the high inflammability of the texture.

He was joined in the move designed to protect the lives of children and reduce fire hazards by Fire Chief William B. Cody.

Funeral services for the child will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The Rev. G. C. Light will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

UNKNOWN NEGRO KILLED IN PISTOL FRAY WITH POLICE

An unidentified negro man was shot and killed in a gun battle with police early Monday morning, following his arrest after having broken into the grocery of J. Russ at 367 Edgewood avenue, according to police reports.

Police were called to investigate the robbery and followed a trail of spilled flour to the residence of 65-B Yonge street, where they found the negro with loot, said to have been taken from the Russ grocery. The negro was turned over to Patrolman L. E. Ratledge, who was preparing to take him to police station, when the negro broke away and began firing at Officer C. E. Floyd. Ratledge's partner, it was reported. A gun battle followed with the officers chasing the negro, who fell mortally wounded in front of 169 Hilliard street, the officers reported.

MRS. HATTIE SHAMBERG INJURED BY AUTO

Mrs. Hattie Shamberg, of 487 Central place, was treated at Grady hospital Monday night for injuries received when struck down by an automobile at Trinity avenue, near Pryor street, as she was going to Central Night school. The automobile which struck Mrs. Shamberg was driven by Sam Cutler, of 600 Marietta street, who reported to Patrolman J. F. Whelchel that he was driving east on Trinity avenue.

Mrs. I. Ballenger, of 483 Pulliam street, was knocked down in front of her home by an automobile driven by H. W. Powell, of 1501 South Gordon street. She was taken to her home and placed under the care of a family physician. Call Officers E. E. Brackett and M. D. Cartwright investigated.

NEGROES WOUND ROGERS MANAGER

One of the most daring holdups to come to attention of the Atlanta police department was reported Monday night when two negro men entered an L. W. Rogers grocery at 559 North boulevard; held up Manager W. B. Wallace, of 524 Lroyles street; the butcher, H. N. Mann, of 478 North Jackson street, and a customer and escaped with $100. After securing the loot one of the negro men slashed Mr. Wallace on the back of the neck with a sharp instrument. He was taken to Grady hospital, where several stitches were necessary to his wound.

Detectives C. L. Taylor and W. J. Stephens were told that the negroes entered the store just as Mr. Wallace was preparing to lock the front door and commanded him to walk to the rear with hands raised. The butcher was in the large ice box and as he came out he, too, was commanded to "get in the rear of the store" while the robbery was going on.

A customer whose name was not learned entered about that time and was commanded to keep quiet, which he did, and probably saved himself of being robbed of $75.

PLAYFUL MAUDE.

Elephant Likes to Pick Off Hats for Fun.

Little Emily McNelley, 3-year-old daughter of James B. McNelley, of 6 Emory drive, just had to see Maude, the elephant at Grant Park zoo Sunday, but when her wish was complied with she received such a thrill that she is "off" of elephants for life.

Mr. McNelley was holding the little girl up to see Maude when his attention was distracted from the elephant for a moment, and in the next few seconds he felt something heavy encircling his neck. Mr. McNelley dropped to the pavement with the child to protect her, and looked up in time to see Maude triumphantly waving his hat in the air with her trunk.

Maude occasionally gets playful and grabs a hat from to foo venturesome persons, but has not indulged in this pastime for a long period up to Sunday, her keepers explained.
